Murphy Dies; Justice, 59, Succumbs to Heart Attack

High Court Member; New Deal Official Stricken in Detroit; Congress Adjourns

Frank Murphy, 59-year-old Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and long a New Deal figure, died unexpectedly yesterday at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

A nurse found him semi-conscious in bed at 8:45 a. m. and he died 45 minutes later of a coronary occlusion, a heart affliction. He had been going to the hospital "about a month" for heart tests, according to Dr. Wayne Parkinson, assistant superintendent. Monday evening Justice Murphy arrived to spend the night but had planned to leave yesterday for the family home at Harbor Beach, Mich.

Shortly after announcement of his death, Congress adjourned for the day, and messages of condolence began to pour in.

The Supreme Court announced funeral services will be held at noon Friday at Harbor Beach. High requiem mass will be sung at Our Lady of Lake Huron Catholic Church, with burial at the Harbor Beach Cemetery.

The court's announcement added that "it is asked that flowers be omitted."

Message From President

President Truman sent this message to Murphy's brother George of Detroit:

"The Nation which he served with fidelity and distinction as a member of its highest court will join with his native State in a tribute of grief to a great civic leader.

"Frank Murphy had served as mayor of one of the country's largest cities in a critical period, as Governor of Michigan, and as Attorney General of the United States before he was elevated to the bench of the Supreme Court.

"As a member of our highest judicial tribunal, his opinions were ever tempered with a deep sense of justice and righteousness and an abiding love for his fellow man.

"He will be deeply missed and widely mourned as a jurist, as a citizen and as a humanitarian. To you and to his sorrowing sister I offer this assurance of heartfelt sympathy."

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson said:

"A courageous fight comes to an end. For months, Justice Murphy walked in the great shadow—unafraid. Even so, his death is a severe shock to me.

"An outstanding career, climaxed with service on the court, may be noted as an example for the youth of our country. His definitive philosophy in respect of the rights of his fellows was never deterred by criticism, either past or prospective.

"His kindness of heart and spirituality of soul will never be effaced from the memory of his friends. Missing the warmth of his friendship will be a deep personal loss."

Justice Harold H. Burton called

Van Bittner Dies at 64; Vice President of CIO

Pittsburgh, July 19 (AP).—Van A. Bittner, veteran labor leader and vice president of the CIO, died tonight in Mercy Hospital. He entered the hospital July 7 for treatment of a heart ailment. He was 64.

Bittner was taken ill in Atlanta, Ga., several months ago while directing a Southern organizing campaign. After a rest in Florida, he spent some time in a hospital in New York City and then was brought to his home in suburban Crafton.

Born in Bridgeport, Pa., a western Pennsylvania coal town, Bittner began digging coal at the age of 11 and embarked upon a career which gradually led to the high command of the CIO.

He was connected with labor unions for 48 of his 64 years.

Five years after he entered the mines—when he was 16—Bittner was elected president of his local. At 26 he became president of United Mine Workers District 5, comprising a dozen of the rich western Pennsylvania coal producing coutnies.

The years that followed were lean ones for the union. He led the 1916 UMW drive to organize the miners in Kentucky and Tennessee; in 1920 he headed that union's activities in the Birmingham, Ala., soft coal fields, and from 1924 on he was the union's top representative in West Virginia.

Working closely with him through the years was Philip Murray, now president of the United Steelworkers of America and the CIO.

When the CIO drive to organize steel was launched in 1936, Bittner took an active part. He has served as vice president of the United Steelworkers of America since it was founded.

He led some of the most far-reaching organizing drives in American union history. The bitter campaign of the miners' union to organize the difficult West Virginia field was under his direction.

Local peace officers, private guards and Baldwin-Felts detectives fought their efforts in the West Virginia field. Frequently Bittner and Murray would stand out in a clearing and shout eloquently at the underbrush from behind which a few scared miners now and then would peep.

In the late 1930s and early 1940s Bittner took charge of the steel union drive to organize Bethlehem Steel, which culminated in one of the largest labor board elections in its history. The steelworkers won by an overwhelming majority.

He declined an appointment to the U. S. Senate in January, 1941, to succeed Senator M. M. Neely, then newly elected West Virginia Governor, for an unexpired term.

Truman May Tip Balance in Court Choice

Opportunity to Set Course of Tribunal Seen One of Decade

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

In filling the new Supreme Court vacancy, President Truman has the greatest opportunity in a decade to set the course of the high tribunal.

In 1940, Frank Murphy was Franklin D. Roosevelt's fifth appointment to the court, succeeding the conservative Pierce Butler and assuring a New Deal majority for the first time.

Murphy's successor will be Trumans' third appointment to the bench, with six Roosevelt justices remaining. But it will be the most important of all the Truman appointments because of the closely divided nature of the court, resulting in a recent host of 5-to-4 and often 4-to-4 decisions.

In most of the 5-to-4 decisions, Murphy was part of the majority along with his fellow liberals, Justices Black, Douglas and Rutledge. The four usually managed to win a fifth to their point of view. Naming of a more conservative jurist, such as Chief Justice Vinson or Justice Burton, the two previous Truman appointments, would throw the balance the other way.

Such a choice could bring a series of reversals of recent decisions. The New Deal court has reversed a number of earlier, more conservative rulings.

Speculation on a new justice quickly began yesterday when news of Murphy's death reached the Capital. Most of the names mentioned were of persons to the "right" of Murphy, an uncompromising liberal idealist on the bench.

Since Murphy was the court's only Catholic, precedent, and political considerations as well, strongly call for a Catholic to re-

Brannan Plan 'Trial' Hopes Seem Doomed

Senate Group, House Coalition Reject Hog, 3 Crop Projects

Congress yesterday dashed Administration hopes that a "trial run" on the Brannan farm program would be approved this year.

A Senate Agriculture subcommittee sidetracked a proposal to let the Administration use hogs to test its new plan for keeping farm income high while permitting certain retail food prices to drop.

In the House, a powerful Republican-Southern Democratic coalition flatly rejected a last-minute compromise advanced by Administration supporters in an effort to obtain enough votes to pass a three-crop trial run.

The twin actions appeared to doom the legislation unless there is an unexpected switch in sentiment on the part of sizeable blocs in both houses which either oppose or are indifferent to the Brannan plan.

Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.) said flatly that the Administration plan is dead for this year. He predicted that Congress will retain the "basic principles" of his flexible farm price support law

Hagerstown's GOP Mayor Receives Threats on Life

Hagerstown, Md., July 19 (AP).—Mayor Herman L. Mills said tonight he had received two anonymous telephone threats against his life as the result of his antigambling campaign.

"Neither this or anything else will deter me from the discharge of my plain duties," the mayor said in a broadcast over station WJEJ.

The mayor's broadcast reviewed the controversy which followed police raids on 11 fraternal organizations and clubs last Friday. About 75 slot machines containing $3709 were confiscated and stored in the city hall.

No action has been taken against the clubs. The policemen were briefed by the mayor before the raids.

Mills was elected mayor on the Republican ticket this year.

Transfer of Play Facilities To Board Approved by Krug

By John London
Post Reporter

Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug yesterday approved the District Recreation Board's proposal for transfer to the board of play facilities here which are now controlled by the Interior Department.

The board will meet at 9:30 a. m. today to adopt officially the proposal: by-law changes providing gradual elimination of segregation.

Adoption of the changes would clear the way for negotiations between the board and Interior's National Park Service for transfer of the recreational areas. These include:

Five golf courses, more than 50 tennis courts, the Hains Point bicycle concession and the Tidal Basin boating concession.

The board is expected to agree to nonsegregation of all these Interior facilities except the pools. It has stated it would establish nonsegregation at the golf courses, if turned over; it currently issues permits for free city tennis courts on a nonsegregated basis, and is expected to suggest nonsegregation at boating and bike concessions.

Two weeks ago the board voted to operate the six Interior pools, if handed over, on a segregated basis. In line with this stand, Recreation Superintendent Milo F. Christiansen said he would recommend today that four pools be operated for whites, two for Negroes. The pools were so used until this year.

U. S. Factory Profits Skid Half-Billion

By The Associated Press

Profits of manufacturing corporations skidded downward about $550,000,000 during the first three months of this year as compared with 1948's last quarter, a Government report estimated last night. The drop was about 18 per cent.

A survey released by the Federal Trade and Securities and Exchange Commissions laid the slump to falling sales that more than offset lower operating costs.

Business normally experiences a first-quarter sales decline as contrasted to high-level holiday buying in closing months of a previous year.

16% Below '48 Period

The two-agency survey stated, however, that profits for this year's first quarter were 16 per cent, or more than 400 million dollars below the corresponding three months in 1948.

All profit estimates in the study were made after deductions for income tax payments, the report said.

The agencies placed at $2,400,000,000 total corporate profits for the 1949 January-through-March period. This compared with $2,925,000,000 for the last quarter of 1948. The $2,400,000,000 profits for 1949's first three months compared with about $2,800,000,000 during the corresponding quarter of last year.

The findings covered 22 industries in all types of manufacturing.

$39 Billion Sales

The report placed first-quarter 1949 sales at 39 billion dollars, as against the near-record $42,800,000,000 during the last three months of 1948. However, sales for the first three months of this year maintained a comparable level with 1948's first quarter.

The survey showed all but two of the 22 industries included in the study showed declines in profits. The largest drops occurred in companies manufacturing textile mill products, rubber goods and fabricated metal products. The two groups that are listed with increased nets are those manufacturing apparel and those engaged in printing and publishing.

According to the report, manufacturing corporations' total assets were estimated at 109 billion dollars at the end of March, 1949. Stockholders' equity amounted to 76 billion dollars.

The largest corporations covered in the survey, the agencies asserted, experienced the greatest decline in profits. In contrast, according to the survey, the smallest corporations—those with assets under $250,000—showed profit increases.

Distress Cause Cited

Cutbacks in textile and small manufacturing activity are major causes of distress in the 10 areas chosen for the Federal Government's initial pump-priming program, an Associated Press survey indicated yesterday.

However, several of the surplus-labor zones noted a turn for the better in the past few weeks.

Textile plants and shoe factories were calling back furloughed workers and preparing for the new season. Fabricators of metal products

Stockpiling Data Release Is Criticized

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Pentagon officials yesterday expressed concern over the release on Capitol Hill of some confidential data on the status of the Nation's stockpile of strategic materials.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), who is leading a fight to drastically cut back the stockpiling program, made public a list of the items in short supply, showing what we have and the amounts officially estimated as needed in case of war.

Describing the existing stockpiling policies as "cockeyed," the Oklahoman wants to rescind 600 million of the 835 million dollars already appropriated this year to lay in additional emergency supplies of the scarce materials.

Military officials were reluctant to comment on Senator Thomas' action in reading the classified data to reporters from a sheet marked "confidential."

Seen Aid to Potential Foe

But one top officer, who asked that his name not be used, declared:

"The objectives and amounts on hand in the stockpiling program always have been confidential.

"We don't want a potential enemy to know our shortages. They could not only take steps to counter some of our overseas programs, but if they planned an attack, knowledge of our shortages would help them in timing it."

Thomas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Appropriations Subcommittee, wants to add a rider to the pending military spending bill sharply cutting back funds voted by Congress this month for stockpiling.

Pointing out that the National Munitions Board already has reserves valued at about a billion dollars and has contracts for about 400 million dollars more, Thomas declared:

"The board says it needs a 3½-billion-dollar stockpile. It costs money to maintain this and pay for deterioration. At a time when we are at peace, that appears cockeyed to me."

Zirconium for 20 years

Thomas told reporters that the board wants a five-year supply "of everything" and already has stocked some items to last much longer. For example, he added, we have a "20-year supply" of zirconium, a metallic element used in atomic research.

"They (the board) have 200,000 pounds of pepper and want 24 million pounds more," he snorted. "That pepper is a great defense weapon."

Thomas went on to say that the board wants a "trainload of castor oil" when it already has 15 million pounds. He declared that we have a "four-year supply of antimony and a one-year supply of zinc and tin," and are seeking 230,000 tons of lead and "have only 90,000 tons on hand."

The Oklahoma Senator declared that a one-year supply would "seem adequate" in peacetime.

The economy battle has been going on for some days behind the closed doors of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Donald F. Carpenter, retiring chairman of the Munitions Board, wrote the committee: "It is not safe to postpone completion of our

Embassy Ridicules Idea That Demands Sparked Activity

By Murrey Marder

Suggestion that Britain precipitated present top-level atomic energy discussions by demands, or threats of "pressure," was ridiculed yesterday by a British Embassy spokesman.

"We have on occasion asked for specific information about specific problems" relating to atomic development, he said.

"But we have never made a formal request for full information about the (atomic) bomb."

"That doesn't alter the fact that we would like to have information," he said, although any report of British pressure on United States uranium supplies to force disclosure of such information "could not be further from the truth."

Similar denials that Canada has threatened to cut its uranium supply to the United States unless it receives classified atomic bomb information, came from a spokesman for the Canadian Embassy here.

"We are not attempting to make an atom bomb," he said. "Our attention is concentrated on industrial research in atomic energy.

Representatives of the State Department, the Atomic Energy Commission, and the National Military Establishment will meet today with the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

Subject of the discussion will be relations with Great Britain and Canada on the exchange of atomic information.

In announcing the meeting, Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) confirmed published reports that the hastily-called secret meeting with President Truman at Blair House last Thursday evening dealt with this matter.

The committee yesterday canvassed the subject at a three-hour closed-door meeting.

McMahon gave out only a brief statement in regard to the session.

It was observed that yesterday's preliminary committee session precipitated apparently heated arguments among members.

McMahon's carefully worded announcement of the conference today with the military, State and Atomic Energy officials was believed to have been approved in advance by President Truman, be-

15 Persons Reported Taken to Hospital

Seattle, July 19 (AP).—A twin-engined charter plane, reportedly carrying 28 persons en route to Chicago, crashed and burned in a South Seattle housing project tonight.

(The United Press reported 15 persons were hospitalized.)

The plane was owned by the Air Transport Associates, Inc., a non-scheduled charter airline.

There was no immediate report of dead or injured.

Witnesses said one engine of the plane failed as it was taking off from Boeing Field. Unable to gain altitude, the aircraft struck a power line and spun to the ground, bursting into flames.

It exploded within three or four minutes, witnesses said.

Four ambulances were sent to the scene, about a mile and a half northwest of Boeing Field.

Five units of the Duwamish Bend housing project were reported in flames.

The field and surrounding area was plunged into darkness when the power lines snapped.

A passenger, Joseph Lubic, 19, of Connellsville, Pa., an Air Force man going home on furlough, said in King County Hospital a few minutes after the crash that the plane was about 75 feet off the ground when it struck the wires.

The airlines office said there were 26 passengers and two crew members aboard. One of the passengers was Amos E. Heacock, company president. His wife was acting as stewardess on the flight. Heacock was uninjured.

An airline spokesman said Heacock went through the plane and pushed or helped passengers from the burning ship.

Senators Seek Short Cut on Military Bills

Way Sought to Speed Measure Unifying Services, Hiking Pay

Leaders of the Senate Armed Services Committee will seek a legislative shortcut today to speed passage of bills unifying the services and boosting military pay.

Chairman Millard Tydings (D., Md.) plans to ask the Senate to give immediate consideration to the Short bill, which passed the House Monday. That measure is virtually identical with one section of the Administration's unification bill which passed the Senate earlier.

If no one objects, then Tydings will ask that everything after the enacting clause be stricken and the text of the Senate bill be substituted. Then he will move that the bill be passed and sent to a Senate-House conference comittee.

While one objector can force reference of the Short bill to the Senate committee—from which it would have to be reported to the floor, put on the calendar and eventually reconsidered—prospects of the strategy succeeding are believed to be good. The

Russia Accuses Italy of Violating Terms of Treaty

London (Wednesday), July 20 (AP).—Russia accused Italy today of violating the terms of the Italian peace treaty by signing the North Atlantic Pact. She made the charge in notes sent to Italy, the United States, Britain and France.

The Soviet note sent to Rome was made public in a Moscow radio broadcast heard in London. It charged that the North Atlantic Treaty is an aggressive instrument aimed at Russia and the "peoples' democracies."

Czech Priests Are Warned of Mass Reprisals

Government to Hold Congregation Liable In Excommunication

Prague, July 19 (U.P.).—A Czech government spokesman warned Catholic priests today that mass reprisals will be taken against the clergy and their congregations if the Vatican excommunication order against Communists is carried out.

"Anyone who tries to implement the excommunication decree of the Vatican will be considered a high traitor—not only he himself, but his congregation or his order," the government spokesman told a meeting of Catholic priests.

"If government orders are not carried out, not only the individual priests, but the whole order or congregation will be held responsible," the spokesman added.

Church sources said the statements were made to about 80 priests and a few nuns who were summoned to the presidium of the ministry of education in the Mala Strana district of Prague.

The spokesman told the priests, "This is not a warning. This is a notice."

The summons to the meeting, which reached the priests by mail yesterday, asked them "kindly, but unfailingly" to come to the ministry of education today "for important negotiations."

"We remind you that only in the most urgent cases, such as illness, may you send a representative with full power," the summons said.

It was signed, "Gerzonova," of the Prague national committee's section on schools, science, and arts, a regional government organization.

Meanwhile, the Communist newspaper, Rude Pravo, today accused Roman Catholic Church leaders of plotting a campaign of terror and unrest designed to over-

Warns of Cover-Up Efforts

(Copyright, 1949, The Washington Post)

President Truman has directed a searching investigation of Washington 5 per centers and their obliging friends in high-placed Government positions, no matter who is embarrassed by it, The Washington Post learned last night.

Reliable sources revealed Mr. Truman gave his instructions for an all-out inquiry over the past weekend to Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. The President is reported to have told the Secretary to use his own good judgment in dealing with military officials who are accused of doing favors for the fee-collecting business agents here. He cautioned against any possible cover-up to protect anyone involved in the practice.

The name of Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the President's military aide, is reported to have figured in the conversation Mr. Truman had with his Defense Secretary.

Shortly after Johnson's White House visit, Army Secretary Gordon Gray announced the temporary suspensions of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt as chief of the Army Chemical Corps, and Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, the Army Quartermaster General.

As disclosed yesterday in The Washington Post, evidence in the hands of investigators indicates a definite link between General Vaughn and James V. Hunt, the former Army officer who was exposed by The New York Herald Tribune as one who obtained Government contracts for businessmen for a 5 per cent fee.

Soviet Can't Win World Domination, Truman Says

President Rejects 'Inevitable' War In Shrine Address; Warns of ERP Cut

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Soldier Field, Chicago, July 19.—President Truman said here today that Soviet Russia was bound to fail in its drive for world domination—and without a war between her and the democratic West.

He said that "tensions and conflicts" appear to be increasing behind the Iron Curtain, and went on to say about Russia:

"It may have temporary triumphs, but in the long run it must either destroy itself or abandon its attempt to force other nations into its pattern."

Mr. Truman said he didn't subscribe to the belief that a war between the United States and her friends and Russia and her satellites was "inevitable." He said he was "optimistic" as he looked toward the future.

The Chief Executive, in a buoyant mood, spoke in Chicago's huge Soldier Field before a crowd of 50,000. The occasion was the Diamond Jubilee convention of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, an organization of Masons that goes in for fun and good deeds.

Mr. Truman, a member of Ararat Temple of Kansas City, had on a Panama and was thus the only Shriner in the huge assemblage without a familiar red fez. Spread out before him were thousands of Nobles attired in gorgeous costumes of red, green and yellow. Massed flags and gleaming scimitars added to the riot of color.

The President was applauded when he said that this country must continue to support and improve the United Nations "as the way to lasting peace." He was applauded again when he said that the United States Senate, in response to overwhelming public sentiment, would ratify the Atlantic Pact.

Senator Scott Lucas, Democratic leader of the upper House, flew here with him from Washington, and so did Senator Paul Douglas. Among those lined up on the ramp to greet him were Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Mayor Martin H. Kennelly, former Mayor Edward J. Kelly, and Col. Jack M. Arvey, powerful Democratic boss of Cook County.

Gen. Mark Clark, wearing the red fez of Aahmet Temple, Oakland, Calif., was one of the outstanding Shriners who turned out to shake Mr. Truman's hand. Another was Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, hero of two wars and head

Truman Urges Force For Peace Within U. N.

Chicago, July 19 (AP).—President Truman called tonight for a militant United Nations organization with enough force to maintain the peace, after accusing Soviet Russia of making agreements for the purpose of breaking them.

Speaking at a Shrine dinner, the President asked if it wasn't better to spend three, four, or five billion dollars a year for peace than "a hundred billion dollars a year for war" in a fervent defense of American spending.

He said United States foreign policy was aimed at reviving "Europe and Asia for peace" and said, "We are going to make the United Nations a going and militant organization for the welfare of the world as a whole."

Services List U. S. Giants as Small Businesses

NYHT News Service

The Armed Services, in records kept to show how military contracts are divided up between big and little business, has "misclassified" some of the Nation's industrial giants as "small businesses," it was learned yesterday.

Among the companies recently included in a listing of "small businesses" that had received Government contracts were such names as these: E. I. DuPont de Nemours, against which the Government recently filed an anti-trust suit; Armour & Co., Swift & Co., the Endicott-Johnson Shoe Company, the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and the American Steel and Wire Co., a United States Steel affiliate.

These "misclassifications" were brought to the attention of the Munitions Board, which keeps such records, by Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.)

Supreme Court Justice Murphy Dies of Heart Seizure

Murphy "a friend of man" and said he "was devoted to human rights . . ."

Justice Reed, in Durham, N. C., for medical treatment, called Murphy "a true humanitarian, devoted to the interests of the friendless and oppressed."

Gen. Carlos Romulo, Philippine delegate to the United Nations, said his nation "has lost one of its best friends."

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath called Murphy "a staunch friend of the underprivileged and a fearless foe of privilege," and Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) referred to him as "one of the most colorful and controversial figures of our time."

On Bench Closing Day

The bushy-browed, soft-spoken, red-haired jurist, only bachelor on the court, was on the bench at the closing session of the term, June 27. He spoke that day in forceful, measured tones, leaning forward in his chair to deliver the majority opinion in the Christoffel case. That chair yesterday was draped in black crepe.

But Murphy's health had not been good for several years, in contrast to his earlier rugged disposition in the days when he served as mayor of Detroit, last Governor General of the Philippines, Governor of Michigan and Attorney General of the United States.

Only a week after taking his seat on the high bench on February 5, 1940, Murphy had to leave it for a rest. In 1943 he suffered what doctors termed a "nervous collapse" and later was seriously ill from pneumonia.

On Army Duty in 1942

He was able to take leave from the court in the summer of 1942, however, to go on Army duty as a lieutenant colonel, and train with the infantry at Fort Benning, Ga.

When court opened last October, Murphy again was absent because of sciatic neuralgia, for which he took hydrotherapy treatments. He did not resume his seat until last December 6. In court this year he often appeared tired, and would rest his head on the high-backed chair, eyes closed, while lawyers were arguing their cases.

During the 1948-49 term, Murphy wrote only nine of the court's majority opinions plus ten others. The previous term he had written a total of 17, while in 1944-45 he wrote 37.

Murphy had made his home here for the past 10 years in a furnished suite on the seventh floor of the Washington Hotel, 15th st. and Pennsylvania ave. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Marguerite Teahan of Detroit, and one brother, George, judge of Detroit's Recorder's Court.

Murphy was a devout Catholic, something of an ascetic and a champion of the underprivileged. Despite his many public services, his six-line Congressional Directory biography notes only that he was chairman of the Philippine War Relief Committee of the United States, chairman of the American Anti-Bigotry Committee and president of the Michigan Indian Organization.

Perhaps the most important moment in Justice Murphy's life came on June 26, 1908, the day he graduated from high school. On that day he received from his mother a Bible inscribed "To Dear Frank from Mama."

It was this Bible from which Murphy for years read for an hour a day. On this Bible he took many of his oaths of office. His mother had wanted him to become a priest, but he said he did not feel worthy.

His father, Murphy said, "ordained" him to a "social priesthood" and the late Cardinal Mundelein called him "a lay bishop." He was one of the Nation's outstanding Catholics.

Murphy's grandfather was hanged by the British in Ireland, and his lawyer-father once was jailed in Canada for his part in a Sein Fein uprising.

Native of Michigan

Young Frank was born April 13, 1890, at Harbor Beach, Mich. (Some biographies say 1893.) He studied law at the University of Michigan, served in World War I overseas as a captain, studied in London and Dublin, and in 1919 took his first public post as an assistant district attorney in Detroit.

For seven years he was judge of Detroit's Recorder's Court. Then he became the city's mayor during the depression years, 1930-33. He spent millions—14 million dollars in one year—for the unemployed, and his vigor called him to the attention of the incoming President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Roosevelt sent him to the Philippines in 1933, and recalled him in 1936 so he could run for governor. He was Michigan's Democratic chief executive in the sit-down strike days, and his actions brought bitter denunciations.

In Sit-Down Strikes

He was assailed for not using force. To this Murphy retorted that if the public wanted him "to shoot the workers out of the factories and thus end the sit-down strikes once and for all," they would have to get another governor to do it.

"If the American workingmen are wrong," he said, "I believe they can be taught the right way without writing the lesson in blood."

Some years later Murphy declared he believed sit-down strikes were illegal, and revealed that he had read a virtual ultimatum to John L. Lewis, then head of the CIO, the day before settlement of the General Motors strike in 1937.

Murphy denied the charge that he had ignored a court order requiring the strikers to quit the company's property. He said he "warned the union representatives that I would enforce it."

But, he added, he knew that "the literal enforcement of the writ at that moment would not only disrupt negotiations but could not be carried out without the gravest risk of property damage, riot and even bloodshed, which would leave bitterness and ill-feeling between the company and the men for years to come."

Lewis yesterday declared Murphy's death "will be mourned by the millions of Americans whose cause and whose rights he has championed."

Made Attorney General

Murphy was defeated for re-election in 1938, a setback generally ascribed to his handling of strikes. But Roosevelt soon named him Attorney General, and he was sworn in January 2, 1939.

His biggest job was the jailing of Tom Pendergast, the late Kansas City political boss. When he left the Justice Department to take his court seat, Murphy issued a statement denying that he had "for political purposes suppressed possible proceedings against Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Hague of Jersey City and other political leaders."

Murphy neither smoked nor drank, though he was frequently seen at Washington social gatherings. His name was romantically linked with names of a number of pretty girls, and one kissed him in public.

Two years ago Murphy was riding here with a young woman when a policeman stopped the car for making a turn from Pennsylvania ave into 14th st. out of the wrong lane. In a 10-minute discussion, Murphy argued that the officer could not arrest the woman for a misdemeanor. The officer won, and the woman—along with Murphy—went to police headquarters to post $10 collateral.

Murphy often rode horseback, and in earlier years he boxed and played golf.

In 1940 he was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate, chiefly because of his "gang-busting" reputation as Attorney General at a time Thomas E. Dewey was being menioned as a Republican candidate.—Chalmers M. Roberts.

place him. Mentioned as having that qualification among others were Senators O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), McGrath (D., R. I.), McMahon (D., Conn.) and Myers (D., Pa.).

But support is indicated for Attorney General Tom Clark and former Secretary of War Robert Patterson, a Republican. Patterson has been close to the President, has served on Federal District and Circuit Courts, and the President only last week told reporters that Patterson was his authority for considering Samuel H. Kaufman, he Hiss trial judge, a good jurist.

O'Mahoney, once Solicitor General, was mentioned last summer as a vice presidential candidate, but stepped aside for the then Senator Alben Barkley.

None Are Extremists

Though several of these possible candidates are definitely Fair Dealers, none would be likely to take as extreme a position as did Murphy on the bench.

Associates of President Truman, who were in Chicago with him, were quoted by a reporter for The Washington Post as saying last night that so far he had given no thought to filling the vacancy caused by Justice Murphy's death.

The National Farmers Union last night asked the President to name Interior Undersecretary Oscar Chapman to the vacancy.

The National Lawyers Guild, praising Murphy, said the "highest tribute" to him would be "the choice of a successor who will emulate his great and indispensible qualities."

Geographic distribution sometimes plays a part in court appointments, but the bench now is rather well balanced from that standpoint.

Adhered to Form on Last Day

Murphy's last day on the bench, June 27, was indicative of his feelings. He delivered the 5-to-4 majority opinion which freed ex-labor leader Harold Christoffel because a House committee did not have a quorum present when he told a lie.

That same day Murphy dissented in three other cases, each time speaking out for civil liberties.

In the Gerhard Eisler case, Murphy was for immediate ruling on the fugitive's case, declaring:

"Law is at its loftiest when it examines claimed injustice even at the instance of one to whom the public is bitterly hostile."

Consistent Labor Supporter

In a case involving the use in court of evidence illegally seized, Murphy was in the minority along with Black, Douglas and Rutledge. He called the procedure, sanctioned by the majority, "a shabby business—lawlessness by officers of the law."

Murphy earlier ruled for the majority that picketing is a basic right and he has been a labor supporter almost without exception. He voted with the majority in the 5-to-4 decision by which the court assented to use of public funds for bus fares for parochial school pupils. This church versus state issue is likely to come to the court again if a Federal-aid-to-education bill should become law.

Murphy was part of the 5-to-4 majority in a series of cases this year cracking down on lengthy police interrogation of prisoners.

Gas Company Spent Thousands On Sales Program, Group Says

An organization of gas appliance dealers and consumers charged yesterday that the Washington Gas Light Company spent several hundreds of thousands of dollars last year in furthering its gas appliance business at the expense of gas consumers.

The charge was contained in a petition filed by Gas Consumers and Independent Appliance Dealers with the Public Utilities Commission.

The organization asked permission to intervene in hearings to be held on the request of the gas company to increase by 7 per cent rates to District consumers.

The organization said that if allowed to intervene it will establish that the company "is and has been failing to account properly for the full cost of its adventure into the business by buying and selling appliances."

Postponement of the hearing date on the rate increase from July 28 to August 15 also was asked by the group in a letter to the commission written by William A. Roberts, chief counsel for the organization.

The two-week interval between filing by the gas company of its request on July 14 and the hearing is insufficient for compiling of evidence, the letter said.

On July 11, the same organization filed with Vernon E. West, District Corporation Counsel, a request that his office prosecute the gas company for installing gas heaters in violation of the District code.

The petition to intervene in the gas rate hearing was signed by George C. Webster as trustee of the organization, on behalf of John G. Webster & Sons, Inc., 627 F st. nw., and in his personal capacity as a gas consumer.

Shirley Temple Has Appendicitis

Hollywood, July 19 (AP).—Shirley Temple is under observation at her home after being stricken with an attack of appendicitis, her studio disclosed tonight.

She suffered a sharp pain as she reached the studio today for the final day's work on her current picture, in which she co-stars with David Niven. She returned home and her doctor ordered her to bed.

Four and a half weeks ago the 21-year-old actress suffered a similar attack as she reported for her first day's work on the picture. She was in bed a week.

Reds Urge 'United Berlin'

Berlin, July 19 (AP).—Berlin Communists launched a new propaganda campaign today for a united city, on their terms.

A throng of about 20,000 jammed the Potsdamer Platz, where American, British and Russian sectors meet, for an outdoor rally which drummed the theme:

"One Berlin, one currency."

The demonstration was called by the Social Unity (Communist) Party as a prelude to a full session of the Soviet zone Peoples' Council Friday. The council directs political affairs under Russian control in the East Zone and sector.

Banners proclaimed that "the cold war is ended" and Germans should now unite.

Hans Jendretzky, chairman of the Social Unity Party in Berlin, demanded abolition of the West mark in Berlin and establishment of a straight one-to-one exchange rate with the Soviet-backed east mark. The west mark now is worth five times the east mark.

SPEAKING OF Furniture
By ELIZABETH GUYER

THE FIRST IMPRESSION

When introduced to someone, your first impressions are usually lasting ones. The same thing applies to the entrance hall of your home. Make this introduction an interesting one.

No matter what the size of the entrance hall, or vestibule, you'll be showing good taste and thought if you follow two simple rules.

(1) Keep whatever furniture you use against the walls. Space makes this necessary. And face your most important bit of furniture toward the door if at all possible.

(2) Mirrors. They reflect your thoughtfulness as a host, and if the hall is rather on the small side, mirrors will also create the illusion of greater size.

Of course, the hall is the traditional setting for Grandfather clocks, so use that one you have stored in the attic. As for other furniture pieces, a chair or two should complete the picture. Don't crowd the hall until it looks like a storage room.

When you greet visitors at the door, have that entrance hall a prelude to the harmony of the rest of your home.

If we can be of help in any way, please call on us. Our suggestions are yours for the asking.

Battle Again Hits At Labor Leaders

Newport News, Va., July 19 (Spl.).—State Senator John S. Battle's attacks against "interference" by national labor leaders in Virginia's August 2 State primary election were renewed here tonight.

Battle, candidate for Governor, with the backing of the Byrd Democratic machine, added Joseph D. Keenan of Washington, director of the Labor League for Political Education, to James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, on his list of those supporting Francis Pickens Miller, another aspirant for the Democratic Governorship nomination.

In a radio address here, he attacked "these ruthless national labor officials who are accustomed to riding rough-shod over all who disagree with them." He also sideswiped J. S. Smith of Hampton, president of the Virginia Federation of Labor.

Smith, he charged, as chairman of the Virginia Labor League for Political Education, called on all VFW locals to have their membership contribute 25 cents each for the election of "friendly candidates" and "to do something about the iniquitous labor laws on the statute books of Virginia."

"The question," he said, "is not so much whether organized labor, which consists of citizens and voters of Virginia, shall vote for one candidate or another. That is their right and privilege.

"The issue is whether or not international unions from outside the State are injecting themselves into this campaign and seeking to dictate the selection of Virginia's Governor.

"Mr. Miller has denied the charge.

"I here and now repeat the charge."

He then read a copy of a letter by Petrillo to members of the Musicians' union in Virginia calling for support of Miller. He first made it public Sunday.

"Since this letter was made public," he said, "Mr. Miller has said he knew nothing of it. We would like to know now why Petrillo is supporting Miller."

"Virginia labor knows me through my legislative record, and I am proud of that record, and I believe I have supported every measure in the General Assembly designed to help the working man. I have no apologies for my record and I welcome the support of patriotic labor men throughout this State.

"I believe many will support me on August 2, for they know where I stand and what I will do. This they do not know about Mr. Petrillo's champion of free society, Mr. Miller."

Battle reiterated his support of laws to which Virginia labor men have objected. They include measures barring the closed shop and mass picketing, and providing for State seizure of vital utility services in case of strike, to prevent interruption of service.

"I voted for these laws, I favor these laws," he said, and I will resist any effort that may be made to cripple them by amendments or repeal."

(Smith, the VFL president, was at the Hamilton Hotel in Washington last night. He has declined thus far to make public comment on the campaign, and would not comment immediately on Battle's attack.)

Horace H. Edwards, a third candidate for the Democratic nomination, announced at Richmond that he approves programs for further development of major river basin areas in the State, particularly "the construction program now being fostered by the people of the Roanoke River Basin area."

"I favor early completion by the Federal Government of the Buggs Island reservoir project and will support measures for utilization of the water resources of the Roanoke River and its tributaries," he said.

No reply was forthcoming last night by Miller to Battle's latest attack. Miller was reported "on a tour, shaking hands and calling on small gatherings," with no major addresses scheduled.

Remmie Arnold, fourth candidate for the Democratic nomination, was at the Shrine convention in Chicago.

Machine Politics in Arlington . . .

OFFICIAL SEAL—This cigarette machine was sealed with adhesive tape (arrow) marked "out of order" after it began turning out matchbooks marked Battle-for-Governor. Fire Chief A. C. Scheffel stated: "They were put in there without our permission, and I ordered the concessionnaire, Jack Q. Spitler, to remove the politically tendentious matches." Spitler explained "They were given to me and I didn't see anything wrong with putting them in there." Boom for Mayor

Home Town Hails 'Fame' Of Luciano

Lercara Friddi, Sicily, July 19 (U.P.).—Charles (Lucky) Luciano, the home town boy who made good in the vice gangs of two continents, was being boomed today for mayor of Lercara Friddi, his birthplace, which regards him as a hero.

Luciano, deported from the United States and booted out of Rome, was expected here Thursday. The little town was preparing an all-out welcome and Mayor Aurelio d'Accurso said everyone would welcome a man with big ideas.

"I am very pleased that Lucky Luciano is coming back home," D'Accurso said. "The town will benefit, because Lucky is a man of great enterprise. Only a man like him could solve some of the problems our town and our zone are now facing."

Speculation centered on where Lercara Friddi's "rich uncle from America" would live.

The mayor pointed out that Luciano had some cousins here "but they are poor peasants who work in the sulphur mines and Lucky has been sending them money."

Already deported by the American Government, Luciano was kicked out of Rome after he was questioned for days about an international narcotics ring.

A bartender at the tiny railway station opened the campaign to make Luciano mayor.

"Why not?" he asked. "He has shown he is a big business man and we could use someone with his ideas. Everybody would vote for him."

Some feared that Luciano might not share this enthusiasm. They remember Luciano visited here in 1946 after he was deported from the United States, took one look around and caught the next train for Palmero.

Beautiful Wife, Lover Slain On Altar, 5 Men Held in India

Calcutta, India, July 19 (U.P.).—Five men were ordered held for trial today on charges they slew a beautiful young Indian wife and her lover on the altar of the Hindu God Kali, the destroyer of evil.

The five men, a death squad picked by the villagers of Monghyr, allegedly killed dark-eyed Hawa Devi, wife of an elderly villager, and her handsome lover last April after the villagers found them both guilty of illicit love.

The prosecution charged in the preliminary hearing at Monghyr, a remote village in Bihar Province, that the lovers fled to a nearby town, but the enraged villagers found them and brought them back.

Hawa Devi and her lover, Bhumi Coudhury, were roped to a tree while the villagers conducted the trial. They were sentenced to be done to death, the prosecution said, and the ropes were cut and the lovers dragged to the temple.

The "death squad" was said by the prosecution to have carried out its job in a "crude but effective way."

While the young wife shut her eyes and covered her ears, the five men allegedly knocked Bhumi down at the altar and beat him to death with staves. They struck him until his screams were stilled, the prosecution said.

Hawa's end came more quickly. After a few blows fell across her head and back one man put her out of agony with a thrust of his long knife, according to the prosecution.

Trainmen Name Successor to Whitney

Cleveland, July 19 (AP).—William Parker Kennedy, 57, Canadian-born one-time brakeman, tonight was named president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The independent union's eight-man board of directors elevated Kennedy from the post of general secretary and treasurer.

He will serve until the Brotherhood's September, 1950, convention. Union sources expressed belief that he would be continued in the office by the convention.

Kennedy immediately pledged a militant administration, based on the same principles as those of A. F. Whitney, who died Saturday after 21 years as the Trainmen's leader.

The Brotherhood has 215,000 members.

Donald A. Mackenzie, 67, assistant president, was named general secretary and treasurer, a job Kennedy had held since January 1, 1947.

Fire Wrecks Seven-Room Apartment

Fire last night wrecked a seven-room second-floor apartment at 6218 3d st. nw. Firemen battled 20 minutes before bringing the flames under control.

Considerable water damage to some $8000 worth of electrical equipment was reported by the Manor Park Electrical Service store, below the apartment in the brick building.

The apartment owner, Basil Allison, who operates several buildings in the block, said he left the apartment about 6 p. m. after changing his clothes to go riding.

His wife and son, Basil, jr., were eating in a nearby restaurant about 6:15 p. m. when someone across the street shouted "Fire!" Basil, jr., rushed out, discovered his family's apartment was aflame, and called the Fire Department.

When firemen arrived at the scene flames and smoke were pouring out of the open windows of the apartment. An outside fire crew placed a fog nozzle atop the building to blanket the flames.

Even with this protection firemen said it was several minutes before they could make their way through the heat and scalding water to the apartment rooms.

They believe the fire began in the front living room and spread to the rear. Most of the furniture was consumed by the flames and Mrs. Allison said a $1000 collection of china she kept in the dining room was ruined.

Allison said it would be several days before he could estimate the damage. Fire Department officials said they were still investigating the cause.

Deep-Freeze Cabinet In Food Store Burns

A fire in the electric motor of a deep-freeze cabinet at the Giant Food Store, 2824 Alabama ave. se., last night sent six pieces of fire apparatus to the scene.

Firemen broke in through the plate glass door of the store, extinguished the blaze and transferred the contents of the cabinet to another deep-freeze unit before a single package thawed out.

A fire early yesterday morning in Arlington's Clarendon branch public library, burned out about 10 square yards of office space and damaged books in adjacent first floor sections of the children's and adults' rooms.

James to Hang on August 12

Annapolis, Md., July 19 (AP).—Eugene H. James, already indicted in Washington on a similar charge, today was ordered by Governor Lane to hang August 12 for the murder of an 11-year-old Baltimore girl.

The Governor made no comment as he announced he had set the date for the double hanging of James and John T. Knowles.

Knowles was convicted of first-degree murder for stabbing his girl friend, Ruby James, 25 times in Baltimore's Druid Hill Park, on June 10, 1948.

James, a 32-year-old janitor and handyman, stabbed little Marsha Brill with a butcher knife as she bicycled near her home in the Pimlico section of Baltimore on July 6, 1948.

Nine days before slaying the Brill girl, he was indicted in Washington for killing another girl in Rock Creek Park.

The court of appeals had rejected pleas of both James and Knowles for a reversal of their death sentences.

Krug Approves Board's Plan

terior regarded all pools as non-segregated, Negroes began to use Anacostia and McKinley, previously used only by whites.

Anacostia was closed June 30 by Secretary Krug after a race fracas there. This precipitated current negotiations between the board and Interior.

In approving the proposed changes in the board's by-laws, Secretary Krug wrote yesterday to Harry S. Wender, board chairman:

"This is in effect the elimination of the board's segregation by-law adopted in 1945 and the substitution therefore of a new policy and rules to permit the gradual development of use of all public recreational facilities by all citizens."

Krug said the change "appears to be consistent with the essence of the agreement" reached July 11 at a meeting of the Commissioners and three board members.

One change would erase from the board's rules and regulations all references to segregation designations at recreation facilities.

The other change would insert a new Article 2, entitled "Policy," which would read as follows:

"Section 1. All matters of policy shall be determined by the Recreation Board.

"Section 2. The board will make every possible and realistic effort toward the removal of racial segregation in public recreation in such sequence and at such rate of progression as may be consistent with the public interest, public order and effective administration. The board by majority vote of the whole board at a stated meeting shall from time to time issue necessary orders to the superintendent to implement this policy.

"Section 3. The operation and administration of all activities, programs, and services under the control of the board, except as hereinafter provided, shall be as directed by a majority vote of the whole board at a stated meeting."

These suggested changes were agreed to by the by-laws committee of the board last Wednesday.

Police Unite to Halt Park Ballplaying

Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett yesterday ordered the Metropolitan Police force to aid Park Police in preventing children from playing ball in small park areas—to keep Washington beautiful.

The order, issued at the request of Capt. Mark Raspberry, head of Park Police, commanded Metropolitan Police to direct youths to appropriate play areas, when found playing in small triangles, circles and parks not authorized for recreational use.

"It is in the interest of all citizens of the District of Columbia that these small park areas, including their lawns, shrubbery, monuments and memorials be maintained in good condition as they are one of the means of beautifying our city," the order stated.

Red Drive Doomed, Truman Declares

of Eastern Airlines. He is a member of Moslem Temple, Detroit, Mich.

Tonight the President attended a dinner in the Stevens Hotel in honor of Galloway Calhoun, retiring imperial potentate of the shrine. The new imperial potentate is Harold Lloyd, the movie comedian.

In his speech this afternoon in Soldier Field, Mr. Truman told the once isolationist Middle West that the United States and her friends were winning the cold war—winning it because Russia was incapable of satisfying the needs and desires of men for a better life.

Disastrous to Change Policy

He warned, however, that the United States must make sure that the hard-won economic recovery of free countries in Europe does not revert to stagnation and despair. Then, obviously referring to efforts in Congress to cut Marshall Plan funds, he said:

"One of the most foolish things we could do right now would be to slash our appropriations for European recovery. If we did that, we would be deliberately throwing away gains for peace and freedom that we have painfully made. Only the Communists would profit if we took such a short-sighted course.

"We have been making progress in working toward peace and freedom because we have been willing to make the investment that was necessary. It would be disastrous now to change our policy and settle for halfway measures."

Mr. Truman did not mention the Soviet Union by name, but it was not necessary. He spoke of those leaders who were relying on the rule of force, who were out to destroy free governments and create class warfare.

Their system, he said, was no better than Nazi Germany's or those of other tyrannies that had met with destruction in the past.

Alluding to fears of a third world war, the President said:

"Some people would have us believe that war is inevitable between the nations which are devoted to our concept of international organization and the concept which now bears the name of communism.

"Our Faith More Appealing"

"This is not the case. I am optimistic as I look toward the future, because I believe in the superior attraction for men's minds and hearts of the democratic principles which have been tried and tested in free nations, and which are now winning the allegiance of men throughout the world.

"In the battle for men's minds our faith is more appealing, more dynamic, and stronger than any totalitarian force. The world longs for the kind of tolerance and mutual adjustment which is represented by democratic principles."

He said that the United States has had a revolutionary effect in the world since it was founded. It prevailed against the absolute monarchies of the nineteenth century, he said, and it is prevailing against the new and more terrible dictatorships of the twentieth century.

"We have always been a challenge to tyranny of any kind," he said. "We are such a challenge today."

He said that the reason was that the United States stands for tolerance and self-government, the dignity of the individual, and does not make a God out of the State.

"The world is tired of political fanaticism," Mr. Truman continued. "It is weary of the lies, propaganda and hysteria created by dictatorships. It is disgusted by the practice of torture and political allegiance which is inspired solely by fear."

The President made a distinction between the Russian leaders and the Russian masses. He recalled that, during World War II, warm ties of friendship were established between Americans and other peoples in the struggle against Germany and Japan.

"We hoped that an enduring peace could be built on these ties of friendship," he said.

"In part, these high hopes have not been realized. Leaders of some nations have cut off communications and built barriers of suspicion between their people and the outside world.

But, in spite of this, he said, there persists in the United States a sincere feeling of friendship and sympathy for these peoples who have been cut off from us by force or political intrigue.

The President then drew a comparison between the way foreign policy is forged in the United States and the dictator-ruled countries.

He said that American foreign policy is founded upon an enlightened public opinion, and therefore represents the collective will of the Nation. It was so in the case of American participation in the United Nations and in the Marshall Plan. Public opinion, he went on to say, was overwhelmingly in favor of the Atlantic Pact, and he predicted that the Senate therefore would ratify that pact.

He said that it was only in the totalitarian states, where decisions were made by a few men at the top, that foreign policies could be altered or revised in secrecy, and allies made enemies overnight.

He referred to the attempts made in the past to organize the world by force. Always, he said, they have failed, the latest example being that of Nazi Germany.

Then, in an obvious reference to Stalin and his associates, he said:

"In spite of the record of history, the leaders of some nations today appear still to be relying on force as a method of world organization. Their doctrine calls for the destruction of free governments through the use of force and the effort to create class warfare. To achieve their aims, they make a false appeal to men's sense of justice; they play upon the common desire of men to improve their condition of life.

"But, in practice, this system of world organization is no better than the old tyrannies that have failed. It is incapable of satisfying the needs and desires of men for a better life. In its inner structure, it manifests the fatal weaknesses of all dictatorships."

He then made the statement about tensions and conflicts in the Russian sphere, and went on to say that in the long run it must either destroy itself or abandon its drive for world conquest.

bill to be substituted was debated by the Senate for more than a week and passed by a voice vote.

If the maneuver is successful, sponsors of the unification bill believe that a final Senate-House version can be ready for action by both houses within a couple of weeks. The way then would be cleared for Senate consideration of the pay bill—when the leadership can get it on the legislative schedule.

Pay legislation would have to compete with other bills in the rush toward adjournment. But it has strong Administration backing and Majority Leader Scott Lucas is on record as stating that the bill will be considered.

Many members of the Senate committee, however, say they will not support the pay bill until approval of unification legislation is assured. Savings resulting from the latter are expected to offset the 300 million dollars a year of a pay boost.

Any material delay in passing unification, therefore, would make the pay bill a doubtful prospect.

Meanwhile, the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report issued an analysis of President Truman's Reorganization Order No. 8, aimed at carrying out many of the provisions of the Tydings unification bill if legislative action fails.

The committee described the submission of the order as a "splendid move" to force the hand of opponents of unification. But it declared that adjournment of Congress probably would delay the order going into effect before next March and urged congressional action instead.

The committee said also that the President's order is contrary to the recommendations of former President Hoover in several respects. Mr. Truman's plan for a chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, it stated, would make him a voting member; he would outrank the other members and have considerable authority to direct them. Hoover has opposed this as creating, in effect, a chief of staff over the services—a potential "strong man."

Truman Says Publisher Admits Error

Chicago, July 19 (AP).—President Truman said tonight that Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president of the New York Times, has acknowledged he was "misinformed" when he told Pope Pius XII in 1948 that Mr. Truman had no chance of election.

The President, speaking off the cuff at a reception given by Jacob Arvey, Democratic county chairman here, said Sulzberger told the Pope he could "assure" him that there was no chance of Mr. Truman's election.

Mr. Truman said he took the matter up with the newspaper executive some time later and Sulzberger told him he was "misinformed."

In New York, Sulzberger said he had "always assumed that a conversation with the Pope was as confidential as one that might be had with the President of the United States."

He added, "I shall continue to adhere to my naive beliefs."

"Without involving either of these two gentlemen," the publisher said, "the facts can speak for themselves. In June of 1948, when I last saw His Holiness, with others present, there were only a few persons with whom I had come in contact who believed Mr. Truman could be elected in the fall."

He added:

"I was not among them. In November, however, my judgment was proved wrong, and it was not for the first time.

"I am getting along in years, but I still have a chance to learn."

You ought to be driving a '49 PONTIAC

Economy—Pontiac, General Motors' lowest-priced eight, is not only sensibly priced, it's renowned for low operating cost mile after mile, year after year.

Spacious Luggage Compartment—Plenty of room for loads of luggage in your Pontiac. The counterbalanced trunk lid floats up—and stays up—at a touch. It's self-locking, too.

Smooth Ride—Pontiac's Travelux Ride is a revelation—it shortens the miles and smooths the road wherever you go. Extra low-pressure tires and wider rims add to your comfort.

New Wide-Horizon Windshield—Pontiac's wide, curved windshield, plus wider windows and slimmer pillars all around, gives you a whole new driving outlook.

Gorgeous Interiors—Pontiac's new Bodies by Fisher are as beautiful inside as out. Every detail, every appointment is tailored for your comfort. Smart upholstery, heavy carpeting and the beautiful Dial-Cluster Instrument Panel are but a few of the things you'll enjoy.

Twin-Duct Ventilation—Rain or shine, fresh outside air is brought to you through twin ventilation ducts which can be controlled individually—standard Pontiac equipment.

Two Great Engines—You can choose Pontiac's great straight eight or the famous six, in any Pontiac body style. Both are smooth, eager, dependable. And, GM Hydra-Matic Drive is optional with either engine on any model.

Plenty of Room—Pontiac gives you worlds of room—wider seats, greater leg-room, ample head room. You can relax on Pontiac's soft seats. It's easy to get in and out through Pontiac's wide doors.

Russians Vaunt Fleet, Claim Naval Inventions

London, July 19 (AP).—Moscow Radio said today Russia is a great naval power and was the originator of armored cruisers, submarines, icebreakers and trawlers.

Rear Admiral Nikolai Alexeyevich Bitovsky made these claims, some of them old, in an interview with a Moscow Radio correspondent. His words were carried on a broadcast connected with Soviet Navy Day next Sunday.

'Vampire' Killer Of 9 Convicted

Leeds, England, July 19 (AP).—Handsome John George Haigh, a one-time choir boy who confessed he killed nine people and drank their blood, was condemned tonight to death by hanging.

Deliberating only 15 minutes, a jury in this ancient English Channel town rejected Haigh's plea for a special verdict of "guilty of the acts charged, but insane at the time they were committed."

The jury, made up of 11 men and one woman, convicted the suave, 39-year-old businessman of murdering Mrs. Olive Durand-Deacon, 69, a wealthy widow, in a London suburb last February 18. The death sentence is mandatory.

King George's Nephew to Wed Beautiful London Pianist

Harewood

MISS MARION STEIN
It's Official

London, July 19 (U.P.).—The engagement of a shy, beautiful Austrian Jewish girl pianist to the Earl of Harewood, nephew of King George and eleventh in line of succession to his throne, was announced officially tonight.

Announcement of the romance was made in royal fashion, at the head of the nightly Buckingham Palace "Court Circular" which chronicles royal doings.

"The engagement is announced between the Earl of Harewood and Marion, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Stein, of 22 Melbury rd., Kensington," the announcement said.

"We are planning to marry this year," the earl said.

"I am very much in love with him," said the girl.

King George and his mother, 82-year-old Queen Mary, who never has countenanced the marriage of the Duke of Windsor to American-born Wallis Warfield Simpson, have both given their blessing to the match.

Miss Stein was brought here from her native Vienna when she was 11 years old. Erwin Stein, her father, is a music editor. He came here at the invitation of Boosey and Hawkes, music publishers by whom he is still employed. He is a member of a noted Viennese musical family of Jewish heritage. Her mother, also Viennese, is a Protestant.

The earl only recently surprised the family by taking the job of music critic for the New Statesman, a left-wing London weekly.

The entire romance has been musical. The earl and the girl met when she was playing the piano for Queen Mary at a concert

Jewel Thief Gets 18 Years

White Plains, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—Gerard Dennis, the master jewel thief who picked his victims from the social register and the Hollywood glamour set, was sentenced today to serve 18 years to life in prison.

Westchester County Judge Elbert T. Gallagher disregarded a mercy plea in passing sentence on the handsome, 29-year-old burglar, who ra nafoul of the law when a pretty model saw through his pose as a wealthy playboy.

Authorities estimated Dennis' loot totaled more than $500,000—including $250,000 from the Hollywood area, $140,000 from Westchester County mansions, and $170,000 from his native Canada.

He was arrested in Cleveland last February on a tip from a New York cocktail bar acquaintance, Gloria Horowitz, 22, a model. She said she grew suspicious when Dennis asked her to pawn some jewels for him in Philadelphia.

ADA Calls 3 Senators Reds' 'Unwitting Allies'

By The Associated Press

Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) seeking Federal action to block a possible depression, said yesterday that Senator Taft (R., Ohio), Wherry (R., Neb.) and Byrd (D., Va.) were "unwitting but powerful allies of communism."

This view was part of a resolution adopted unanimously by a "full employment conference" sponsored by ADA.

The resolution commended President Truman for his economic report of last week, in which he asked for a strengthening of cushions against the decline, and attacked the economy bloc iin Congress. But the ADA conference called for a program that went beyond Mr. Truman's.

Senators Blamed

The statement blamed the present decline on "blindness and selfishness" of "the Tafts, the Wherrys, the Byrds and their fellow-travelers." It said they destroyed price controls, then intensified inflation by a tax cut. It declared they must be "contained and quarantined" in order to keep the present "infection" from spreading into the future."

The resolution said not only that the decline must be reversed, but also that there must be a high and constantly expanding volume of economic activity from now on.

And it declared: "If we fail, Stalin wins."

Chester Bowles, Governor of Connecticut and former OPA administrator, told the audience of about 70 persons that New Deal measures would not be enough to bring full employment. He said "We need new imagination, new ideas."

Unemployment Cited

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO Textile Workers, in a speech read on his behalf, said many unemployed workers already are beginning to listen to Communist preachings. Rieve said 200,000 textile workers are unemployed. Bowles stated that more than 100,000 workers in Connecticut can't find jobs.

Bowles presided most of the day. Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.), national ADA chairman, presided at luncheon.

Varying expressions in favor of positive goals or actions came also from Leon Keyserling, member of the Council of Economic Advisers; Secretary of Labor Tobin; Robert R. Nathan, consulting economist; Lawrence Tibbett, president of the AFL Guild of Music Artists; Charles La Follette, ADA national director; Senator James Murray (D., Mont.); Representative Biemiller (D., Wis.), and many others.

Projects Enumerated

This resolution called for passage of the "economic expansion act of 1949," a new bill introduced by 18 Senators last week. It is designed to expand the economy to an annual income of 300 billion dollars within four or five years, by such things as Federal loans to business firms, tax incentives, antimonopoly measures, expansion of private investments abroad, higher purchasing power through higher unemployment compensation, grants to States and cities for public works and resources development, and concentrated attention on particular areas and industries hit hardest by unemployment.

The resolution also indorsed Agriculture Secretary Brannan's plan for keeping farm incomes high through subsidies, while keeping retail food prices low. It indorsed wage increases wherever they can be absorbed without raising prices. It called upon business to reduce excessive prices.

U. S. Factory Profits Drop and other goods reported improved orders as their customers' inventories neared exhaustion after the months-long buying slump. Unemployment insurance claims in some places were either leveling off or showing declines.

Here's the situation at a glance in the 10 areas:

Providence, R. I.—Textiles hardest hit. Jobless compensation claims set monthly record in June. Jewelry manufacturers blame their slump partly on luxury taxes.

Worcester, Mass.—Metal trades slow, seasonal layoffs hit iron, steel, machine tool concerns, cotton textiles. Jobless pay claims declined last week; boot, shoe, apparel, plastics show job increase.

Rome-Utica, N. Y.—Textile mills have been curtailing steadily for past year. Copper and allied metal trades report increasing idleness.

New Bedford, Mass.—Textile workers form large proportion of area's unemployment claims, now totaling about 12,000. Employed textile workers on part time.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Removal of big Chance-Vought aircraft plant to Texas resulted in 7000 out of work. Thousands furloughed by manufacturers blaming large backlogs of inventories.

Waterbury, Conn.—Brass fabricators, other manufacturers have reduced labor forces and work week, blaming cutback in orders.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Textiles, apparel, stone, clay, glass, lumber payrolls lower. Construction generally curtailed by labor troubles in past three months. But jobs showed upward trend.

Scranton-Wilkes Barre, Pa.—Falling off of anthracite mining in past 30 years decreased peak employment in that industry from 40,000 to about 10,000 now. Warm winter in East also cut production.

Muskegon, Mich.—Thirteen thousand of 103,000 population jobless chiefly because of industrial cutbacks. Even with prosperity, no job prospects for 6000 in area.

San Jose, Calif.—Area in "full fledged recession," says State unemployment service spokesman. Industrial layoffs large, fruit and vegetable payroll down 30 per cent from year ago because of large stocks of canned goods in warehouses and growers withholding crops for dried fruit business.

D. C. Finance Firm Shows Record Net

By S. Oliver Goodman

Lincoln Service Corp., Washington industrial finance firm, yesterday reported record net income of $244,502 for the first six months this year, equal to $6.90 a common share.

Delmar

President Charles Delmar added that this compared with $220,965 or $6.12 a common share in the like 1948 period. After payment of regular dividends on two classes of preferred stock and common shares, surplus as of June 30 reached a new all-time high of $914,511, Delmar said.

Assets and net worth of Lincoln Service, which started business in 1931, have advanced each year and are now at their highest figures. The corporation this year acquired its thirty-sixth office at Lake Worth, Fla.

Delmar, who recently returned from a six weeks' tour of Europe, commented yesterday that conditions in England seem to be far poorer than in France, Belgium and Holland. There is an "unexplained apathy" in London, he said, and England generally seems to lack in food and other necessities. In contrast, he reported, people in other parts of western Europe seem to be eating and living better.

STATE OFFERING: An offering of $18,500,000 in revenue bonds is planned by the Virginia State Highway Commission, probably after Labor Day. The offering will finance the proposed bridge across the York River at Yorktown and will provide funds for the purchase of the James River Bridge System and the Chesapeake Bay ferries. Stockholders of the James River Bridge System recently agreed to sell their system to the State for $5,600,000.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Roland Pierotti, Washington representative of the Bank of America since 1947, has been promoted to a vice presidency of the California organization. Pierotti, who will remain in Washington, at one time was chief attorney for the Securities and Exchange Commission in New York . . . Nine Washington members of the Paul D. Sleeper agency of Aetna Life Insurance Co. have qualified to attend the company's Corps of Regionnaires meeting at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. They are Elmer L. Ayres, E. M. Crump, H. Cochran Fisher, A. J. Ganey, jr., H. B. McGuire, B. E. Robinson, Ralph G. Shinn, F. N. Stricklin and W. M. Walker. Special honors will be accorded Stricklin, Fisher and McGuire, who have qualified for 21 consecutive meetings.

ODD LOTS: Bond Stores, Inc., factory at Rochester, N. Y., has resumed full production and recalled 3800 employes, some of whom have been laid off as long as four weeks . . . W. E. Buford & Co. of Charlottesville, Va., in a memorandum comments that "results of a study of some 3000 stocks disclose that about one-fourth currently are selling for less than the ploughed back earnings of the past six years" . . . Association of American Railroads reports that rail operating revenues in June dropped about 12.9 per cent under the same 1948 month . . . Furniture prices have become firm and will continue at present levels well into the fall, according to consensus at this week's summer furniture market of the New York Furniture Exchange.

IMPROVEMENT: Virginia Electric & Power Co., traded on the Washington Stock Exchange, reported June gross revenues of $4,500,000, compared with $4,056,000 in same 1948 month. Balance available for common stock was $453,000, against $299,000 last year. Fr the 12 months ended June 30, Vepco's balance for common stock approximated $5,119,000, against $4,531,000 in the previous 12-month period.

AWARD: A banking group headed by Guaranty Trust Co. of New York was awarded $4,500,000 of road bonds of the State of West Virginia. The group's bid was 100.481 for a combination of coupons at a net interest cost to the State of 1.3649 per cent. The syndicate is reoffering the bonds at prices to yield from 0.55 per cent for those maturing July 1, 1950, to 1.50 per cent for those due 1964.

EARNINGS: Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. reported net income of $6,105,831 or $3.56 a common share for the first six months this year, compared with $7,103,850 or $2.78 a share in the same 1948 period. Other earnings reports:

Plans Group Asks Cut In Excise Taxes

The National Planning Association recommended last night a cut of about two billion dollars in excise takes and suggested that income tax exemptions be increased.

At the same time Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.), of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee said that now is not the time to slash excise taxes on such things as furs, jewelry, luggage, communications and transportation.

Doughton added in a formal statement, however, that he hopes there will be a general revision of tax laws "in the not too distant future." Then, he said, special consideration can be given "to some of the most burdensome excise levies."

Non-Political Group

The National Planning Association describes itself as a non-profit, non-political organization of leaders in business, agriculture, labor and the professions.

The statement came from its steering committee with approval of the board of trustees.

It said it approved the Administration's withdrawal of a request for an increase in taxes. But it added wartime excise taxes, which produce about 1 billion dollars in taxes annually, should be repealed. This revenue comes from such things as sales of electric light bulbs, luggage and leather goods, business and store machines, sporting, toilet and photographic articles, jewelry, clocks and watches and other articles.

It also suggested the war-time increases made in some other excise taxes now could be removed. These include taxes on communications, travel, automobiles, trucks, radios, safe deposit boxes and other articles. They produced about 900 million dollars last year.

Stimulate Sales

The statement said the decline in business activity has proceeded far enough to justify removing the taxes to stimulate sales. If the taxes were placed in effect to put a brake on inflation during the war, they should be removed now to encourage buying, it added.

The statement suggested there be a modest increase in the exemptions to which a taxpayer is entitled in figuring income taxes.

The revenue reductions might increase the Federal deficit, the statement said. But removing taxes may increase sales and this in turn would increase Government revenue from income taxes, it added.

Deficits cannot be avoided in a period of declining production and employment, if the Government is to have a positive policy for creating high production and employment, the association said.

5 Per Center Probe Ordered

lieve, gave the "improperly furnished personnel data" that brought about his suspension to Hunt, who in turn sent it to General Vaughn. It isn't known what use the White House military aide made of the data.

In a television interview Monday night, Secretary Gray was asked if he intended to suspend General Vaughan. Gray answered that he had no information that would justify the suspension of Vaughan, and furthermore, he had no authority to suspend him since he (Vaughan) was assigned to the President.

Secretary Johnson, accompanied by the Army Secretary, conferred yesterday with the President. Afterwards the Defense Secretary told reporters no mention was made of the investigation of per centers.

There is no indication of graft in any of the information unearthed by the investigators. The suspended generals have told close friends and associates that what they did was neither illegal nor improper.

No Other Generals Face Suspension, Johnson Says

By The Associated Press

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson yesterday said no additional Army generals are now marked for suspension as a result of inquiries into handling of Government contracts. Two major generals have been suspended.

Johnson's assertion was in response to a reporter's question. In a story yesterday morning, The Washington Post had linked Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, with a matter that resulted in the suspension of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt.

Vaughan himself, when asked about it, said: "I won't comment, not even about the weather."

Johnson and Army Secretary Gordon Gray were leaving the White House after a conference with the President when a reporter asked:

"Have you marked any other generals for suspension?"

"No, not a soul," Johnson replied.

Johnson said the talk with the President concerned defense matters and that a Senate subcommittee's investigation of "5 per center" contract representatives wasn't mentioned.

Brannan Plan Trial Hopes Doomed

Leaders of the coalition seek to substitute their own bill which would continue the present wartime price support law and suspend the Aiken bill another year.

The Administration compromise would authorize Secretary of Agriculture Brannan to conduct a two-year trial of his plan on eggs, potatoes and shorn wool. Under the original measure, he could have selected any three crops he wished.

which will go into effect January 1 unless Congress decides otherwise.

The House showdown on farm legislation was delayed a day when Congress adjourned out of respect for Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy.

GUARD AGAINST THROAT-SCRATCH

enjoy smooth smoking

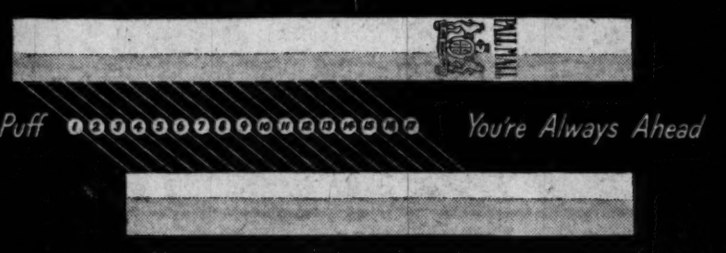
PALL MALL's greater length of fine tobaccos travels the smoke further... filters the smoke and makes it mild

Don't let throat-scratch spoil your smoking enjoyment. You guard against it when you smoke PALL MALL. For PALL MALL's greater length travels the smoke further on its way to your throat—filters it naturally through PALL MALL's traditionally fine, mellow tobaccos—guards against throat-scratch.

Let your throat enjoy smooth smoking. PALL MALL's fine tobaccos give you a smoothness, mildness and satisfaction no other cigarette offers you. Ask for PALL MALL—the longer, finer cigarette in the distinguished red package.

PUFF BY PUFF... YOU'RE ALWAYS AHEAD

Take 5 puffs or 10... or 17... when you smoke PALL MALL



Study the puff chart... At the first puff, PALL MALL's smoke is filtered further than that of any other leading cigarette. Moreover, after 5 puffs of each cigarette—or 10, or 15, or 17—PALL MALL still gives you a longer, natural filter of fine tobaccos—guards against throat-scratch.

Outstanding—and they are mild!

14 Cemeteries Memorialize Missing GIs

Rome, July 19 (AP).—The names of 80,000 American soldiers, sailors and airmen missing in World War II will be recorded in memorials in 14 cemeteries scattered over the world.

This was disclosed by Brig. Gen. Robert G. Woodside, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and vice chairman of the American Battle Monuments Commission, an independent office established by Congress in 1923 to care for the graves of American soldiers.

With the advice of the commission, the Defense Department decided recently that there will be 14 permanent cemeteries in the different operational theaters of World War II. The 115,000 soldier graves will be divided in cemeteries of about the same size.

To Be Of Same Design

Five of these cemeteries will be in France, two each in Italy and Belgium, and one each in Holland, Luxembourg, England, Tunisia and the Philippines.

General Woodside said all World War II cemeteries will be of the same design "with a peristyle of white columns, a nondenominational chapel and a memorial where the names of 80,000 Americans reported missing will be engraved."

United States Army Gen. Thomas North of the commission said the first contract for 22,500 headstones was signed July 1, in Rome. He added that after nearly five years the dead are to have permanent graves in Anzio and Florence. The delay, he explained, was due in part to the fact the families had until December 30, 1951, to say whether they wanted the bodies brought back to the United States.

General North said there will be approximately 13,000 Americans in the two permanent cemeteries in Italy. When the permanent cemeteries are completed Anzio will have about 8600 tombs and Florence nearly 4600.

General North said the names of the 80,000 missing will be inscribed in the memorials of the cemeteries nearest the theater where they were reported missing. The memorials also will include the names of sailors who went down with their ships in the operational theater of the cemetery.

Headstones to Be Made in Tyrol

Soldiers whose bodies were not identified will have a plain tombstone with the inscription "Here rests in honored glory a comrade in arms known but to God."

The white headstones will be made in Lassa quarries near Merano in southern Tyrol. There are plain crosses for Christians and Stars of David for Jewish dead, each 3 feet 3 inches high.

The headstones will cost about $30 each, which includes the cost of inscription (names and surnames, rank, organization and date of death) and transport from the quarries to the cemeteries. Part of the first lot will go to Anzio and Florence, the rest to France and Belgium.

The bid was open to all marble-producing countries, General North said, and the Italians made the lowest offer. Within the next two years he will place bids for the remaining 82,500 tombstones, to be delivered as soon as possible.

30,908 From World War I

Headstones of World War I were made at the Carrara marble quarries. These cost $19 each and after nearly 20 years look like new with only one polishing. There are 30,908 World War I American graves in European cemeteries.

Generals Woodside and North went from Italy to North Africa to take over the war cemetery of Carthage from the Graves Registration Service. This was the first World War II cemetery handed over from the Army to the commission.

The Graves Registration Service cares for the burials, General North explained, while the commission looks after construction and upkeep of the permanent cemeteries.

Milwaukee Police War On Gambling Parks

Milwaukee, July 19 (U.P.).—Gin rummy and pinochle games for high stakes are rampant in the city parks, police said today. They sent out plainclothesmen to break them up.

Housewives complained that their husbands were losing their pay checks in card games that started in the morning and went on until dark. Picnickers protested that all the park tables were taken, and they were forced to spread their lunches on the grass.

Prisoner Doubles His Own Sentence

Ottawa, July 19 (U.P.).—Rene Sevigny, 38, of Montreal, has started serving six months in jail because he didn't know when he was well off.

Deputy Magistrate Joachim Suave gave him three months for stealing a wallet worth $1.50 from a five-and-ten-cent store.

"Why, you . . .," said Sevigny.

"That will be another three months," said the judge, quietly.

1 ANNIVERSARY SALE

We're celebrating!

And, being the same Plain Old Pearson's Stock Exchange, the best birthday celebration we could think of was to have the biggest sale we've ever had. After all, who ever heard of celebrating an anniversary without having old friends drop in? So we figured the sale would give you an excuse to come in and say "hello."

Know something else? We're going to do some remodeling. Those piles of cases stacked in the aisle look as if they're about to push through the ceiling . . . so before they do, we're going to increase our size . . . but BIG!

YEP! Our prices may be down, but we're moving up. You see, if we're going to continue changing our prices three times a day so that they're the lowest, we've got to make more room for our customers. Then, too, the more sales we have, the more customers we have!

Anyway, as long as we're going to remodel, we thought we might as well throw in a Pre-remodeling Sale, too! So, look out, Moon! At this rate, we might wind up some day with the only skyscraper on Wisconsin Avenue . . . Wall Street was never like this!

The Gallup Poll

Truman Still Well Liked, Poll Shows

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., July 19.—The personal popularity of President Truman, which has risen and fallen with dramatic sharpness since he took office four years ago, remains comparatively steady today, unchanged as compared with March.

Apparently the balking and the delays in Congress over enactment of the Truman "Fair Deal" program have not affected the President's personal standing with the voters.

Approximately six out of ten voters questioned in a Nation-wide survey say they approve of the way he is handling his job as President.

The highest he ever stood in this type of survey was 87 per cent four years ago, shortly after he took office, and the lowest was 32 per cent in 1946, just before the congressional elections in which the Democrats lost control of both houses of Congress.

However, the President is not as popular today as he was last January, during the "honeymoon" period following his victory over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the November election.

Here's the score during 1949:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Truman is handling his job as President?

	Approve.	Disapprove.	No Opinion.
Today.....	57%	26%	17%
March	57	24	19
January ...	69	17	14

All sampling surveys are subject to an error, which has averaged 4 percentage points in election forecasting over the last 14 years. Drawing on experience gained in the 1948 presidential election, the Canadian affiliate of the Gallup Poll forecast the general election on June 27 with an error averaging under 1½ percentage points on all parties.

Although the President has sidestepped all questions about being a candidate again in 1952, a substantial majority of voters think he will run. A survey reported earlier this month showed 57 per cent believing that he will try for another term.

He would be eligible to do so even if the anti-third-term amendment, already ratified by 23 States, is adopted. The amendment exempts the President in office at the time it was proposed.

French Ships Almost Back To Prewar

Paris, July 19 (NYHT).—The French merchant fleet, reduced from three million tons to less than a million during the war, has recovered most of its loss and soon hopes to regain its prewar strength, Andre Colin, Minister of Marine, said today.

Colin spoke at Le Havre—in ceremonies observing the return of the luxury liner Ile de France to the transatlantic fleet. The ship will make her maiden voyage since her reconstruction when she sails Thursday for New York.

"By means of repairs, recovery of sunken ships, purchase of vessels and new construction within France we have reached the point where we have more than 2,500,000 tons of shipping in the merchant marine," Colin said. "If we can carry out the program we have set, we will be back to three million tons within two more years."

President Vincent Auriol, speaking from the site upon which Le Havre's new city hall will be built, conferred the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre on "Europe's most bombed port." The area in which he spoke had been devastated in the war by 132 bombardments.

"We celebrate," he said, "the rebirth of a living city." Le Havre has repaired more than half of its destroyed docks, and is now exceeding its prewar tonnage.

Burgess, 84, Discovers' 3-Month Hip Fracture

Freeland, Pa., July 19 (AP).—Burgess Thomas J. Lewis,—believed to be the oldest borough government head in Pennsylvania—worked for three months at his daily duties before he discovered he had a fractured hip.

Lewis, who will be 84 next month, fell down the stairs in the borough building last April. He was bedfast for a week. Then he went back to work. When the pains in his hip and leg continued, he was persuaded to have X-ray's taken. Doctors were amazed when they discovered the fracture.

Scolded in Shooting, Woman Thrashes Cop

Miami, Fla., July 19 (AP).—A tall, attractive Irish lass was fined $15 for thrashing a husky policeman.

"She made a wreck out of me," Patrolman Frank Miguel admitted.

All he did, was scold Mrs. Patricia Blatt, 22, because she shot out with a BB gun street lights shining in her bedroom window. Whereupon, he told the judge, Patricia slapped him nine times and kicked him vigorously before he and his partner subdued and handcuffed her.

Netherlands Postpones Indonesian Sovereignty

Batavia, Java, July 19 (U.P.).—The Dutch government has announced postponement of the August 1 Hague conference at which the Dutch were to grant sovereignty to the Indonesian Republic.

However, Dutch officials said they were confident the transfer of sovereignty from the Dutch to the Indonesians would occur before January.

Local Unemployment

In his midyear economic report to Congress President Truman suggested that there were a number of Federal programs that could be timed and channeled so as to relieve the distress of localized unemployment. The first step toward putting into effect proposals of this kind has been taken by the Department of Commerce, which is preparing to make an on-the-spot survey of business and unemployment conditions throughout the country, starting with New England, a region particularly hard hit by the business recession. The next step will be to speed up buying and construction activities in areas where unemployment has become serious.

This program does not call for any increase in budgeted Government outlays and is merely designed to provide a maximum amount of stimulus to industry in cities or districts most in need of it. The chief danger from an attempt to time and adjust Government spending operations to the needs of depressed areas is that some of these outlays will be primarily job-creating enterprises, absorbing funds that could have been used to better advantage elsewhere. There is also a danger that the citizens of communities where unemployment is now at high levels will take an unduly gloomy view of the local business outlook. For example, reports from New England stating that the textile industries are already experiencing a comeback and laid-off employes are being recalled should be taken into account in making regional business forecasts. Furthermore, in areas where unemployment has become chronic, owing to permanent changes in the local industrial pattern, public projects may be the wrong kind of panacea for joblessness. In such situations, workers should be encouraged to migrate, not to stay put.

Apart from such reservations, the President's program appears to be well suited to the needs of the present time, and is in line with conservative views about the importance of careful timing and selection of projects financed by the Federal Government. In any case, it is highly desirable for Government officials to establish and maintain close contacts with business and labor leaders in all parts of the United States. For in a country as large as ours, with highly diversified industry and agriculture, prosperity and depression often exist side by side. An insight into the needs of the people cannot be gained from statistics of over-all production and total employment, national unemployment averages or data on national income.

Atomic Allies

Calculated risk is a necessary assumption in war, and the time has come to apply it to the collective effort to maintain the peace. The necessity for such a risk lies in the reported British demand for more information on atomic energy—information which since the war the United States has kept largely to itself. For if this country is not willing to run the risk of giving atomic information to its allies, it will invite a sort of atomic nationalism in Europe which will gut the cooperative nature of the Atlantic Pact.

The genius of the Atlantic Pact is that it implies a division of labor in a collective responsibilty of all signatories for the common defense. Presumably in the event of attack the bulk of the initial defensive ground forces would come from Europe, with Britain furnishing some of the air power. By the same token, atomic defense would be a particular responsibility of the United States. The obligation to come to the aid of Europe, with all necessary force, including atomic weapons, is inherent in the pact.

It would be divisive and self-defeating under such circumstances for Britain or any other pact signatory to proceed independently with atomic weapons development. Such projects would duplicate work done here, and Europe is ill-prepared to afford such frills in a period of economic stringency. It is not too much to ask that in return for the guaranty under the Atlantic Pact these nations forgo individual atomic weapons development.

At the same time, the United States has a moral obligation to make available the fruits of its own atomic experimentation for peaceful exploitation. With respect to Britain and Canada the obligation is a special one, because our own development was aided by their contributions. Such cooperation should envisage the exchange of military information and staff talks over the location of bomb stockpiles. We already, for example, have bombers stockpiled in Britain—and this, in the present context, is a calculated risk. The same degree of obligation in respect of military information does not hold for other countries which, though they are covered by the guaranty of the pact, are not in a position to manufacture atomic weapons—though even here the freer exchange of nonmilitary information undoubtedly would redound ultimately to our benefit. It is scarcely necessary to add that the British Empire and the Belgian Congo furnish a large part of the uranium used by the United States.

Patently what is necessary is to grasp reality and prepare a workable substitute for the Baruch Plan. The need will not be met by timorous reasoning as to why atomic exchange is impossible, but by the Administration boldly taking the initiative and calling for whatever measures are required to cement the partnership with Britain and Canada as a foundation of the Atlantic Pact.

Robinson v. Robeson

It seems to us that the Negroes in the United States owe a good deal of gratitude to Mr. Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers for defending them Monday against the insulting libels of Mr. Paul Robeson. Mr. Robeson has made no secret of the fact that his own loyalties are pledged to a Communist regime, which has reduced millions of human beings to a condition of servitude infinitely more degraded than that of Negroes in any Southern State. But then Mr. Robeson's recent conduct has been such that if he had said that his first loyalty was to his own country, it would have been difficult to believe him. When he said, however, that his views are shared by Negroes generally, he was actually betraying them in the interest of Communist tactics to the advocates of white supremacy.

Nevertheless, it took a good deal of courage for Mr. Robinson to speak his mind about Mr. Robeson. A great deal of pressure, as Mr. Robinson admitted to the Committee on Un-American Activities, was brought to bear on him in an effort to dissuade him from doing so. As the first of his race to rise to unquestioned eminence in a field from which it has hitherto been excluded, Mr. Robinson has been placed in an extremely delicate position. The nature of his work puts him in intimate daily association with white men, many of them Southerners, with whom it is necessary to remain on terms of friendship; at the same time his great success has made him a symbol of Negro aspirations.

Thus it might have seemed the part of discretion to have kept aloof from matters of public controversy, thereby avoiding the possibility of making enemies among either whites or Negroes, and to have allowed his professional exploits to speak for themselves. Mr. Robinson's statement to the committee was, however, a masterpiece of candor. He left the committee under no illusions concerning how Negroes, even those who are prosperous and successful, feel about the disabilities imposed on them by social prejudice in the United States.

But at the same time Mr. Robinson was bold enough to acknowledge that there are freedoms which even Negroes enjoy in the United States and which they find preferable to a regime which would deny them any freedoms. He also acknowledged that the equities in American life that Negroes have already won, and the further equities they are demanding, involve a recognition of their responsibilities as citizens. "I can't," he told the committee, "speak for 15 million people any more than any other one person can; but I know that I've got too much invested for my wife and child and myself in the future of this country, and I and many other Americans have too much invested in our country's welfare, for any of us to throw it away for a siren song sung in bass."

Already Mr. Robinson is paying the penalty of his courage. He has become the target of abuse in the Communist Daily Worker, and the cry is likely to be echoed in other quarters of the extreme Left—an unpleasant situation for a man whose business, as he said himself, is not politics but baseball.

Farm Statesmanship

American farmers, it appears, have a great deal more common sense, patriotism and public spirit than Senator McClellan and a majority of his Appropriations Committee colleagues gave them credit for. Senator McClellan sponsored, and the Appropriations Committee adopted, an amendment to the ECA appropriation bill requiring ECA to set aside funds to finance the purchase by foreign governments of surplus American agricultural products of the kinds and in the quantities which were set forth for illustrative purposes when the agency prepared budget estimates at the committee's request. The result of this, whatever its temporary benefits to certain farm groups, would be to convert the European Recovery Program into a dumping mechanism for American surpluses—precisely what the Communist critics of the program have called it since its inception.

If Senator McClellan supposed that this sort of pork-barreling was the way to win farm favor, the rest of the Senate need not suffer from any such delusion. For the major farm organizations of the country have now made it plain that they want the McClellan amendment deleted in the interests of statesmanship. Allan B. Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, and A. S. Goss, master of the National Grange, have joined in a letter to Senator Connally as commendable for the lucidity with which it analyzes the problem as for the sense of public responsibility it reflects.

"Much as the farm organizations want to market our surplus crops," the three farm leaders declared, "we feel that it would be a serious blunder for us to assume the responsibility of dictating to the European nations what they must buy, and thereby lessen their responsibility for consummating their plans. If they need these crops, we want them to buy them, but we do not want to see ECA funds used for purchases they do not need, and we do not want to see any lessening of the responsibility of the participating nations for executing their own plans successfully." We trust the Senate will heed this enlightened counsel.

Frank Murphy

Mr. Justice Murphy was, in a peculiar sense, a product of his times. As a lawyer and a man of public affairs, he knew that the sit-down strikes in the General Motors plants (which occurred while he was Governor of Michigan) were wrong and illegal, but he held the law in check to avoid bloodshed. In other words, his humanitarianism predominated over his attachment to law and order. No doubt it was this quality in him that induced President Roosevelt to reward him, in the face of his defeat at the polls, with the Attorney Generalship. In 1940 he was promoted, probably for the same reason, to the Supreme Court. In any event, his strong sympathy with the underdog and his disposition to show mercy, even at the expense of law and order in government, carried over in very marked fashion into his service on the bench.

It is for this reason that Justice Murphy was often referred to as the least influential member of the Supreme Court. In that body decisions usually revolve around a hard core of law. Most of its members think in legal terms and render their judgments in accord with legal principles, regardless of how much they may disagree as to what is the ruling legal principle in any given case. Of course, Justice Murphy gave heed to legal arguments and wrote opinions in legal terms, but he could usually be counted upon to take the humanitarian rather than the legal point of view if the two should be in conflict.

At times he could rise to eloquence and power in keeping with the best traditions of the Supreme Court, as in his dissent in the Korematsu Case. In that case the court upheld the unconscionable exclusion of American citizens of Japanese origin from the West Coast in wartime without regard for their personal loyalty. "Such exclusion goes over 'the very brink of constitutional power,'" Justice Murphy said, "and falls into the ugly abyss of racism." His passion for civil rights seemed often, however, to lead to his acceptance of flimsy presumptions or to the disregard of equally basic constitutional principles, as when he joined the majority in the recent notorious Terminiello opinion. Some of the court's most flagrant misinterpretations of congressional statutes, as in the famous portal-to-portal case, were written by Justice Murphy. Two weeks ago he handed down a shocking opinion in the Christoffel Case suggesting that no action of Congress is legal unless taken while a quorum is present.

In spite of his devotion to the cause of civil rights and his humanitarian spirit, Murphy cannot be regarded as one of the great men of the American judiciary. His special talent was not that of the judge but that of the crusader, and his record might well have been more notable if he had not attempted to reconcile his humanitarianism with a judicial robe.

Trade With Tito

Still carrying water on both shoulders, Marshal Tito is veering gradually further from the Kremlin. This is not out of antipathy to communism, for he constantly makes plain that the Belgrade brand is far superior in purity and body and flavor to that brewed in Moscow. His tendency does not reveal any increase of affection for the West, either, but strictly a fear for the safety of his own regime—or skin.

His announcement of the progressive closing of the Greek-Yugoslav frontier—already begun—falls clearly into this explanation. The Greek guerillas, whom Tito castigated just the other day for propaganda misdeeds, take their orders from the Soviet Union and get their sustenance from Bulgaria and Albania. Victory for them, therefore, would be as much if not more of a danger to Tito than victory for the Greek government. An inept "capitalism" in Greece might be ever so reactionary. But it would at least not present the aggressively antipathetic front of a Soviet satellite regime, or the threat of an autonomous Macedonia created largely out of Yugoslav territory.

Tito, in his speech last week, admitted that he is playing footie with the United States in the matter of a loan. But he promised that such a loan would not have any concealed political or ideological strings attached to it. He proclaimed himself as adamant as ever on Yugoslavia's claim to Austrian Carinthia and against transfer to Italy of the Free Territory of Trieste. As to the latter, the locale of the speech at Pola, in former Italian territory, is perhaps as significant in its way as the recent decision to substitute the dinar for the lira as official currency in the Yugoslav part of the Free Territory.

Granted that Tito is as much of a Communist and as much an enemy of "capitalist imperialism" as he says he is, the prospect of increased commercial relations with Yugoslavia can still be faced without more than a grimace. Tito needs machinery that he cannot get in eastern Europe—could not even were he still on good terms with Stalin. Western Europe needs goods he can supply. The trade will be mutually beneficial in and of itself. And it will have the further important effect of demonstrating in a key area of Europe the material advantages of a western orientation.

Home Rule Poll

The article in your July 15 issue on the Kefauver home rule bill reports a poll of its membership taken by the Washington Board of Trade, in which 80 per cent of the 30 per cent who replied to the questionnaire opposed the Kefauver bill.

Like any poll dependent upon whatever unknown factors motivate a minority to return filled-in questionnaires, this survey can hardly be used for any scientific conclusions.

In addition to its unknown errors of sampling, the Board of Trade poll used a questionnaire technique which may have had considerable influence on the results. Each ballot was accompanied by a printed discussion of the bill, and the respondents were instructed to read these discussions before answering the questions on the ballot. The discussion covered the main features of the bill, but sometimes in terms which implied defects and disapproval. The last section of the discussion was entitled "Important Items Omitted From This Bill," and was not paralleled by a section praising any inclusions.

Certain questions, too, in the questionnaire were phrased in a somewhat prejudicial way; for example, "Do you believe this bill provides real 'home rule' for the District of Columbia?" No provision was made for recording remarks, so common in public opinion interviews, which illuminate the meaning (and sometimes change the intention!) of the flatly recorded yes's and no's.

The Board of Trade survey therefore presents results from a fraction of its membership in response to a defective questionnaire. Its significance is negligible as compared, say, with the public plebiscite held two years ago, in which thousands of District citizens voted in majority for home rule and national representation, presented as unbiased questions, and separated clearly as issues.

Freedom To Mislead

The full-page advertisement containing an article by Chancellor Hutchins of Chicago University published in your issue of June 30 is one of several in similar vein. One by the president of Harvard appeared not long ago.

All these articles conspicuously omit to mention that the very idea of freedom of speech and academic freedom, a limited and modern idea, implies the obligation to tell the truth or at least not to tell lies that can be proven as such. And this applies particularly to those who would mislead the public for their own ends.

Libel laws protect the individual from those who would lie about him. The Postoffice Department and the Federal Trade Commission are active in prosecuting those who mislead the public for their own ends. No, academic freedom and freedom of speech do not imply freedom to lie.

While the colleges may not be "full of Reds," as Chancellor Hutchins avers they are not, they are all too infested with those who, perhaps for their own ends, promote the policy of giving to politicians the power to "redistribute the wealth," that is to rob some of the people for the benefit of other people, not of society as a whole.

This policy is inherent in every form of society except the "American way of life," which aims under the Constitution to prevent anyone from robbing anyone else. The Constitution aims to afford everyone the right to enjoy the fruits of his own efforts and to deny his right to the fruits of other men's efforts. Communism, socialism, fascism, and all others of this sort are based on the idea of some human authority having the power to rob some for the benefit of others.

Every such philosophy is totally false and misleading, both on the basis of experience and of sound analysis. Those who promote them, unless entirely deceived themselves, do so for their own ends, believing that they themselves can get more through political action than by producing what others want, as they must do under the American way of life. In every instance where such a philosophy has been adopted the results have been disastrous or are on the way there.

American Fashions

Although I cannot speak for the English woman I do believe I can honestly say in refuting Mr. E. G. Hall's July 14 letter criticizing women, that the American woman most definitely does not "obey without question" the dictates of certain fashion designers.

American women were quick to realize that extremely long and full skirts were not suitable to their daily living—and that they were, except on the extremely slim and very young, generally very unflattering. Last year began the return of the slimmed skirt—not that it was ever completely abandoned—and a few inches were chopped off the hemline.

I think our good British friend, Mr. Hall, is so very, very wrong. Women, American women, most certainly are not "just sheep." By refusing to accept, with open arms, the corseted waist, the padded hips and long tent-like skirts, these are now passe and even the great French designers are creating models with more American appeal.

Service Competition

It is reassuring to learn from Admiral Yarnell (letter published July 16) that "there is no dominant arm in warfare. All are equally essential." This statement is such a radical departure from the customary Navy pronouncements that Yarnell may find himself excommunicated.

The dominant Navy viewpoint is that unification can succeed only with the Navy on land, on the sea, and in the air. Yarnell's equality thesis may happily presage a spirit of compromise by the Navy in which it hopes through equal budgets to secure its vast World War II expansion.

Yarnell says, "The efficiency and high performance of naval and military aircraft are mainly due to the competition that has existed between the Navy and the Air Force in their design and operation." Yarnell has in mind the playing fields of Eaton and chooses to ignore the waste and extravagance inherent in such competition. He forgets that Russian competition will be sufficient to keep all of the armed forces on their toes for some time to come. An intramural contest is absolutely unnecessary and far too expensive for our national pocketbook.

I pray the Vinson Committee will ignore Yarnell and others like him who still think of war as a sport in which each of three teams will be given its equal chance to win the medals of honor. War today is a question of national survival which can only be decided favorably by a total national effort toward victory unhindered by the glorious history of the Marine Corps or the traditional supremacy of the Navy.

Economic Equality

I have been reading your letters to the editor column on the racial question and I find both sides are missing the real issue. For most of the Negroes, of which I am one, it is not so much the social as the economic question that we are interested in. We do not wish to be forced to eat, drink or play with white or any other people unless we wish to do so, and I think the whites or any other color have the same privilege. But I would like for my husband to be able to draw the same salary for what he knows as the white man.

Atom Fellowship Riders

The Washington Association of Scientists is opposed to the amendment proposed by Senator O'Mahoney to the appropriation bill, H. R. 4177. This amendment requires recipients of fellowships granted by the Atomic Energy Commission to be subjected to loyalty investigations and to penalties beyond those in the existing law.

Our reasons for opposing this amendment are as follows:

1. It will deter the advancement of science in general, and our knowledge of nuclear physics in particular. The supply of able scientists is scanty in any case, and this amendment will serve to interpose additional obstacles to the development of top-notch people.

2. It will weaken rather than strengthen the national defense. The strength of our defense lies in the creative ability of our scientists. This amendment, however, would put the political beliefs of a candidate above his scientific competence as a basis of selection.

3. It will not accomplish its avowed purpose. Persons who actually are disloyal will not be deterred from accepting fellowships by the amendment. It may, however, deprive capable loyal citizens of the opportunity to study, since, in the past, "reasonable doubt" of loyalty has been established on the basis of mere malicious rumor.

4. It discriminates against recipients of fellowships as compared with recipients of other forms of financial assistance from the Government.

5. It attempts to achieve its ends by police state methods rather than democratic means. In effect, it imposes ex post facto punishment upon recipients of fellowships. For example, suppose a scientist has been or is now associated with a group which holds unorthodox but currently legitimate political views. If, at a later date, the Attorney General declared this group to be engaged in subversive activities, any members who held AEC fellowships would thereby become criminals and subject to fine, imprisonment, or both.

6. It paves the way for the kind of disintegration of science which took place in Nazi Germany and seems to be happening in Russia.

We feel that the amendment is a product of the present hysteria. Upon reflection, the Congress will see that the interests of the country will be preserved best by stimulating science rather than by placing additional obstacles in the path of scientific progress.

U. S.-British Blind Spots

By Malvina Lindsay

Grassroots Prejudice

THE 83 American schoolteachers who sailed yesterday for Britain (3 others have left and 11 more will go later) and the 97 British teachers who will come here next month under the teacher exchange program could not have better timing for their friendly invasions.

For once again the two nations, bound together in virtual marriage by tradition and world politics, are snapping at each other over money matters. As usual, all the ghosts of past misunderstandings line up for the fray.

But what can, say, Miss Smith of Kansas, who will soon begin a term in an English village, do about this? Or how can Miss Brown of London, who will teach in a small Midwest town, influence the trend of United States-British relations?

Each can do more in clearing up national blind spots than any other type of private emissary because each has such a wide arc of community influence. What has already been done in this line in the three years the small-scale teacher exchange has operated is recorded in stacks of letters and reports received by Dr. Paul Smith of the Office of Education, who is in charge of the American end of the program.

These reports reveal how many of the stock notions, traditional prejudices and misunderstandings of the average Britisher and American concerning each other have held on through the years. They also reveal how many exchange teachers have been able to dissipate these through their contact with pupils, their speaking engagements, their social and community contacts.

OVER AND over again, these reports tell of the British teacher who finds the American far different from the movie version—and, strangest of all, not isolationist even in the Middle West! They tell how the British community is surprised to find the American teacher not a gum-chewing cowgirl or an overdressed, extravagant, frivolous-minded glamour devotee, or a slangy man in a flashy necktie.

They tell how nearly every British teacher finds American communities surprised that she—or he—is not the stuffed shirt of the cartoons, wholly without humor, snooty in manners, non-understandable in speech.

Many British teachers in this country average around 100 community speeches a term. American teachers in Britain do not have such vigorous speaking schedules, as the club speaker cult does not flourish so greatly there. But these American teachers travel all over the British Isles, attend garden parties and public ceremonies, meet Britons socially. Frequently they live in British homes.

Besides clearing up surface misconceptions, the exchange teachers often absorb from each other's culture leavening elements that in the long run will make for greater intangible union of the two peoples. For example, the American teacher in the unhurried atmosphere of the British schoolroom, with its time out for tea and conversation free of shop talk, may get a new perspective on the rush, competition, and slick "paper work" efficiency of American schools. And seeing the British children effectively "making do" with limited materials, she may realize that big modern buildings and an abundance of supplies are not first things in education.

SIMILARLY the British teacher seeing American children being freed of formalism in instruction, encouraged in self-confidence, initiative and the social self-expression that will help them get on in the world, may feel a new courage to question formal patterns at home.

Nearly all the teachers return to their homelands with warm, happy memories. British teachers remember the great spaces of America, the abundant sunshine, the food plenty, the "gay and rich clothes on Main Street as well as Fifth Avenue," the thrill of the New York skyline and the Grand Canyon, the buoyancy and competency of the people and their overwhelming good will.

American teachers remember the British countryside (far more expansive than they had dreamed), the spots of historic and literary tradition that bind the two peoples together, the surprising intermingling of classes, including lords and ladies, the human stamina and rugged resistance to climate and other adversities, the quiet, restrained but deep-seated friendliness, the sense of fundamental strength that flows through the people.

In the three years the teacher exchange has operated 312 pairs of teachers have been placed. There have naturally been some misfits. But enthusiasm for the program—the costs of which are met by local school boards—is great in both countries.

"Tick Tactics"

With reference to the "Tick Tactics" in your July 6 issue, the most effective method I have found of removing ticks from the body after the head has become imbedded in the flesh is a very simple one. Take a tooth pick and put one drop of spirits of turpentine on the tick's back and you will see some real action. You will not need any tweezers to remove it. He will release his hold at once and try to get somewhere else in a hurry.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

The Snake In The Garden

BANGKOK, Siam.—The first thing that strikes a visitor here is a simple but significant difference between Siam and the rest of southeast Asia. Here, if you get in a car and wander about the countryside, the people are apt to wave at you. In the other countries, if you get in a car and wander about the countryside, the people are apt to shoot at you. This is the only country between the Philippines and India which is at peace.

The second thing that strikes the visitor is the charming but faintly insane cheerfulness of the Siamese people. The dragons, lions, pigs, deer, and other unidentifiable animal figures which decorate Bangkok's innumerable temples, wear, almost without exception, a rather crack-brained grin. So do the people. Neuroses and peptic ulcers are unknown in the country, which may be one reason why Siam is fairly swarming with Americans who came for a visit and have settled down for life.

Siam is both peaceful and cheerful simply because Siam is both independent and prosperous. The small wars being fought elsewhere in southeast Asia are wars between Occidentals and Orientals. Because Siam has never been a colonial country there is virtually no racial tension here at all, which is in itself like coming into the fresh air out of a dank cellar. The Siamese may be a trifle condescending to Occidentals (as to a people with a peculiar odor and a senseless tendency to melancholia). But they are always genuinely and unself-consciously friendly.

NOR DOES this end the list of Siam's blessings. Fantastically, in Asia, Siam is actually underpopulated. Here there is no land hunger, no desperate scrabbling to stay alive. Premier Phibul Songgram (who is known as "the strong man of Siam" and who looks like a cheerful middle-aged cherub) told this reporter that the great problem was not land reform—there is enough and to spare—but getting the people to work the land. The Siamese peasant rather sensibly believes in working only enough to satisfy his immediate needs. Even so, Siam has a large rice export, which is vital to the rest of Asia, and which keeps Siam's books neatly in the black.

Politics in Siam have, at least on the surface, an agreeable, opera quality. There are really two Siamese political parties, the Phibul Party and the Pridi Party. Premier Phibul collaborated with the Japanese, and after the Japanese defeat he suffered a temporary eclipse which included a brief term in jail. His power was inherited by his ancient rival, Pridi Phanamyong, who had secretly bet on the Allies during the war and had supplied valuable intelligence to the United States.

Phibul (supported by the army) rose phoenix-like from his incarceration late in 1947 and deposed Pridi, who, to complicate matters, was suspected of complicity in the assassination of the King. Pridi (supported by the navy) has twice tried to bring off a countercoup, has been trounced each time, and is now in hiding.

These alarms and excursions have had a certain entertainment value, but they have led to little bloodshed, and they have no real importance (although Americans who have lived here a long time tend to take them very seriously). For the vast majority of Siamese, life goes on, and very pleasantly, too, no matter who happens to occupy the ornate palace of the Premier.

YET THERE is, inevitably, a snake in this Asiatic Garden of Eden. The snake is, of course, communism. To the Siamese themselves, communism has no meaning at all. There are, to be sure, a few Siamese who are beginning to sniff which way the winds seem to be blowing in Asia, and who are acting accordingly. But there is not even a serious pretense of a Siamese Communist Party.

The Kremlin has nevertheless certain real assets here. As everywhere in southeast Asia, there is a huge Chinese minority, which includes a hard Communist core variously estimated between 4 and 10 thousand. These Chinese Communists are well financed. They sell pictures of Mao Tse Tung at handsome prices to rich Chinese merchants who want to reinsure themselves. The Communists have thus had the wherewithal to bribe most of the Siamese police. This Communist hard core can be expected to play an important role in the future.

But the Kremlin's greatest asset is simply the conviction that communism represents the wave of the future—that it is some vast, mysterious, all-powerful force destined to sweep all before it. This conviction is common to all Asia, but it is particularly striking here. If nothing is done to alter this conviction and to stop the Communist wave, it is wholly predictable, for reasons which will be examined in a forthcoming report in this space, that this small, gay country will soon be gay no longer.

Washington Calling

Atomic Relations

THE CLOSE wartime alliance between Great Britain and the United States is fast becoming a bickering and suspicious relationship that threatens to break out in something very much like a cold war. This is the unhappy reality little more than four years after VE-Day.

Childs

It is nowhere better illustrated than in the sharp controversy over what atomic information shall be sent from the United States to Britain and Canada. That was the subject of the showdown session here last week, as is now fairly widely known.

What has not been known is the surprising and dramatic turn that that conference took. Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission was prepared to defend the position taken by the commission in favor of a generous policy of sharing information with British scientists now at work on their own atomic energy project.

Lilienthal, from the beginning, as he has made clear in his public statements, favored continuing the wartime partnership in which British scientists worked side by side with American and Canadian scientists at the Los Alamos, N. Mex., atomic laboratory.

He opposed Lieut. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the Manhattan project during the war, who wanted to keep all secret technical developments for America's sole use. Groves had been largely instrumental in getting certain restrictions written into the law turning the vast atomic energy project over to a civilian commission.

AFTER lengthy negotiation with the many interests involved, Lilienthal got approval for a limited three-way exchange between Britain, Canada and this country. Then the incident occurred, described in this space a week ago, when a "courier"—actually an AEC scientist—was stopped on the way to Britain and ordered to return with certain information the commission had authorized him to take to England.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Committee, has told intimates how he and Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper jumped in a car and rushed down to the White House when they got word of the nature of the information the scientist had with him. Hickenlooper, then chairman of the congressional committee, has since become Lilienthal's chief foe. On the basis of their representations to President Truman the "courier" was ordered to return.

But that did not end the matter either with the British or with those here in Washington who believe in an honest cooperative exchange. Hence the showdown conference at Blair House.

It was not, however, Lilienthal who made the most reasoned and at the same time the most moving statement in favor of sharing our knowledge. That came from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had been invited by President Truman to be present.

Those who heard him were impressed by the soldier-statesman's deep sincerity and conviction. Even one of the Senators present, who had been complaining about how we were "always shelling out to the British," seemed to take Eisenhower's remarks to heart. What Eisenhower said to that hushed gathering in Blair House went something like this:

"GENTLEMEN, I'm not an expert in these matters you're discussing. But I've had some experience in this field. Once in my lifetime I have had to direct the landing of troops in Europe.

"That was possible because we had a wartime ally in Great Britain. I would like to have anyone here tell me how troops can be landed anywhere in Eurasia unless we have an ally in Britain."

What he said that evening, Eisenhower often has said before. It goes back to his conviction that mutual self-interest must hold the British and the American peoples together. Above all, as Eisenhower sees it, the English-speaking peoples must cherish together the heritage of freedom that they share.

In his book, Crusade in Europe, Eisenhower stressed that the terms of an alliance cannot be spelled out in minute detail. They must rest on mutual trust and confidence.

"But don't the British need us?" one of the Blair House conferees interposed.

"Yes," said Eisenhower quietly, "and we need them."

Eisenhower has, of course, no sympathy with the British Socialist experiment, as he is quick to add. But in the crucible of war he learned that no nation can live alone in this age of speed faster than sound.

The politicians are always being surprised by General Ike, perhaps because he has the unusual habit of saying what he really believes. And they got still another surprise the other night when he let go with what is one of his truest and deepest convictions—that mutual trust, without haggling, is the only basis for partnership.

Mexico Drops Effort to Get U. S. Oil Loan

Negotiations for a 203-million-dollar loan sought by Mexico to develop its oil resources have collapsed, it was announced yesterday.

In a joint statement, the State Department and Mexican government reported that the loan talks, under way since March, "have now been suspended at the request of the Mexican government without prejudice to their resumption. . . ."

No official reason was given for ending the negotiations, and no figure on the size of the proposed loan was given in the joint announcement.

The Mexican Embassy here, however, confirmed reports that Mexico sought 203 million dollars for development, refining and distribution of oil.

Mexico hoped to get the loan from the Export-Import Bank, for Pemex (Petroleos Mexicano), Mexican government oil monopoly.

There have been indications that the United States might have granted a 100-million-dollar loan to Mexico, but this would have been conditioned on the opening of Mexican oil development to private investment.

Many American oil companies have protested that Mexican oil should not be permitted to compete with this Nation's production, while Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) has proposed that oil imports be limited to 5 per cent of domestic demand.

President Truman said in April that he would favor an oil loan to Mexico if various Government departments concerned approved it.

Principal departments concerned were State, Treasury, Interior, the Export-Import Bank and the National Military Establishment.

Acheson May Discuss It Today

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who has previously declined to comment on the loan, probably will be asked to discuss it at his press conference today.

Antonio J. Bermudez, director general of Pemex, spent several weeks here this spring in discussing the loan with Government officials and Congressmen.

Chairman Herbert E. Gaston of the Export-Import Bank told The Washington Post yesterday that negotiations on the loan "were not carried on by us," but he said bank officials discussed a loan informally with Bermudez.

The bank told Bermudez, said Gaston, that "if the conditions in Mexico became such that exploration and development (of oil lands) is freely opened up to private capital without discrimination, we would reconsider our policy of loans to Pemex."

No loan to Pemex has ever been granted by the bank.

Gaston expressed surprise at the 203-million-dollar figure. He said no specific figure was mentioned in the talk with Bermudez.

Last March, in one of the most significant developments in Mexico's oil industry since 1938—when Mexico expropriated foreign oil properties—Pemex signed an oil drilling contract with three Americans, indepepdent oil operators.

Pauley Headed Group

Heading this group was Edwin W. Pauley, close friend of President Truman; Ralph K. Davies, wartime deputy petroleum administrator, and Samuel Mosher, West Coast oilman.

That contract, to run for 25 years, reportedly gave the Pauley group 50 per cent of production from all wells they drill until their investment is paid off, and thereafter, 15 to 18½ per cent of the value of production during the contract.

The Pauley group agreed, it was said, to invest 20 million pesos in the search for oil.

At a Mayflower Hotel luncheon meeting here yesterday of the Independent Petroleum Association, Denver oilman Charles Hill charged that if Mexico received an oil loan it would be in payment of a "political debt" to Pauley.

That association has previously gone on record as opposing the loan to Mexico.

Power Lobby Stirs Fight By Dixiecrats

By Robert S. Allen

The private power lobby can now claim credit for a feat of magic that not even President Truman has been able to perform.

As a result of its highly effective hatchet work in the Senate Appropriations Committee, the lobby has succeeded in lining up powerful Dixiecrat support for one of the major features of the President's Fair Deal program.

The power lobby had no intention of pulling this rabbit out of the hat. The remarkable trick is causing no elation in the lobby. The lobby was after something entirely different. It was seeking to scuttle a wide-range public power program promised by the President in his 1948 campaign and voted by the House.

On the basis of its successful undercover work in the Appropriations Committee, the lobby had good reason to believe it had torpedoed the program. Led by Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) and Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) the committee stripped from the House-passed Interior Department appropriation bill 20 million dollars for public power projects in the Southeast, Southwest, Central Valley of California, Montana and Colorado.

The committee's action was a tremendous victory for the lobby; the biggest of the session. By this one stroke, the lobby wiped out months of hard fighting by the Administration and a signal achievement by a group of public power advocates in the House led by Representative Mike Kirwan (D., Ohio).

Private utility jubilation was high. Word went out to the industry "Truman has been stopped."

From the latest development, however, that claim may prove to have been premature. A powerful group has been organized to wage a determined fight to override the committee on the Senate floor. Spearheading the counter attack will be a number of Dixiecrat Senators.

Chief among them are Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, head of the Southern caucus, Senator Walter George (D., Ga.), and Senator Olin Johnston (D., S. C.). Others in the group are Senator Robert Kerr (D., Okla.), Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), Senator Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), and Senator James E. Murray (D., Mont.).

Stimson Calls for Ratification Of Pact With No Reservations

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A "troubled" appeal for unqualified ratification of the North Atlantci Defense Treaty came from former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson yesterday as critics of the pact polled forces for a reservation push.

A new "declaration," denying any commitment to supply arms under the mutual aid (Article 3) provisions of the treaty, was proposed by Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.).

Wherry frankly admitted he had rephrased an earlier arms reservation to "get the biggest vote possible."

Connally Sure of Victory

Two outspoken opponents of the treaty, Senators Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) and Arthur V. Watkins (R., Utah) were reported agreed on the language.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), meanwhile repeated his forecast that the treaty will be overwhelmingly ratified when the Senate votes Thursday and said no reservation "has a chance."

Despite such assurances, former Secretary Stimson voiced concern over "press reports that the . . . treaty may be in some danger."

"If this treaty is beaten, or if its great meaning is befogged by reservations seeming to proceed from fear, we shall not soon be able to repair the damage," Stimson wired Senators Irving M. Ives and John Foster Dulles (R., N. Y.).

Stimson's concern was said to stem from his recollection of what happened in the fight for United States adherence to the World Court in 1935. The resolution of adherence was rejected by a 7-vote margin after approval had been taken for granted.

Some Opponents Concede Defeat

Administration proponents of the treaty insisted no such eleventh-hour upset is even remotely in sight on the treaty. They conceded that an arms reservation may poll a slightly heavier count than the actual opposition to the treaty, but said they were confident the treaty wouldn't be modified. Some opponents of the treaty privately conceded defeat.

Said Stimson:

"It is my deep conviction that, if the Senate should refuse its consent to the treaty or if it should attach reservations requiring the hazardous and disheartening process of renegotiation, it would be a disastrous repudiation of the traditional American effort to maintain and advance human freedom and peace in the world. It would be a repudiation of a tradition that goes back to the Monroe Doctrine."

Stimson called "effective self-help and mutual aid" provisions of the pact an exact parallel of the Monroe Doctrine as broadened in the Treaty of Rio de Janeiro.

He said he cannot understand the argument that the treaty "commits us to military aid which we may not wish to give."

Once the treaty is ratified, he said, we will be committed to give military assistance "whenever we recognize that the common purpose of the treaty requires such assistance."

Men may differ as to the size and form of the program, but "it is my personal conviction that there is a pressing present need for a moderate program of this sort," he wired Dulles and Ives.

Move for Reservation

Wherry announced the latest reservation move at a press conference following talks with Taft, Watkins and other Senators in the opposition camp. Watkins later told newsmen the three had agreed.

Wherry said the goal of the new "declaration" was identical with an earlier amendment he put in. This denied any arms commitment under either Article 3 (mutual aid) or Article 9 (joint consultations on defense), but conceded an arms obligation once any signatory was attacked.

His new proposal simply states: "The United States of America ratifies this treaty with the understanding that Article 3 commits none of the parties thereto, morally or legally, to furnish or supply arms, armaments, military, naval or air equipment or military, naval or air supplies to any other party or parties to this treaty."

Wherry said this was "more easily understood" than his original plan but still called for a "multilateral Monroe Doctrine approach."

One highly-placed Administration proponent of the pact said that however any reservation is phrased, it boils down to a blow at the treaty.

Dutch Lower House Approves Atlantic Pact

The Hague, July 19 (AP).—The Dutch Parliament's lower house approved the Atlantic Pact overwhelmingly today, after being assured it would not prejudice The Netherlands' defense of her interests in Indonesia.

The vote was 65 to 7, with only the Communists opposing.

Jackie Robinson Cited For VFW Gold Medal

Representative Kearney (R., N. Y.) said yesterday he had recommended that Jackie Robinson, Negro second baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, receive the Veterans of Foreign Wars' gold medal for good citizenship.

Kearney told a reporter he based his recommendation on Robinson's testimony Monday before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Kearney said that demonstrated Robinson "is a real American citizen."

"Compared to statements of another member of his race, Jackie Robinson gave the lie to singer Paul Robeson when he (Robeson) said that the negroes of this country would not fight Russia in case of war."

Atomic Group Calls Parley

cause McMahon, like others attending the Blair House session, had declared previously that only the Chief Executive could disclose its subject.

The text of the announcement follows:

"Following on the meeting at Blair House at which congressional leaders (including ranking members of the committee) were present, the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy plans to meet in closed session on Wednesday, July 20, at 2:30 p. m., to explore with the Department of State, the National Military Establishment and the Atomic Energy Commission the continuing problem of our relations with the United Kingdom and Canada in the field of atomic energy.

"At the present time the three countries are cooperating in a limited number of specifically defined areas of information, as well as on matters of raw materials supply. At the meeting Wednesday the committee will discuss with the three agencies most directly concerned the problems which lie ahead in our relations with the United Kingdom and Canada in this field."

Congressional discussion is reported to have revolved around the question of whether the President, by executive agrement, can furnish Great Britain and Canada with further atom bomb information, or whether Congressional action is necessary.

Until passage of the Atomic Energy Act in 1946, Great Britain and Canada had virtually complete access to all atomic energy information.

Recently Dr. Robert F. Bacher, former AEC member, said the British had made "very important" contributions to the development of the first A-bomb at Los Alamos.

Bacher said the passage of the Atomic Energy Law practically "cut to zero" the access of the British and Canadians to information.

Failing Congressional approval of executive action by the President to expand information to Great Britain and Canada, there would have to be legislative action.

Presumably the McMahon Act would have to be amended to lift to a degree the tight prohibition against export of atomic weapon information, or export of fissionable material.

throw the Czechoslovak government.

The paper called the Catholic hierarchy "traitors to the nation," and said they were acting as agents of the Vatican "from which unrest and hatred, leading to organized terror, are being spread."

Other newspapers today carried an official agency report that "scores of telegrams" were being sent to President Klement Gottwald pledging support to the government in its fight.

The government-controlled press has made no mention of pledges of support for Archbishop Josef Beran and the Pope, read in several churches Sunday.

Church sources said priests who read the defiant letter had not been arrested.

ply of Canadian uranium to this country might be cut off are absolutely without foundation," he declared.

He did not attempt to foreclose the likelihood that Canada similarly seeks some types of atomic information, but said comment on this subject was up to the Canadian Government.

The British spokesman said there was "absolutely nothing" in the manner of a formal request from his government that would have initiated the Thursday night meeting on atomic energy, called by the President at Blair House.

He ridiculed "new" reports that if Britain does not get the cooperation it seeks on atomic matters, it may strike ahead on its own to attempt to develop atom bombs.

"We have all the technical knowledge we need. There are gaps here and there in development which we have to fill and can do so. Information to fill these gaps, however, could save Britain considerable time and money," he said.

Last August, he noted, it was announced in the House of Commons that Britain was capable of producing the bomb, and would do so.

In the past few weeks, the spokesman said, when Britain has approached the United States for atomic information through the joint American-British-Canadian commission for exchange of atomic information:

"Sometimes they (the United States) said 'yes,' sometimes they said they didn't know (the information sought), sometimes they said it was prohibited."

Britain, he said, has never suggested that it might try to use its influence to limit the supply of uranium ore now coming from the Belgian Congo to the United States as a "pressure" weapon for getting atomic information.

"There is no question of that," the spokesman said firmly.

On the Town

By Georganne Williamson

THERE'S a gold fish bowl called the Neptune Room between F and E on 13th, where droves of diners and winers enjoy good entertainment for a small fee. Not that they have to bring a deep sea diving suit, but the decorators have done their best to convince patrons they should.

But to get on to more important things, the food, the same as at the other three Earle restaurants on the same corner, is always appetizing. The large oval place is on several levels, each looking toward the band stand in the center, so that the terrific capacity is not noticed. Sea green distorted fish eye you loggily from all sides.

But by looking at the bandstand you find one of the best trios in town. Bill Thompson at the organ leads the pianist and drummer on a merry journey.

Nonchalance is the keyword of their style; the drummer, who usually finds the ceiling the most interesting part of the room, will let loose on a few numbers and turn native for you. The very blond, high strung young man at the piano is a study. His loose jointed precision playing could make him a personality stylist one of these days.

Rita Ann Artiste is the solo pianist alternating with Bill Thompson's trio. Loads of pep and imagination go into her playing. She mixes the classics, popular, and old favorites with a discriminating taste that comes from 8½ years of intensive study in all manner of musical matters.

She loves her present role of extemporizing and mixing style and period into an acceptable night club product. She explains, "I like to improvise when I play. I have a great deal of imagination—and if I didn't express it, I wouldn't get satisfaction out of my playing."

Rita plays every afternoon from 3 to 4:30, and at night in alternating spots with Bill Thompson. Dinner and drinks are served at all hours.

One on the Aisle—

Howard Players All Set to Sail

By Richard L. Coe

THE HOWARD UNIVERSITY PLAYERS will sail at the end of the month to present their version of "The Wild Duck" in Norway at the invitation of the Norwegian government.

Transportation of the company has just been assured by Blevins Davis, who recently has been in the news as financial sponsor of the American "Hamlet" at Elsinore, Denmark, and as the gentleman who offered to send the Ballet Theater to Russia, a plan cold shouldered by the Soviet government.

The international exchange of cultural activities is dear to the heart of this one-time Independence (Mo.) High School teacher, who went on to big things in radio. Davis is now a millionaire several times over, and when informed last week in Paris that $5000 was still needed to pay transatlantic fares for the students, he didn't hesitate a moment.

This reporter first wrote of the story from Denmark several weeks ago. The Norwegian community in Washington and the United States raised $3500 toward the $8000 needed to pay fares for a company of 24 actors and technicians.

For its part, the Norwegian government has promised "food lodging, personal expenses, theaters and full publicity for the company during its stay." Other Scandinavian governments have been quick to second the Norwegian offer and already there are enough invitations to keep the Howard players busy till Christmas.

Not, however, that they'll be abroad that long. Some of the players in the company which presented the Ibsen play in the tiny theater on Howard's campus last November have since graduated, and those who haven't are anxious to complete their courses.

Fine Thing for Howard

This, needless to say, is a great thing for Howard, for its drama department and to the gallant Dr. Anne M. Cooke, head of the department.

The invitation arose when several members of the Norwegian Embassy attended last fall's performance along with Frederik Haslund, chief of the Norwegian government Welfare Office for the Merchant Marine. They passed along their enthusiasm to Oslo, which sent its invitation to the university.

It had been hoped that the Fulbright bill might cover the travel funds with a special grant, but such a trip was not within the bounds of the congressional act. Hence the gifts from Norwegians in America and from the earnest ebullient Davis were vital to the project.

In "The Wild Duck" cast as Dr. Cooke directed it were: Keith Perryman, Alonzo Smith, Hilmar L. Jensen, jr., Jeannette Conliffe, Herbert Fitzgerald, Robert White, Ernest Jackson, Robert Brown, James W. Butcher, jr., Charles White, Geraldine Raywood, Marylin Berry, Edwin Ellick and Eddie Hopper. Butcher and Owen Dodson of the department staff, designed the setting, William Bondhill was stage manager and Stanley Paige business manager.

Other Plays Discussed

Letters have gone out to the Howard students, many of whom are working during their summer holidays. It's too soon to tell just who will be making the trip, but there will be several new names in the company.

Still to be decided, too, is whether the group will do any other plays. One which would interest Norwegians would be Owen Dodson's version of "Peer Gynt," which he calls "Bayou Legend." Another would be last spring's Thornton Wilder comedy, "The Skin of Our Teeth." Personally, I thought this was the group's best effort.

But the recognition to the acting group of this Federal university is a heartening thing and I hope it will inspire funds to give Dr. Cooke and her associates a more worthy campus headquarters.

Commons Asked to Set U. S. Artist Quota

London, July 19 (U.P.).—Laborite Labert Blackburn proposed in the House of Commons today that Britain impose a quota on American artists and theatrical entertainers similar to the film quota.

He said such a limitation would be "reasonable" after the treasury estimated that American artists and entertainments took $1,800,000 out of the country in the year ended March 31.

WE CAN'T ALL be at beaches, so this morning let's envy Ann Pearce and Donna Martell, two Universal starlets soon to be seen in "The Gal Who Took the West" and "Abbott and Costello Meet the Killer"

Chamber Music Recital Makes The Evening Happy Occasion

By Paul Hume

Were I a Quaker, last night's chamber music concert in McMahon Hall of Catholic University could be described as one which "spoke to my condition."

This good phrase means it was one of those happy occasions when both music and performance seemed especially congenial to the mood of the moment. A quintet of players was on hand for Gabriel Faure's piano quartet and Robert Schumann's Quintet in E Flat.

Emerson Meyers was the pianist, with Alan Martin and Raoul da Costa, violinists, George Wargo, violists, and John Martin, cellist. It was the third in a series of Tuesday evening recitals given by the summer music school of the university.

The two works played have much in common. Faure's is his Opus 45, Schumann's Opus 44. Both pieces attempt to express precisely the same kind of emotional state. One is typically Gallic in flavor, the other thoroughly Germanic.

Yet each piece is almost unique in the way it voices a particular flowering of romantic writing from its time and country. The performances were skillful, properly poetic and full of the excitement found in both scherzos and finales.

Meyers' piano playing was brilliant in every way. He colored his tone in ensemble passages to blend with the well-balanced strings. In the big moments of both scores, he let the piano take over in bold fashion.

The members of the string quartet are all soloists of attainements who molded their voices into a sensitive unit. Solo lines given to various instruments sang with authority and beauty. It was a special pleasure to hear the Faure, so much neglected in chamber concerts. The entire evening was a worthy addition to the series.

Teague Stirs Corning Anew In Cadet Row

Representative Olin E. Teague (D., Tex.) and School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning yesterday continued their controversy over the District public school cadet program.

Teague said he had new evidence that Corning was trying to undermine the cadet program from a member of the Second Army team which inspected the cadets this spring. On Monday, Teague, a veteran of World War II, and a member of the House District Committee, said that one of the Army team had intimated Corning favored abandoning the program.

Corning, who labeled part of Teague's first charge as "utter falsehood," said yesterday that the second Army report of its cadet program investigation made no mention of an undermining attitude on the part of school officials.

"The inspection produced many constructive comments," Corning said, "but contained nothing to indicate school authorities were not behind the program 100 per cent."

Teague said he hoped his charge of official undermining is not true. "If it isn't, we should see a great improvement in the program next winter."

Briton, 76, Becomes 'Bewildered' Father

Leeds, England, July 19 (U.P.).—Sir Ernest Martin, 76-year-old textile manufacturer in Huddersfield, Yorkshire, was presented a baby yesterday by his 37-year-old wife whom he married in 1938.

Sir Ernest, who expects to become a great-grandfather soon, commented today when he visited his wife: "Bewildering."

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

WELL, JOE KUHEL'S year-and-a-half honeymoon with his ball players apparently has floundered on the rocks of too many rock-head performances by the athletes. With his threat of fines and suspensions Kuhel has abandoned his nice-guy technique and gone to the whip as the handiest alternative.

His reading of the riot-act to the Nats in the West after a double-header loss to the eighth-place Browns may be presaging the new Joe Kuhel. He never was the manager to explode a hot comment in the face of an errant ball player, and had preferred the tack of taking the player aside and addressing a scholarly dressing-down to the miscreant. But that technique apparently has gone out the window, like the Nats' first-division chances.

POVICH

There was evidence that Kuhel was getting mad long before he exploded in the West. He was anguished by all those leads Washington pitchers were blowing and no longer was given to cuddling his darlings in the locker-room sessions. A glint had gotten into Kuhel's eye, and the fact is he was beginning to think about the safety of his own job as manager.

WHEN CLARK GRIFFITH fired Mickey Haefner that night for what he called loafing by Haefner in a five-run inning of the Red Sox, the Nats' owner actually was beating Kuhel to the punch. Kuhel wasn't going to fire Haefner but he already had determined to slap a $250 fine on him, an action that was forestalled only by Griffith's announcement that the pitcher was through with the Washington club.

Kuhel's situation with a losing Washington club is something of a paradox. His threats to crack-down on players are interesting inasmuch as the jobs of some of those players are safer than his own as manager. He is working on year-to-year contracts and wouldn't be the first manager fired by Griffith for winding up deep in the second division. Kuhel can threaten such pitchers as Ray Scarborough Sid Hudson and Joe Haynes but they would be grabbed up eagerly by other clubs. Managers are not nearly so much in demand.

The fact that Kuhel wasn't given much to work with in the way of a ball club doesn't earn him much consideration from hard-eyed owners seeking a manager. Kuhel was on thin ice with the Washington club last season during that 18-game losing streak, and it was no certainty that he was going to get another contract then.

IT IS INTERESTING that in the same week that Kuhel has announced he is ready to turn "tough guy," Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves has admitted that his own tough tactics haven't worked and is ready to return to his paternal tactics of last season when the Braves won the pennant. There's no sure-fire formula for managing a ball club, apparently.

On the Washington team, the worst thing Kuhel has to combat is lassitude. Unlike other managers, he has no bad characters to deal with, no hefty drinkers or stayouters. The Nats have been, traditionally, wel-behaved country boys for the most part. Only one man with the club has a reputation for jousting with hard drink and he has reformed.

Kuhel made a point of the fact that he was directing his criticism mostly at his pitchers, and that is where it does seem to fit. The Nats' pitching has gone horribly sour, unexplainably, at a time when they have been getting enough runs to win with, ordinarily. Worst of it is, Kuhel has had to bear with his starting pitchers to excess because of the high incompetence of anything he sees in the bull pen.

WHEN MUDDY RUEL took over the management of the Browns a few years back, he announced that all would be sweetness and light on his ball club. He said he gave the players credit for being adults of good sense, and wasn't going to lay down any strict rules. Ruel lasted a year and a half, until his athletes got so completely out of hand that he was fired, a victim of his nice-guy technique.

When Joe McCarthy was winning pennants with the Yankees, his ball players were not particularly fond of him. He griped and grumbled and had 'em cowed with his demands for perfection, but he got performance from them, including the stars like Ruth and Gehrig and Dickey and Lazzeri and Gordon.

But McCarthy had an advantage over Kuhel. He was bossing a Yankee ball club and his players had a high expectancy of big World Series checks and hefty annual wages. Staying a Yankee was a prime motive of McCarthy's players. It may be that some of Kuhel's athletes are disinclined to bust a gut in an effort to stay Nats.

If They Fight in N. Y.

Charles, Gus Face 47-State Ban, NBA's Miller Warns

If Gus Lesnevich goes through with his proposed heavyweight title fight against Ezzard Charles in New York City on August 10, he will be suspended in 47 States, the National Boxing Association said yesterday.

Harvey L. Miller, NBA executive secretary, said in an interview that the Ohio State Association of Boxing Commissions has advised him it will suspend the former light-heavyweight champion throughout the NBA for "breach of contract" if the scheduled bout takes place.

Miller said the Ohio Association told him that "after the recent Lesnevich-Joey Maxim bout in Cincinnati, which Lesnevich lost, Gus signed a contract to meet Maxim September 19, for the NBA American light heavy crown and, as a part of the contract, agreed not to take part in bouts or exhibitions prior to the go with Maxim."

"The NBA as such never initiates disciplinary action," Miller said, "but rather it nationalizes the application of disciplinary measures imposed by member commissions in the 47 States."

The suspension, if it were put into effect, would keep the Cliffside, N. J., 175-pounder out of the ring in all States except New York. New York is not affiliated with the NBA.

"The Ohio Association has the power to suspend Lesnevich and the NBA would, as a matter of routine, apply the suspension nationally," Miller added.

"I can't see why Ohio doesn't string along with Gus," he continued. "It has been suggested that the Cincinnati commission waive its claim to first call on Lesnevich's services with the agreement that even if Lesnevich wins from Charles in New York, he will have to go through with his Cincinnati bout with Maxim.

"If Cincinnati would be willing to gamble with Gus on his ability, it would have a heavyweight championship bout, Lesnevich against Maxim, if Lesnevich wins over Charles."

"In all events," Miller said, "Cincinnati holds the key to Lesnevich's future insofar as boxing in NBA territory is concerned. I can't remember anytime in boxing history when the future of a man like Lesnevich has been held in the hollow of one little hand as it is in this case."

Griffs Rout Newhouser, But Tigers Win, 7 to 6

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Detroit, July 19.—The Nats shifted to the right and to the left, but the only real progress they made was to the rear as the Detroit Tigers spanked them tonight, 7-6.

They overcame a 6-0 deficit to tie the game, tossed away what would have been the winning run and finally succumbed in the eighth when the Tigers broke the 6-6 deadlock without using one of their 13 hits.

Two walks by Relief Pitcher Al Gettel, a third by Sid Hudson, who relieved Gettel, and Johnny Lipon's fly to center broke up the contest.

Trucks Saves Hal

Virgil Trucks, who bailed out Hal Newhouser after the Nats had driven him to cover with a five-run sortie in the sixth, picked up for his twelfth decision while Gettel suffered his second loss since joining the Nats last Thursday.

The Nats threw everything but the sponge in against the Tigers, using 17 players in absorbing their 18th loss in the last 23 games and their fourth in a row.

They tied the game in the eighth boneheaded play as 28,010 saw and inning and had it not been for a cheered they might have even won it.

With Eddie Yost, who represented the winning run, on third and Sam Mele, on first with only one away, Buddy Lewis sent a long fly to Johnny Groth in centerfield.

Yost tagged up, but was in no particular hurry about scoring. Mele tagged up also, but Groth's throw to Johnny Lipon at second got Mele, and, lo and behold, Yost hadn't crossed home plate yet.

Kuhel Ejected

So what would have been the winning run at the time turned out to be nothing. The Nats, led by Manager Joe Kuhel, argued themselves blue in the face with Umpire Charlie Berry that Yost had scored before Mele was doubled at second but Berry said no and no it stood. Kuhel was chased for his part in the fiery rebuttal.

It was the second time during the night that Yost had been unable to score from third on outfield flies. In the sixth, when the Nats smacked out six of their 13 hits, the stocky third baseman was thrown out by a foot trying to score after Mele's fly to the same Mr. Groth.

The Nats packed their line-up with right-handed batters against the left-handed Newhouser, but when Newhouser was driven out in the sixth, Kuhel moved in his left-handed attack.

Pinch-hitters were coming in at such a furious rate that Stewart wound up batting ninth and the pitchers eighth.

Stewart Arrives Late

Stewart who laced out a double and a single after entering the game in the sixth, scored the tying run in the tumultuous eighth. He doubled and scooted to third on Yost's third hit, a sihgle. Mele's second single scored him.

Even after they had fizzled out in the eighth, the Nats had a good chance to even matters in the ninth, but Gil Coan, the last of the 17 players to see action, flied out to leave the tying run on second and the winning run on first.

Striving for his eleventh victory, Newhouser had a three-hitter and a 6-0 lead entering the sixth inning, but the Nats suddenly snapped out of it with a six-hit, five-run spree and drove the Tiger lefthander out.

After Clyde Vollmer and Sherry Robertson had singled, Newhouser walked Eddie Robinson to load the bases. Evans singled the first run across and Johnny Simmons singled in two more and also drove Newhouser out.

Stewart Greets Trucks

Eddie Stewart welcomed Virgil Trucks with a single to fetch the fourth Nat's run and Eddie Yost lashed out his third hit to drive across Simmons with the fifth tally. An infield out and a Trucks wild pitch moved Yost to third, but he was doubled at the plate trying to score on Mele's fly to Groth in short center field.

The Tigers scored their first six runs off Rookie Lloyd Hittle. Making his second major league start, Hittle pitched 11-hit ball before he was shelled during a four-run Detroit bombardment in the fifth.

Joe Haynes came in to quell the Tigers and Newhouser carried his 6-0 lead into the sixth inning, but he was knocked out for the fifth straight time as the Nats scored their five runs before he retired a man.

Giants Rout Cincy, 13-3

New York, July 19 (AP).—The New York Giants banged out 20 hits and scored in every inning tonight to route the Cincinnati Reds, 13-3. Hank Thompson, Willard Marshall and Johnny Mize featured the bombardment of Howie Fox and Harry Gumbert with home runs. Larry Jansen coasted to his tenth triumph.

Lockman and Marshall each made four hits. Thompson, Mize and Marshall pounded out their second, sixteenth and tenth home runs respectively.

1925 Series Is Recalled As Nats Play Bucs Monday

Baseball will turn back the clock a quarter of a century on Monday night at Griffith Stadium. It will be the Nats vs. the Pittsburgh Pirates, for the first time in Washington since the 1925 World Series.

The Pirates will be making their return to Washington, for an exhibition game the two clubs are staging in behalf of Attorney General Tom Clark's fund combating juvenile delinquency in this area. All gate receipts will go to that cause.

The special treat for Washington fans is the first showing in Washington of Ralph Kiner, home run king of both major leagues last season, who is setting the pace again.

Along with the long-hitting Kiner, the Pirates are also bringing their newest rookie sensation, Dino Restelli, also an outfielder. Restelli, who came up from the Coast League last month, hit five home runs in his first week in the majors.

Both clubs, umpires and stadium employes are donating their services gratis. Tickets went on sale yesterday at Griffith Stadium, at regular season prices.

Snaps Pittsburgh's Streak

Edwards' Hit In 9th Tops Bucs for Bums

Brooklyn, July 19 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers cooled off the hot Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, today with Bruce Edwards' bases loaded ninth inning single breaking up the game.

Pittsburgh began the game boasting four straight triumphs and 14 victories in their last 18 starts.

Erv Palica retired the Pirates in order in the eighth and ninth, and gained his sixth victory when the Dodgers came through in the bottom of the ninth.

Giants Rout Cincy, 13-3

New York, July 19 (AP).—The New York Giants banged out 20 hits and scored in every inning tonight to route the Cincinnati Reds, 13-3. Hank Thompson, Willard Marshall and Johnny Mize featured the bombardment of Howie Fox and Harry Gumbert with home runs. Larry Jansen coasted to his tenth triumph.

Lockman and Marshall each made four hits. Thompson, Mize and Marshall pounded out their second, sixteenth and tenth home runs respectively.

Sally Dean Wins; Hylan Loses on Foul

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

A flagrant foul in the stretch cost Joe Hylan, leading driver, his 15th victory and a double last night at Laurel Raceway.

In the feature pacing event, Hylan bore out with Chum B., 7-5 favorite, and held off by a neck the fast charging Sally Dean, driven by Lou Floyd, Johnstown, Va.

Even harness novices screamed at the injustice of it all and the officials quickly sustained the objection lodged by Floyd. They awarded a $15.80 decision to Sally Dean.

Hylan later claimed that he lost his right rein and couldn't keep on the rail, his heavily backed Chum B.

The paid crowd of 6769 wagered $304,652—the sixth night in 18 programs that more than $300,000 was pushed through the mutuel windows.

Hylan, the Pinehurst, N. C. veteran, had his inning in the second race when he scored his fourteenth victory with Caesar, another public choice. Caesar paid a stingy $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60.

And Caesar helped render the lowest daily double of the meeting—$31.60. Joe's Run did his bit in the first race, winning by five lengths and paying $12.40.

10 Pacers Race Tonight For $3000 Laurel Cup

The Laurel Cup, at $3000, the largest purse yet offered harness horsemen in Maryland, will be contested tonight at a mile and a quarter by the 10 best racers at Laurel Raceway.

Favored will be Joe Hylam's Rena Grattan. The 4-year-old mare holds the track record at a mile in 2:04 2/5.

Browns Upset A's, 9-4, 5-4, On 4 Homers

St. Louis, July 19 (AP).—Four home runs and some effective relief hurling gave the St. Louis Browns a twilight-night double victory over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight—9 to 4 and 5 to 4. It was the second double triumph for the Browns in three days and their fifth straight victory.

Jack Graham and Sherman Lollar hit four-baggers in the first game, both in the fifth inning. One man was on base when Graham's blow came. Gerry Priddy and Dick Kokos homered in the second contest—both with a man on base.

Bob Dillinger was the chief gun in the Brownie attack, turning in six consecutive hits—three singles and a triple in the first game and two singles in the second. He also had two fielding miscues in the final game.

Isaacs Wins Maryland Open With 138 Card

Mrs. Rurac Winner in Mid-Atlantic

By Jules Loh

Magda Rurac, making her first appearance as the National Clay Courts women's champion, coasted to a 6—0, 6—1 first-round win over Ruth Grogan in the Middle Atlantic Women's singles tennis championships yesterday at Kenwood Country Club.

Mrs. Rurac's psychological effect on her opponent was evident after she executed a deft drop shot which bounced 1 foot high and returned 2 feet toward the net, and Miss Grogan commented, "Oh, oh, that's what I've read about."

In the men's division the first of the seeded players was eliminated as Bernie Schrieber, Miami University stalwart, upset fifth-ranking Hollis Young, the Cornell star, 6—1, 6—3, in a first-round match.

Another Baltimore entry, Shelton Horsley, dropped the first set and then adopted a net-rushing policy and downed Washington's Orme Wilson, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Third-seeded visiting player, Bill Tully, the Canadian champ, outran Alphonso Smith for a 6—1, 6—4 win, and Barney Welsh, defendiing titleholder, registered a 6—3, 6—4 victory over Larry Sherfy.

Lieut. Charley Oliver, newly crowned Air Force titlist, romped over Stan Levy 6—0, 6—2. In third round competition, Bill Dorsavage, Catholic University Tennis coach defeated John Bucknell, 6—4, 5—7, 6—3.

All the seeded women came through yesterday's matches without casualty. Second-seeded Adrienne Ayares and third seeded Barbara Scarlett, both of Baltimore, rallied to 6—0, 6—2, and 6—1, 6—1 wins over Mrs. William Shivar and Dorothy Brown, respectively.

In the men's doubles matches the Gil Bogley-Gerry Thomas combination enjoyed sweet revenge by defeating Casper Nannes and John Thompson, the team that ousted them in last year's Mid-Atlantic, 6—3, 6—4. Then Bogley overcame the topspin forehand of Sam Hayes in a single match, 6—2, 7—5.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

MEN'S SINGLES—Hippenstiel defeated Dunham, 6—1, 6—1; Schreiber defeated Young, 6—1, 6—2; Leavens defeated McNair, 6—5, 6—1; Tully defeated Smith, 6—1, 6—4; Thackara defeated Treadgill, 6—2, 6—1; Bonner defeated Powell, 6—2, 6—2; Neff defeated Sloat, 6—2, 6—3; Dorsavage defeated Bucknell, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3; Burrows defeated Dorsavage, 6—4, 6—0; Welsh defeated Sherfy, 6—4, 6—3; Horsely defeated Wilson, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2; Bogley defeated Hayes, 6—2, 7—5; Vincent defeated Burwell, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2; Johnson defeated Keller, 6—3, 6—2; Gifford defeated Evans, 6—4, 6—3; Lynch defeated Kemetick, 6—0, 6—0; Oliver defeated Levy, 6—0, 6—2.

WOMEN'S SINGLES—Varela defeated Cromwell, 6—0, 6—3; Estes defeated Dawson, 6—0, 6—1; Shivar defeated Graham, 7—5, 6—4; Ayares defeated Shivar, 6—0, 6—2; Downes defeated Dittemeir, 6—2, 6—1; Scarlett defeated Brown, 6—1, 6—1; Rurac defeated Grogan, 6—0, 6—1.

MEN'S DOUBLES—Covington-Griffin defeated Rogers-Weseley, 6—4, 6—8, 6—2; Welsh-Lynch defeated Bellinger-West, 6—2, 6—2; Adair-Channing defeated Keller-Borodkin, 7—5, 6—3; Thredgill-Royal defeated Organ-Organ, 6—2, 6—2; Godwin-Mann defeated Allnutt-Cromwell, 6—1, 6—2; Bogley-Thomas defeated Thomson-Nannes, 6—3, 6—4; Johnsen-Smith defeated Egolf-Courtney, 6—0, 6—4.

Bolster's 74 Paces Junior Qualifiers

By West McLean
Post Reporter

Dennis Bolster, 15-year-old Gonzaga High student, yesterday paced 28 area junior golfers in the qualifying round for the U.S.G.A. National Junior Amateur Golf Championship. Bolster shot a 38, 36—74 at Prince Georges Country Club to take the first of nine places allotted the Middle Atlantic section.

Hugh Reed, a teammate of Bolster's on the Gonzaga High golf team, took the second qualifying spot with a 38-37—75. Billy Wolfe, 39-38—77; Bob Salamy, 42-37—79; Bill Livingston, 40-40—80; Kay Fletcher, 39-42—81; John Eisinger, 44-39—83; Frank McCoy, 42-41—83; Billy Ball, 4-43—84 took the remaining places.

McCoy, Country Club of Maryland junior, was the only golfer not from the Metropolitan area to qualify. Yesterday he won the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club's pro-junior tournament, playing with CC of Maryland pro Andy Gibson.

The tournament will be held at Congressional Country Club July 27-30 with 128 junior golfers from all over the country participating.

Washington's five alternate spots went to Bill Diffee, 41, 44—85; Lee Edwards, 45, 41—86; Willie Beach, 46, 41—87; Ed Burnap, 45, 42—87; and Winston Sutter, 45, 43—88.

Because the tournament is being played in Washington, several or all of the local alternates have a good chance to see action in the match play rounds.

Joe Turnesa, Jr.
Amateur Qualifer

Garden City, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—Another generation of the famed Turnesa golfing family moved into the limelight today when Joe Turnesa, jr., qualified for the United States junior amateur tourney.

Young Turnesa, whose father is one of seven golfing brothers, shot a 76 over the par 71 Garden City Country Club layout for one of the two metropolitan berths to the junior championship at Washington, D. C., July 27-30.

Women's Golf Field Paced By Mrs. Avis

The Class C women golfers had their second tournament of the year yesterday at Bethesda Country Club and they turned out 49 strong to compete.

Mrs. Dwight Avis, Congressional Countr yClub, turned in a gross 99 which, with her 23 handicap for a net of 76, won her both low gross and low net. She elected to take the low gross award.

With Mrs. Avis out of the running, first low net went to Mrs. F. J. Hanrahan, Kenwood, 99-22—77. Second low net was taken by Mrs. Jack Minnovich, Indian Spring, 100-22—78; third by Mrs. C. L. Saunders, Kenwood, 100-21—79.

The last two net prizes both went to Washington Golf and Country Club, Mrs. W. A. Price having 105-25—80 for fourth and Mrs. James Gardner, wife of Club Champ Jim Gardner, taking fifth with a card of 105-23—82.

Capt. Burkett Leads MATS

The Military Air Transport Service's 72-hole medal play golf tournament passed the halfway mark yesterday at Fairfax Country Club with Capt. Bernard J. Burkett of Bermuda in the lead with 75, 75—150.

The tourney will qualify six MATS players for the Air Force world-wide golf championships which take place July 31 at Dayton, Ohio.

Maj. Robert C. Ross of Andrews Field was in second place with 74, 81—155. The next four in the field of 100 are:

Capt. R. C. Dineen, Andrews Field, 81, 75—156; M/Sergt. Jim Jiminez, National Airport, 77, 81—158; Capt. Preston S. Flanagan, Bermuda, 73, 85—158, and M/Sergt. Milo Whisler, Andrews Field, 81, 79—160.

Eighteen more holes are scheduled for today and the final 18 for Thursday.

Al Houghton Five Strokes Off Pace

Baltimore, July 19 (AP).—Jack Isaacs, 40-year-old professional from Virginia, won the Maryland Open golf championship today with a two under par score of 138.

The Langley, Va., Air Base representative was two strokes ahead of his nearest competitors among the 81 starting pros and amateurs.

In adding the Maryland Open to the Virginia crown he won two weeks ago, Isaacs posted the second lowest score in the history of the event. The record of 136 was set in 1941 by Bobby Brownell of Washington.

Isaacs went over par only twice in the 36 holes on the Country Club of Maryland course. He shot four birdies.

Trailing the Virginian at even par 140 were Charles Bassler, defending champion from Rolling Road, Ken Scales, amateur from the host club, and Col. Jim Wilson of the Army-Navy Country Club.

A four-time winner of the Maryland Open, Al Houghton of Prince Georges Country Club, was out of the running with a 143. Right behind him was Otto Greiner of Woodholme who yesterday finished in a fifth place tie in the Dapper Dan tournament at Pittsburgh.

District-Owned Easy Homer Wins as Cumberland Opens

Bernhardt Wins Double At Saratoga

New York, July 19.—Jockey Robert Bernhardt provided both winners of the thumping $1199.50 daily double payoff today at the Saratoga-at-Jamaica race meeting.

Heavier contributor was Aigee, 2-year-old completely overlooked in the first race—a 5½-furlong claiming affair. Across the board, Aigee returned $223.50, $90.70, and $36.

After springing that surprise, Bernhardt came right back to score with Red Banjo, $10.40 winner of the second.

In the six-furlong feature the Volante Classified Handicap, Buzfuz made his 100th start a winning one. The 7-year-old gelded son of Zacaweista-Polyata broke alertly for Jockey Dave Gorman and was sent to the front.

Buzfuz held a lead of two lengths by the time the field turned for home and finished a length in front of Nathaniel despite drifting in the stretch. Manyunk, close to the pace all the way, took third from Spats.

King Rhymer, Caifero and Quixble brought up the field.

$45 Horse Tops Hoseah, She's Scotch

Special to The Post

Cumberland, Md., July 19—Easy Homer, owned by Dick Melvin of Washington, D. C., upset the dope here this afternoon in the Col. Robertson Memorial feature offering as the Cumberland Fair Association ushered in the Maryland half-mile season.

The bay gelding son of Sir James paid $45 in winning the six and one-half furlong race by a length and a quarter from Miss M. D. Wetzel's Hoseah with Teaville Farm's She's Scotch, the even money choice, a tiring third, two lengths back.

R. Finn's Mix Man and S. Rogers' Halogi provided a winning daily double combination and returned $19.80.

Halogi, owned by S. H. Rogers of Washington, D. C., ridden by Johnny Tammaro, led the entire five furlongs in the second race and was odds-on, paying $3.60. Ken Wheeler's Little Brandy finished second a length and a half back and some three lengths in front of F. S. Tobolski's Early Joker. Today's victory was the third in six starts this year for the gray 6-year-old gelded son of Gino-Halo.

Tim Coss Gains In Junior Tennis

New York, July 19.—Tim Coss of Washington, D. C., was one of the eight survivors in the third round of the Eastern Junior Tennis Championships today at Forest Hills. Coss defeated Bernie Bustilnik of New York, 6—3, 6—4.

In other junior matches, Dick Squires of Bronxville, N. Y., ranked second in the tourney, rallied to a 6—1, 6—3 win over Phil Swirbul of Brightwaters, N. Y.

Capitols Win, 13-0; Liccini Gives 3 Hits

The Washington Capitols defeated Mount Calvary, 13-0, yesterday in a National Junior City League (Section 2) game at Turkey Thicket. Ray Liccini pitched a three-hit game for the winners, who strengthened their hold on first place.

'Skins Sign Sanchez, Former Frisco Guard

The Washington Redskins announced yesterday that Guard John Sanchez, former University of San Francisco star, has signed his 1949 pro football contract.

20-Lap Features Stock Car Races

Doubleheader 20-lap features will highlight the action tonight when stock car racing resumes with an eight-event program at the West Lanham Speedway, 8:30 o'clock.

Last week's competition was postponed due to threatening weather while the main event of two weeks ago, July 6, was halted by rain.

Some of the American Stock Car Racing Association's leading point scorers will be eligible to bid for a double payoff tonight. Wally Campbell and Tommy Coates of Trenton, N. J.; Lew Johnson of Newark, and Ed Tyson of Langhorne, Pa., all will compete.

Mat Card Headed By Mr. America

Gene Stanlee, known as Mr. America, takes on 260-pound Felix Miquette, tonight at Turner's Arena.

In a special two-man team match Jesse James, the local bad man, and Hans Kampfer, the German rabbit-punch specialist, take on Abie "The Gnome" Coleman and Ivan "Mad Russian" Karmaroff in two out of three falls.

Thirty-minute bouts list Tony Cosenza against George Macrocostas and Johnny Barron against Abe Stein.

Mrs. Cave Wins

Mrs. J. W. Cave carded 95, 18—77 yesterday and won the Manor Country Club's 18-hole medal play handicap at its weekly ladies day tournament. Mrs. R. D. Watson was second with 89, 11—78. Low putt honors went to Mrs. Flo Nooter with 31.

China Reds Close Another USIS Office

A third China office of the United States Information Service has been closed by Communist order, the State Department announced yesterday.

Operations at the Peiping office now have been halted, in addition to functions of the Shanghai and Hankow branches of USIS.

The reason given by the Chinese Communists for closing the Peiping office—where 21 foreigners and one American were engaged in distribution of American news, photographs, books, etc.—was that no diplomatic relations exist between the Chinese Communists and the United States.

A similar explanation was offered by the Communist Military Control Commission for shutting down the Shanghai office last Friday, while the Hankow office was closed the same day on military grounds.

British Board Rebuked for Docker Threat

London (Wednesday), July 20 (AP). The Socialist Government early today rebuked the National Dock Labor Board for threatening to withdraw contract benefits from striking dockmen unless they return to work Thursday morning.

A statement from Prime Minister Attlee's official residence at 10 Downing st. said the board's notice had been issued without authority. The five-man emergency board was set up a week ago to oversee dock work.

The statement said the union-employer board's notice "implies continuance of the two-year-old dock labor scheme may be in jeopardy."

"The Government thinks it right to state they are not contemplating taking any step to bring to an end the national dock labor scheme," the statement added.

Guatemalan Palace Summons More Troops to Crush Revolt

Guatemala, Guatemala, July 19 (AP).—The government summoned troops from outside the capital today to aid loyal detachments holding the national palace against a rebel attack.

"Normalcy will reign very soon throughout the country," said a government bulletin issued after a night of shooting that followed the assassination of Col. Francisco Javier Arana, chief of the armed services. "The government dominates the situation.

It was the twentieth announced plot against the regime of Juan Jose Arevalo since he was elected in December, 1944, to a six-year term as President. A new election is due in March, 1951. The law forbids a president of this little nation which lies in Central America, south of Mexico, from succeeding himself.

Defense Minster Jacob Arbenz and his supporter held the palace against an attacking force observers reported was led by Col. Fernandez Ilivares, commander of Fort Guardia de Honor. Armored troops spearheaded the assault. The president was reported barricaded in his own home. Ambulances clanged through the streets with the casualties—their number unannounced.

The government radio said:

"Arbenz is at his post to severely punish the traitors . . . We will fight to the last drop of blood."

The revolt was blamed on "a few bad militarists who misinterpreted their function—which is to maintain peace and order."

Arana was widely regarded in this city as presidential timber. City polls have shown him to be the strongest candidate to succeed Arevalo. (Observers in Panama said Arbenz was expected to be the government party candidate.)

How the assassination of Arana tied in with the revolt was the subject of conflicting reports.

A rumor said the assassination was brought on by a split in the armed forces between Arana and Arbenz factions. It said Arana supporters won elections for members of the defense council last week. A close friend of Arbenz, Col. Francisco Coszenza, was fired later from his job as chief of the air force.

The Guatemala air base and the air forces were listed by the government as remaining loyal, along with the garrison of Fort Matamoros, the capital police force and the military school.

A Central American source at Lake Success said the revolt developed as part of a three-way struggle for power by President Arevalo, Defense Minister Arbenz and the assassinated Colonel Arana.

This informant, who declined to be identified, said:

Arana, as chief of the armed forces, was an oppointee of congress who could be removed only by a two-thirds vote of congress. The constitution provides that, if the President ever shows any sign of attempting to succeed himself, the armed forces chief is to arrest him for congress. The chief also has authority over army promotions, maneuvers and tactical matters.

The civil administration of the army is under the defense minister. By this system, Arbenz has been responsible for the army's budget, pensions, uniforms and such matters, but had no control over promotions or army movements. The constitution provides for the appointment of the defense minister by the President.

The constitution gives the President control of the interior police, customs guards and similar officials. President Arevalo refused offers by the army to assist in putting down previous uprisings. He told the army its duty was to repel attacks on Guatemala and that workers from the Government Labor Party would put down interior uprisings.

This system, which left officers and soldiers idle, caused the army considerable annoyance.

Communists' Drive to South Sets Trap for 200,000 Chinese

Hongkong, July 19 (U.P.).—Chinese Communist troops driving southward from the Yangtze River threaten to cut off 200,000 government troops along the Canton-Hankow railway, advices reaching Hongkong said today.

One Communist column was driving directly on Changsha, the major government base in South Central China, 200 miles below Hankow. Another column was moving on Hengyang, another Nationalist base on the railway, 70 miles below Changsha.

The official Communist organ, Emancipation Daily, reported in Shanghai that in addition to the southward drive the Communists have started a major offensive in Northwest China aimed at wiping out opposition by Moslem Gen. Ma Hung-kwei.

The Communist offensive southward was in three main bodies.

The central column was reported making "good progress" in its drive south, with one element moving along the Canton-Hankow railway toward Changsha and another skirting the railway to the east to link up with other Red troops for a direct attack toward Changsha.

Government troops reportedly evacuated Yoyang, the northernmost Nationalist-held point on the railway, about 70 miles north of Changsha.

One part of the eastern column also was reported driving toward Hengyang and others were pushing south toward Kanchow, 50 miles from the Kwantung Province border. The Nationalists reported the recapture of Kian, occupied two days ago by this column.

New Housing Bill Funds Asked Would Provide 4000 Jobs

The President has asked Congress for a $33,650,000 appropriation to carry out the new public housing law—a request which would permit a dozen Federal agencies to hire upwards of 4000 new workers.

A majority of these employes would be in the Housing and Home Finance Agency and its constituent units.

Public Housing Administration is set down for funds to hire 1450 workers, several hundred of them here. Federal Housing Administration would get 700 new employes, and the administrator's office of the H&HFA would have funds for 450 new jobs.

Four Agriculture Department agencies also would receive money to carry out the rural housing provisions in the legislation. Farmers Home Administration which would make loans for rural housing would be able to hire 700 new workers but nearly all of them would be in its field offices. Only nine new employes would be taken on here.

The Extension Service is charged with supplying housing information to the farmers. It would tell farmers how to remodel their homes, what kinds of materials to use, etc. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics will make housing surveys for the Agriculture Secretary to inform him on the need for rural housing. The Agricultural Research Administration will do research on building materials to enable the Extension Service to inform the farmers on the best materials to use in the building or remodeling of their homes.

The public housing law also directs the Census Bureau to make two studies: (1) a housing census, and (2) a sample mortgage survey in 26 areas. Census would get 9 million dollars for the housing check and 3 million dollars for the mortgage survey. Thousands of additional temporary employes could be hired.

Census, however, will make the surveys early next year, when it takes the general 1950 population census. Its same huge staff of temporary tabulators—upwards of 150,000—will be used for the housing jobs.

The President's request, if approved, will prevent the layoff of employes in several agencies.

In voting Federal Housing's 1950 budget, the House cut out funds for 250 jobs here. The Senate committee raised FHA's budget by a million dollars, but it is still $600,000 below the budget estimate.

PHA also faces the discharge of more than 200 of its employes here under its 1950 budget. The proposed new money would more than offset it. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Agricultural Research Administration also would get jobs back in the housing budget which were abolished in their 1950 money bills.

NOTES: The Congressional Secretaries Club is supporting a bill which would permit Capitol Hill secretaries to retire at 50 . . . A subcommittee of the House Civil Service Committee yesterday okayed a Senate bill to give Capitol Hill employes until next January to come in under the Civil Service retirement system . . . Francis E. McIntyre, assistant director of Commerce's Office of International Trade, will resign to enter private business . . . The new personnel assistant for nearby Montgomery County, Md., is Ben Hall of Silver Spring.

CLERICAL TEST: A new Nation-wide test for CAF-2 and 3 clerical workers to fill openings here will be announced in another month by Civil Service. There are between 5000 and 6000 temporary and war service employes here in those jobs. About 11,000 persons qualified for the clerical test. However, a check shows that three out of every four of the eligibles reject job offers.

NAVY: It will soon liberalize its order which prevents supervisors from active participation in employe union affairs. The order has been in the making for the past three months.

PAY HEARING: The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee will hold another hearing today on the 75 bills before it to give pay raises and other benefits to both classified and postal employes.

Hundreds of postal employes from all parts of the country are here to try to get speedy action on their pay-reclassification bill. They are urging their House members to sign the petition to discharge the House committee from further study of the bill, so it can be taken up on the House floor.

ABW Peace Talks Give Hope Strike May Be Off

U. S. Conciliator Says His Parleys With Both Sides Show Progress

A glimmer of optimism came out of an all-day mediation session in the AB&W labor-management dispute yesterday.

"We've made some progress," reported Gilbert McCutcheon, Federal conciliator, after a series of alternate conferences with management and union officials.

On the mediator's hopeful comment hinged the possibility that the AFL drivers and maintenance men, belonging to Division 1131, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, will not strike as planned against the Alexandria, Barcroft, and Washington Transit Co.

The union has already, in conformance with Virginia State law, officially notified the Governor of intent to strike at 2 a. m. Thursday. In turn, Gov. William M. Tuck has announced his plan—again in conformance with the statues—of seizing the bus company at the deadline time in the interest of public health, safety and welfare. The union members have agreed to stay on their jobs on a State-operated line.

Yesterday, still seeking to avert State seizure and operation of the bus company—which hauls 75,000 passengers daily between Washington and nearby Virginia—Federal Mediator McCutcheon and State Labor Commissioner E. M. Boggs kept the contract negotiators in session, at separate meetings, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Sessions will be continued here this morning at 10.

The union seeks a 30-cent-an-hour increase in pay, a pension plan and other benefits. The company has offered to continue the present contract which provides a maximum of $1.35 an hour for bus operators, $1.45 an hour for mechanics.

W. M. & A. Bus Strike Held in Abeyance

Plans to call a strike against the W. M. & A. Motor Lines by AFL drivers and mechanics were held in abeyance yesterday to permit union leaders to seek legal advice.

Officers of Division 1365, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, met yesterday for 2½ hours with Leslie L. Altmann, president of the Washington, Maryland and Annapolis bus company to discuss the dismissal of two union members.

Altmann said there was no decision on the discharge and that management would meet with the union representatives again at 2 p. m. today. Union officials, however, said Altmann announced his refusal to arbitrate the dismissal of E. J. Garrity of West Beach, Md., a former mechanic crippled in an accident who since has been working in the company's stock room.

The company, according to the union, gave no definite answer on the union's request to arbitrate the discharge of a bus cleaner, J. W. Bortot of Bradley Heights, Md., some weeks ago.

The union called a meeting of its membership for 12:01 a. m. Thursday, but this meeting has been called off, according to George R. Hays, union vice president.

Hays said the union leaders plan to push their arbitration proposal through legal channels before taking any steps toward strike action. The bus drivers met spontaneously last week and threatened a wildcat walkout on behalf of the two dismissed employes.

17-Cent Offer Urged For Dump Truckmen

The Dump Truck Operators Association yesterday was urged by its negotiating committee to offer a 17-cent-an-hour wage hike to their AFL drivers.

Fred J. Rice, attorney for the association of 15 operators, will poll the members today and report the results to the teamsters' negotiators Thursday.

The union's negotiating committee, which originally demanded a 32-cent hourly increase, came down to 22 cents, and yesterday refused the employers' "last offer" of 10 cents.

The dump truck drivers, whose contract ran out in April, insist they are the lowest paid workers in the construction industry, drawing wages ranging from $1.18 to $1.45 an hour. The employers deny this, pointing out that unlike other laborers, the drivers are guaranteed a minimum of four hours pay so long as they report for work, even if it rains and there's no work available.

Meanwhile, the Excavators Association, Inc., comprising 10 employers in the local construction industry, yesterday were seeking a practical plan to offer some 100 AFL operating engineers.

The union has asked for a 3 per cent health and welfare fund, which the employers say will amount to 6 cents an hour. A spokesman for the employers said yesterday they were not opposed to the welfare fund in principle, but wanted a plan which would avoid expensive bookkeeping.

Three Named To Renovate White House

Two engineers and an architect were named yesterday to aid in renovation of the White House. They are:

Emil H. Praeger, partner in the Long Island City engineering firm of Madigan-Hyland and former head of the civil engineering department of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Ernest E. Howard, of the Kansas City, Mo., firm of Howard, Needles, Tammen, and Bergendoff, internationally known bridge designers—the San Francisco Bay Bridge and the new dual Fourteenth Street Bridge here are among the many the firm has designed.

William A. Delano, New York City architect, and former member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. His designs include the new Postoffice Building and Japanese Embassy Building here, the American Embassy in Paris and President Truman's famous White House balcony.

Praeger and Howard will serve as consulting engineers, and Delano as consulting architect, for the Commission on Renovation of the White House. They will serve with Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, ret., U. S. Corps of Army Engineers, previously named executive director for the commission.

The new appointments were announced by Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) chairman of the six-member commission set up by Congress at the President's request to oversee the remodeling job.

Senator McKellar said that Lorenzo S. Winslow, architect of the White House, William E. Reynolds, commissioner of Public Buildings, and Harry G. Hunter, assistant commissioner of Public Buildings, attended the meeting and aided the commission.

Senator McKellar said the commission will hold its next meeting at 10 a. m. Tuesday, July 26.

Man Drowned In Potomac Boat Upset

A man tentatively identified as Aloysius Guy, 40, caretaker of the Sycamore Island Canoe Club, drowned yesterday afternoon in the Potomac near the island, below Glen Echo.

He was swept away in high water when his rowboat capsized. He was rowing Malcolm Thomas, 31, a telephone repairman, to the island.

Thomas said he grabbed a ferry line, and swung hand-over-hand to the Maryland shore, but Guy was caught in the swift current.

The mishap was seen by William Partridge, construction superintendent at Rutgers University, a club guest, and his daughter, Adrienne, 9.

Partridge said he jumped into a canoe and made for Guy, whom he saw swept against a tree overhanging the river. Partridge said he searched vainly for Guy after reaching the tree to which he had to cling to avoid being borne downstream.

Partridge said he recognized the lost man as Guy. The body had not been recovered late last night.

2 Scalded Plumbers Taken to Hospital

Two plumbers were scalded by steam which escaped as they were removing a valve yesterday in the University of Maryland power plant.

Admitted to Prince Georges General Hospital with second-degree burns were Charles Suit, 39, of 3333 11th pl. se., and Harold Burrows, 53, of 3713 Warren st. nw.

$1201 In Arrears

Lusk Named In Tax Lien; He Admits It

The Bureau of Ipternal Revenue filed notice of seven more income tax liens in District Court yesterday, one of them against Rufus S. Lusk, president of the Washington Taxpayers Association.

Lusk

Lusk, real estate lobbyist and statistician, who also is secretary of the Building Owners and Managers Association, owes an additional $1201.79 on his 1948 income, according to the lien notice, filed on authority of the revenue bureau's Baltimore office.

Lusk, who was in Richmond when the action was filed, said on his return last night: "Sure I owe the money. And I certainly am in some damned good company." He declined further comment.

All of the actions filed yesterday involved taxes allegedly overdue from last year's earnings. Among other Washington residents listed as being more than $1000 in arrears in the newest liens were Jack B. and Mildred I. Glasser, 155 Florida ave. ne., who allegedly owe $1793.13, and Joe C. and Mary E. Lofton, 513 F st. nw., $2195.37.

Lofton, owner of a tailoring school, said he was aware he owed additional taxes at the time he filed his 1948 return, made out jointly for himself and his wife. He said he had since received a notice of the indebtedness, and was trying to make arrangements to pay the overdue taxes on an installment basis.

Glasser, official of a used car concern, could not be reached for comment.

Yesterday's action boosted to 194 the number of liens filed against Greater Washington residents in the last five days as part of a stepped-up campaign to collect overdue assessments. Last Friday 81 were filed and 106 were added Monday.

CPA Institute to Give Talk on Sales Tax

Facts about the new District sales tax will be outlined at a technical meeting of the local Institute of Certified Public Accountants tonight at 8 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel.

Representatives of the new sales tax section and the Corporation Counsel's office will attend the meeting and will participate in the discussion. The session is open to local businessmen and accountants as well as members of the CPA Institute.

Fire, Mail Trucks Hit; 3 Firemen Hurt

Three firemen were injured when their hose truck, answering an alarm, was in collision with a mail truck yesterday. The crash took place at 1st and R sts. nw.

Hose Co. 12, housed at 1626 N. Capitol st., was proceeding to a grease fire alarm in a restaurant at 2040 Georgia ave. nw., when the crash occurred.

Pvt. Ralph F. Gordon, 38, of 5405 LaSalle rd., Hyattsville, driver of the fire truck, was slammed against his steering wheel as the emergency vehicle careened across a curb and sidewalk and sheared off a hydrant. He is at Emergency Hospital with suspected internal injuries. Full diagnosis awaits results of X-rays.

Gordon

Pope

Lieut. Andrew C. McNeill, 3305 Chaunce pl., Mount Rainier, and Pvt. E. A. Pope, 2000 Upshur st., were thrown from the fire truck. They were treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts, bruises and shock and released, but Private Pope was later admitted for observation.

Pvt. Richard T. Farr, 3135 Newton st. ne., who was on a rear step, clung to a hose basket, rode the swaying truck until it stopped, and was uninjured. Also uninjured was Howard Randall, 1412 6th st. nw., driver of the mail truck.

A parked car belonging to Carl Kaplan, 1733 Webster st. nw., also was damaged.

Later, police said, a three-car collision occurred at the same intersection. One driver, they said, was looking at the damaged vehicles, drove into the rear of a second, which in turn went into a third. No one was injured.

Damage to the fire and mail trucks was estimated at $200 each. A hearing on the accident will take place in the Corporation Counsel's office when Private Gordon leaves the hospital.

Joseph Jacques, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Jacques, 532 Tuckerman st. nw., was admitted to Children's Hospital with broken legs and collarbone after being struck by an automobile near his home.

According to police the boy, running across 5th st. nw., was struck by an automobile driven by Troy E. Mood, 56, of 1921 1st st. nw. Mood said he was a guard lieutenant at the Department of Agriculture.

Million More Bottles of Milk Served This Year in Schools

A million more bottles of milk were served to District school children this year than last under the District's penny milk program.

Harry M. Gardner, supervisor of the penny milk program and the National School Lunch program for the District, reported to the Commissioners yesterday that 3,595,594 bottles of milk were served during the school year ending in June as compared with 2,283,008 a year ago.

An average of 23,971 children attending 123 schools received the milk each school day and paid one cent for each half pint bottle consumed.

The District received $71,911 from Federal funds for the program and paid out an additional $78,787 to meet the bill of $186,655 presented by dairies supplying the milk.

Gardner also reported increased participation by school children in the national school lunch program. A total of 1,262,238 meals were served during the year at a reduced cost to students. Last year 890,019 meals were served.

Thirty-one schools took part as compared with 23 last year.

Leg Broken in Fall

John Utterback, 37, of Bowie, suffered a fractured right leg yesterday when he fell from the roof of a house under construction in the 5400 block of Varnum st., Sunnybrook. Utterback, a carpenter, was admitted to Prince Georges General Hospital.

Senate Group Hears Taxi Limit Pleas

2500 Too Many Cabs On Streets Cited as Threatening More Chaos Than in 1942

A Senate subcommittee yesterday heard Washington taxi officials renew their appeals for limitation of the number of cabs in the District.

Their plea received indorsement from the District Commissioners and the Public Utilities Commission, while two taxi drivers sharply opposed the limitation plan.

The bill empowers the PUC to limit the number of cabs at a level "adequate to serve the public convenience and necessity." The level could not be reached by a forced reduction. Instead, it would have to be reached by the voluntary surrender of licenses, failure to renew them, or forfeiture.

Bill to Be Studied

Subcommittee Chairman J. Allen Frear, jr. (D., Del.) said the bill would be taken under advisement.

Present at the hearing, but not a witness, was Joseph M. Wyatt, chief judge of Baltimore's Traffic Court, registered as lobbyist for 10 Washington cab firms favoring the limitation bill. If it passes, they are to pay him $16,000, over the $1500 already paid him.

In opening testimony for the bill, Edwin A. Glenn, operator of the Silver Fleet cabs, said the industry today, with some 2500 cabs too many, faces greater chaos and crisis than in 1942, when, as a leader on the labor side he felt it necessary to pull the cabs off the streets.

Glenn said present rates are inadequate—"It's wrong that a taxi driver has to be a pimp and peddle liquor to get bread and butter for his family, and that's what they're doing now."

Royer Backs Plan

Jack H. Royer, president of Combined Cab Services, Inc., backed the limitation plan but disputed Glenn's charge about drivers—"I do not think drivers are pimps or sell liquor today; not one driver out of a hundred would know where a woman was available."

Others who backed the limitation plan included Harry C. Davis, president of the Diamond Cab Association; Vernor A. Shaw, speaking for a group of Diamond drivers; George P. Poulos, a Diamond driver; Arthur S. Harder, president of the Taxicab Advisory Council; Edwin C. Hammerle, driver in the Washington Cab Association; and Franklin Borra, a Diamond driver.

William A. Frye, driver of a Yellow Cab, said there was no reason for taxi limitation. He said it would lead to monopolistic control by the cab companies and associations. Mrs. Bessie M. Cahill, also a driver of a Yellow Cab, joined in opposing the limitation plan. If limitation goes through, she said, special provision should be made to keep cab driving open to persons who are disabled for other forms of work, and to widows and children of drivers.

Good Service Cited

Mrs. Ernest Howard of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association, also indorsed limitation. She criticized some phases of present cab service, but said that "on the whole we think we have good service."

She and other witnesses protested part-time driving of taxies by persons who have regular full-time jobs in Government and private industry here. They urged keeping the part-time drivers out of the taxi business.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West testified that the District Commissioners favor the general purposes of the limitation plan, but suggested several technical amendments to be included if the bill goes to the Senate.

PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan said his agency has no objection to the limitation bill. He said the agency would not itself have sponsored the bill, although "it is a desirable bill."

Citizens Unit Feuding Over Home Rule

The MacArthur Boulevard Citizens Association is all for Washington home rule, but its officers are feuding over it just the same.

The feud was disclosed yesterday in a letter by Robert R. Hershman, president of the association, to Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.), chairman of the House subcommittee now conducting hearings on Washington home rule legislation.

Hershman challenged the right of Elmer E. Batzell, Washington attorney, to speak for the association in the hearings. Batzell said he was given the assignment to testify by John Monteith, jr., immediate past president of the association, and he is going to carry out the assignment. He is slated to testify today.

Mrs. Lewis H. Ulman, secretary of the association in Monteith's administration, and corresponding secretary now, said that according to her recollection of the minutes Batzell is perfectly within his rights in testifying for the association.

Mrs. Ulman said Hershman's letter was "a high-handed kind of performance." She took particular exception to Hershman's assertion he was writing the letter at the request of the association's officers, and she declared he did not consult all of the officers about it.

Batzell said his assignment was based on the association's unanimous indorsement of home rule in March. He said the new officers took over in May. He said his assignment to testify, to his knowledge, had never been vacated. He said he would testify in general support of home rule, not in particular support of any bill.

"My fellow officers have asked me to write you and inform you of the present situation. You may put us on record in favor of home rule, as we have been for 35 years, but we cannot truthfully state the position of the citizens in this area with respect to the present bill.

"There are too many pressure groups in Washington at this time trying to persuade Congress to grant home rule. Mr. Batzell is a member of the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) and the Central Suffrage Group. Each of these organizations are 'too anxious' for home rule, and many of us doubt the sincerity of their intentions."

Batzell said he is not and never has been a member of the ADA. He is a member of the Central Suffrage conference. He said "personally I'm not interested in the politics of the MacArthur citizens, or the ADA or any other group." But when he's given a job to do like testifying, said Batzell, he's going to do it.

Senate Unit Approves 'Damn' Small D. C. Bill

A Senate District subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to authorize the District Commissioners to contract for removal of sludge, a by-product of the District's sewage treatment plant. Approval followed brief testimony by Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, and this comment by Senator Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.):

"It's such an immaterial and minor matter that I'm surprised any such damn bill would have to come before the Senate of the United States."

Letters Forwarded To Head of House Unit Studying Bill; Hearing Set Today

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Strong new indorsements for Washington home rule came yesterday from a number of leading Washington business and professional men.

Their support of home rule was voiced in letters forwarded to Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.), chairman of the subcommittee now considering the Senate-approved home rule bill.

Hearings on the home rule legislation are to continue at 10 a. m. today but some doubt was raised yesterday about whether it would be the final session as planned. This doubt arose because Congress recessed upon learning of the death of Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, and the House is to meet at 10 a. m. today two hours earlier than usual.

Roll Call Would End It

Chairman Harris pointed out that an early House roll call would end the home rule hearing for today. If there is no such early call, he said, he hopes to continue and hear as many as possible of the 30 witnesses still to testify.

Announcement of the pro-home-rule views by business and professional men here was made by the Washington Home Rule Committee. The committee said it was submitting letters to Harris in response to testimony by E. F. Colladay, general counsel for the Washington Board of Trade, challenging anyone to name a group of representative local business and professional people who did not regard home rule as a "pure gamble."

The letters sent to Harris included indorsements of home rule by E. R. Finkenstaedt, prominent investment broker and an official of the National Symphony Orchestra; William J. Flather, jr., president of a Washington real estate mortgage loan firm and chairman of the board of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co.; Chauncey G. Parker, International Bank official and president of the Community Chest Federation; and Neville Miller, local attorney and former Mayor of Louisville, Ky.

Flather urged that the House promptly be given a chance to vote on the Senate-approved home rule bill. He said he personally favors home rule, but that his request for action on the bill "is based solely on my belief that the qualified citizens of the District should be permitted to express, by means of a referendum, their approval or disapproval of home rule."

Urges Chance for Proof

He voiced strong belief that the more responsible citizens of the District would take an active part in local government under home rule. "We should have a chance to prove our capabilities for self-government and we should be ashamed of ourselves if we were not willing to be subjected to a trial of our capabilities," he said.

Miller said that Washington's municipal problems, like those of other communities, "can best be solved by giving the residents a voice in their local government together with the responsibility of having a part in working out the solutions."

The Home Rule Committee also cited indorsements of home rule by these persons: Frank R. Jelleff, prominent Washington merchant; the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington; Dr. Worth B. Daniels, physician; Dr. Louis Brownlow, former District commissioner; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former Ambassador to Norway; Attorneys John Lord O'Brian, William A. Roberts, and Richard H. Wilmer; Dr. Paul Douglass, president of American University; Elmer Davis, radio commentator; James Reston, New York Times correspondent, and others.

Shotgun Blast Fells Intruder Suspect in Flight

A 25-year-old man was wounded by a shotgun blast last night as he tried to flee from a house he allegedly tried to break into.

According to police, the man, identified as James Brice, 1811 13th st. nw., was shot in the lower part of the body by Milton Burdette, 47, of 1223 N st. nw.

Burdette said his wife, Sadie, was in the alley in the rear of his house getting a breath of air when she saw a man trying to break into the house through a rear bedroom window.

Her screams for her husband brought him running with a 12-gauge shotgun and he fired point blank at the retreating figure.

Brice fell at the end of the alley. There he was arrested by Detective S. F. Cox, who sent him to Freedmen's Hospital for treatment.

Area News in Brief

Park Drunks Rouse Ire of Judge Myers

Judge Frank H. Myers declared yesterday that he is disturbed by the prevalence of drunkards loitering in the shadow of Municipal Court.

The jurist commented from the bench of the D. C. branch where drunk cases are tried that he was "thinking of seeking an officer's right to make some arrests" in the park areas of Judiciary Square. He later modified this by saying that it was "idle" talk and that he would not follow through with the threat.

The judge's ire was aroused by the presence in court of James Anderson, 41, no fixed address, for the second time in six days. Anderson pleaded innocent to drunk and disorderly charges.

"How much time do you spend in the parks?" asked the judge.

"Oh, I spend a good deal," replied Anderson.

"Yes, I've seen you in this park myself. Why do you spend so much time there?" Myers said.

"I take the sun," returned the defendant.

"You take more than that. There are a half a dozen of you fellows in that park all the time."

With that, the judge gave Anderson a 20-day jail sentence plus $30 or 30 days on the drunk charge and $10 or 10 days on the disorderly count.

In Two Cases

Defendants Will Take Lie Tests

Lie detector tests will be used July 28 to settle two Municipal Court criminal cases, Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King disclosed yesterday.

"It is somewhat of an experiment," King said. "The complaining witnesses say one thing and the defendants another. I don't know what to think and I'm going to let a lie detector decide."

King said the defendants in both cases have agreed to conviction if the tests indicate falsehoods by them. King agrees to drop the cases if truth is shown.

Marshall Chatham, a former police lieutenant in Indiana, is bringing a poly-graph, a scientific apparatus he says he designed, down here specially for the tests. According to King, Chatham said he has used the apparatus in courts, large department stores and for Government bureau heads. John N. Webster, an attorney here, read in The Washington Post that King was seeking a lie detector and contacted Chatham.

In one of the cases, the defendant was convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol but a new trial was granted. In the other the defendant posted $25 collateral on a charge of making an indecent phone call and desires his collateral back.

Holdup Suspect Held for Jury In Alexandria

James J. Mullen, 21, of Carnegie, Pa., accused of robbing an Alexandria man of $14 after holding him up with a knife last Sunday, was ordered held for the grand jury yesterday.

Mullen, who waived preliminary hearing before Judge James R. Duncan in Alexandria Civil and Police Court, allegedly took the money from William S. McGilvray, at the latter's home, 906 S. Washington st.

McGilvray told police he picked up Mullen, who was hitchhiking on S. Washington st. He asked the man up to his apartment for something to drink. After they had spent several hours in the apartment, Mullen suddenly pulled the pocket knife on him and demanded his money, McGilvray said.

The defendant was picked up later by Alexandria Policeman Lennie Pendergraph.

1197 Dogs Vaccinated

The Health Department said yesterday that 1197 dogs were vaccinated against rabies on Monday at the 12 inoculation centers throughout the city. It was the biggest day since the program began more than a week ago. Dog owners have until August 5 to have their pets vaccinated.

Squad Revives Swimmer

Willie Woten, 18, 429 Oakdale pl. nw., was revived by No. 1 Rescue Squad yesterday afternoon, after he had collapsed while swimming at McKinley Pool at 2d and T sts. nw.

Wooten was pulled from the pool by Lifeguard Peter Swindler, who said the victim appeared to be breathing with difficulty, as if in an attack of asthma. No water was found in his lungs.

He was taken to Freedmen's Hospital for observation.

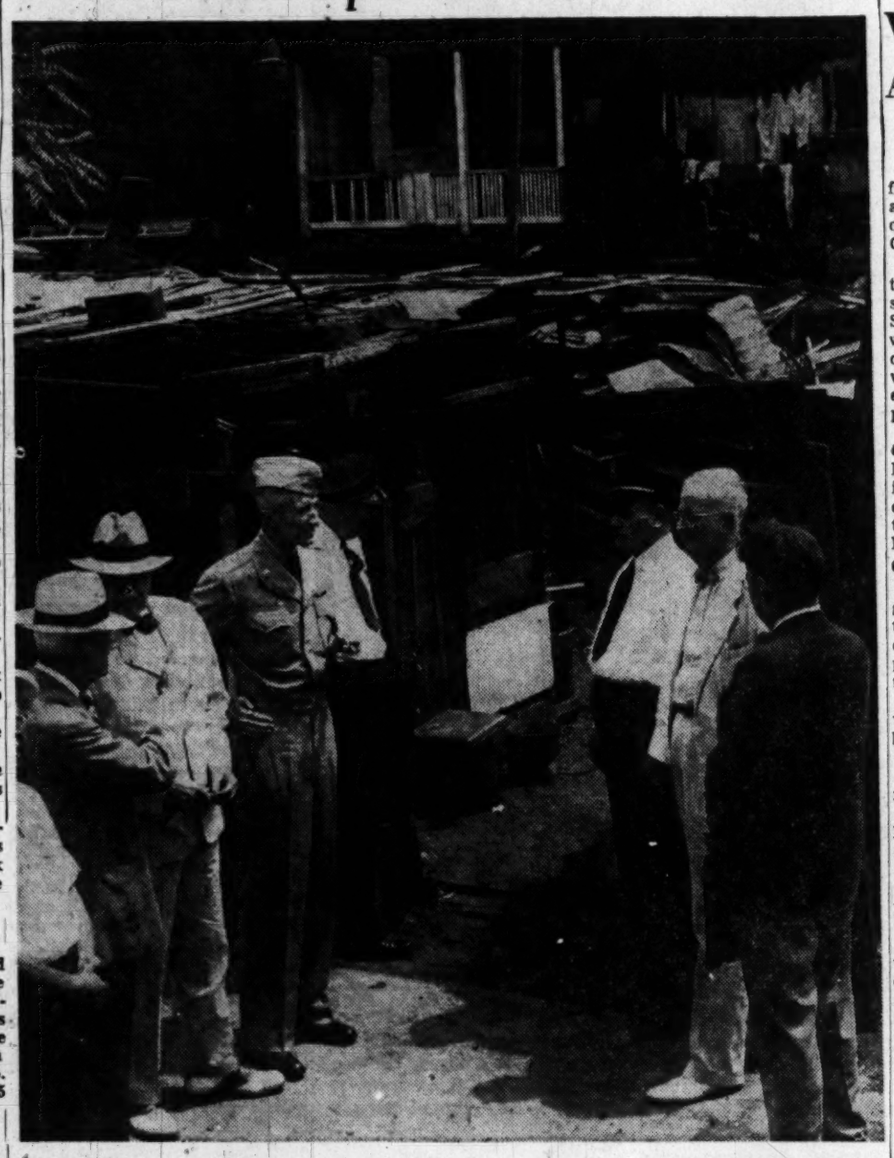
Douses Wife With Water

Charles H. Ortte, 44, of 457 Mellon st. se., was convicted yesterday of assaulting his estranged wife by dousing her with a glass of cold water.

Ortte and his wife, Dorothy, have been estranged although living in adjoining rooms in the house, according to Municipal Court testimony. The incident resulting in the charge occurred at 2 a. m. July 16 while she was sleeping.

Judge Thomas D. Quinn suspended a 90-day jail term and placed Ortte on probation for six months.

District Chiefs Inspect Slums



The Washington Post

HOW SOME PEOPLE LIVE—Picture shows an alley considered typical of slum conditions in Washington—an alley in a block bounded by 8th and 9th sts., Barry Place and V st. nw. Among the group touring in the area in connection with the Health Department's cleanup drive are Commissioners Guy Mason and John Russell Young, Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young and Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew

D. C. Heads Tour Slum Area Selected for Clean-Up Drive

The District Commissioners yesterday briefly toured a slum dwelling area in northwest Washington, selected by District officials for a rehabilitation drive.

Accompanied by representatives of the Fire, Police and Health Departments, they left their cars at 9th st. and Barry pl. nw., surveyed houses along the block between Barry and V st. and posed for pictures in the rat infested alley.

Various departments of the District government will cooperate in urging property owners in the block to clean-up yards and repair the buildings.

With the Commissioners were Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett and Fire Department Chief Engineer Joseph A. Mayhew.

William H. Cary, jr., director of the Health Department's sanitation division, said that the block had been selected because it can be rehabilitated.

Most of the homes have outside water closets and outside water. Sheds and fences along the alley are dilapidated and junk is piled high in the yards.

R. B. M. Wilson, who owns two homes in the block, pledged his support in the drive. He said that he was replacing broken windows, plastering, painting and cleaning up his yards.

Justice Aid Asked in Acts Of Vandalism

A Negro home owner yesterday was preparing a memo to the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department about acts of vandalism with which he has been plagued since he moved into a white neighborhood three and one-half months ago.

He is Odis Von Blasingame, 3303 Ames st. ne., advertising salesman for the Afro-American. His decision was prompted by three separate incidents during the past seven days.

On Monday the telephone line into his house was severed for the second time. Last Thursday the cloth top of his 1935 convertible was slashed for the third time. And on Wednesday the hose with which he watered his lawn and garden was cut and three sprinkler extensions were stolen.

Blasingame said he had reported the latest incidents both to the police and the Justice Department, which asked him for the memo for investigation of possible violations of the criminal conspiracy statutes.

Halcyon Had Passed USCG Inspection

The cabin cruiser Halcyon, which exploded at a Corinthian Yacht Club fuel dock July 10, killing two persons, had recently passed a Coast Guard safety inspection.

This revelation was made yesterday before a USCG marine board of investigation, convened "to promote safety at sea, not to fix civil or criminal responsibility."

An investigation by the District fire marshal showed the cause of the explosion to have been a broken brass fitting between the gasoline tanks and overflow vent.

The battered inspection certificate, recovered from the charred, waterlogged hull, was presented to the three-man Coast Guard board by Bolling R. Powell, jr., the Halcyon's owner, and law partner of Paul V. McNutt, former War Manpower Commissioner.

Powell was vacationing in Bermuda at the time of the explosion which killed Maj. Gen. Vernon E. Prichard, chief of Army public relations, and former Navy Commodore Wilfred Painter, and critically wounded two other persons.

Powell, a war-time Air Force lieutenant colonel, was the star witness at yesterday's investigation, describing in detail the construction of the $12,000, 36½-foot boat.

The board consisted of Capt. J. H. Byrd, Commander A. W. Kabernagel, and Lieut. Comdr. W. T. Corfield.

Also testifying were Henry A. Dudley, jr., Powell's law partner, and host on the Sunday cruise, and Thomas Miller, 26-year-old skipper, hired to take ten passengers, including former Ambassador-at-large Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., and his wife, down the Potomac for a picnic lunch.

Cement Finishers Accept Increase Of 10c an Hour

Union members of the Cement Finishers Local 891 last night agreed to accept a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase offered them last week by Washington builders.

The new rate raises the hourly wage from $2.25 to $2.35 and becomes effective today.

According to Lawson Jefferson, financial secretary of the union, memebrs agreed to the 10-cent proposal without protest. The offer was extended to cement finishers when Washington carpenters agreed to a similar raise.

More than 100 union members approved the increase at a meeting last night at 1024 New Jersey ave. nw. The new rate will affect about 275 cement finishers in the area, Jefferson said.

Area Battalion Gets 4 Out of 7 AA Fire Targets

Camp Pendleton, Va., July 19 (Spl.).—Greater Washington men of the 260th AAA Gun Battalion of the District National Guard today shot down four out of seven plane-towed sleeve targets in their first firing with the M-9 director.

Firing four 90-mm. guns at a range of 6000 to 9000 feet, the 210 members of the battalion used the war-developed M-9 director to compute leads and corrections. They fired a total of 330 rounds.

With the 340th and 380th Automatic Weapons Battalions, the 260th AAA Battalion is on two-week summer training at the camp. They return to town Sunday.

The 260th is commanded by Lieut. Col. Given W. Cleek, 1813 N. Quesada st., Arlington. Commander of the three units, which form the 260th AAA Group, is Col. Leroy S. Mann.

Conservation Week Starts At 3 Farms

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Hundreds of Maryland residents from farms and cities saw modern agriculture at its best yesterday on three farms in Anne Arundel County.

They visited the three farms at the start of a five-day tour in observance of Southern Maryland Soil Conservation Week. The tour will visit southern Maryland's five counties, one each day, for living, working displays of what the newest and best in soil conservation practices can do.

The tour opened yesterday at Oscar Grimes' 107-acre farm, near Davidsonville. High point of the inspection was to have been a dynamite explosion to blast at one time a drainage ditch 600 feet long.

Good Wet Earth Spoils Blast

As Governor Lane squinted, grimaced and pressed an exploder, the expected big boom of chain detonations turned into a small pop because wet earth damped out the chain blast.

No dynamite caps were available to carry the explosion-excavation beyond its intial 20 feet.

After viewing the general farm of Grimes, who once was a tenant farmer, the crowd had luncheon at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gardiner and then inspected the 130-acre establishment of widowed Mrs. Rosa Townsend, not far away. She has been for years an advocate and practitioner of newest soil conservation ideas.

A large number of Washingtonians are expected to today' demonstrations in nearby Prince Georges County. The morning show will be at the J. Stanley Wilburn farm, 3 miles northeast of Marlboro on Route 301.

Lunch at Fairgrounds

The afternoon demonstration will be just 7 miles outside of Washington, at the farm of Capt. Newton H. White, 3 miles north of Route 214 on Enterprise Road. It may be reached from Washington by going east 7 miles on the Central Avenue rd. Road signs for miles around the farm will guide visitors to the scene. Lunch will be served at noon at the fairgrounds at Upper Marlboro.

In addition to the farms on the itinerary, each farm in the soil conservation districts have signs in their fields telling what conservation practices are being used. Many of yesterday's visitors stopped at farm homes to see wildlife refuges, farm ponds, etc., in which they were interested.

A crowd estimated at 700 heard Lane describe the growth of soil conservation in Maryland.

"Southern Maryland is the first area of our State that was put under cultivation," he said. "Its rolling terrain and its centuries of production make it all the more necessary that steps be taken to preserve and increase its fertility.

"Conservation plans have been worked out for 1314 farms embracing 204,875 acres. Conservation practices are in operation on 107,645 acres. More than 50 miles of drainage have been built.

"Everyone in Maryland is affected by how little, or how well, the farmer in Southern Maryland conserves the fertility of his acres. Not only are we dependent on the fertility of the soil for food, but it is important to our health that the food we eat contains the proper elements of nourishment that the body demands."

Vendor Finally Sentenced After 19 Continuances

After his case had been continued 19 times in Municipal Court, Dimont L. Terrell, 34, a balloon vendor, was sentenced yesterday to pay a $50 fine or serve 30 days in jail for assault.

But, the case is not over yet. Terrell told Judge Thomas D. Quinn that he will appeal the conviction and sentence. Bond of $300 was set in the case pending appeal.

Terrell was accused on Nov. 2, 1948, of landing a glancing blow with a hammer on Joseph T. Koehler, 33, 2712 Terrace rd. se., his former business partner.

The continuances were for various reasons, including illness of counsel and conflicting court appointments.

Councilman Selby Not To Seek Reelection

Another Montgomery County Councilman, A. R. Selby, announced yesterday he has "no plans for running for reelection" in 1950. To date, six of the seven council members have made similar announcements.

Selby, a banker and businessman, said the pressure of his private work prevented him from seeking reelection. However, he said he hoped some of the present council members "will be willing to make the sacrifice of running again in November, 1950, even though they do not now seek the office."

Mental Tests Asked To Save Two Garners

Mental examinations were requested yesterday for two holdup-murderers due to die July 29 in the District Jail electric chair. They are George A. and Lawrence J. Garner, who were convicted of shooting to death a taxicab driver here.

The examination was requested by their attorney, Louis Jongbloet, in an attempt to stave off the execution if the two doomed men are found to be of unsound mind.

Forum for Candidates

The Junior Civic League of Falls Church will sponsor a public forum, "The Issues of the Commonwealth Elections," at 7:30 p. m. today in Neet Nac, the Falls Church Canteen. Speakers will be Democratic and Republican candidates for the Virginia House of Delegates.

Women's Party Group To Mark 101st Year

Officers of the National Women's Party today will mark the 101st year of the organization by placing roses at the bases of statues of Luchetia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton at Belmont House, 144 B st. nw.

Ceremonies from 5 to 7 p. m. will be in memory of the meeting of the original organizing committee at Seneca Falls, N. Y., on July 19, 1948. Both women participated in the original meeting.

VA Hospital Site Picked

By The Associated Press.

Representative Doughton (D., N. C.) announced today that Salisbury has been selected as the site for the new 1000-bed neuropsychiatric Veterans Administration hospital in North Carolina. He said the hospital will cost around 17 million dollars.

Requiem Mass Friday for Dr. Bateman

Requiem mass for Dr. Joseph J. Bateman, 65, of 3010 Wisconsin ave. nw., will be said Friday at 9:30 a. m. at the Church of the Annunciation, 39th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Dr. Bateman, who had a private medical practice here for more than 20 years, died Monday at Georgetown Hospital, where he had been under treatment since July 7.

Born in Limestone, N. Y., he received his medical degree at Loyola University Medical School in Chicago and interned at Cook County Hospital, Chicago.

He served in the Army Medical Corps during World War I. From 1919 to 1926 he was a surgeon with the United States Public Health Service. Later he was on the staff of the Mount Alto Hospital.

During World War II he assisted at Fort Myer as a civilian doctor. He was a bachelor.

Dr. Bateman was a member of the District Medical Society, the Knights of Columbus, and the Army-Navy Club.

He is survived by a nephew, Burnell Bateman, Washington contractor; and two nieces, Mrs. Rose Swenson of Washington and Mrs. Aileen Bateman of Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Mildred P. Hall

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 8:45 a. m. at Gawler's funeral chapel for Mrs. Mildred Price Hall, 45, who died Monday at her residence, 2440 16th st. nw., after an illness of two months. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Hall was the wife of Thomas M. Hall, attached to the personnel division of the Federal Public Housing Administration. A native of Alabama, she had made her home in Washington since 1945, when her husband was transferred here from New York.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Thomas M. Hall, jr.; six sisters, Mrs. Emily H. Reid, Mrs. Ivadell Bowser and Mrs. Lucille Lamon, all of Washington; Mrs. Harry Landers, Florence, Ala.; Miss Claire Price, Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Frances McGee of Chattanooga, Tenn., and three brothers, E. B. Price, Jacksonville, Fla.; R. L. Price, jr., New Orleans, and W. B. Price of Chattanooga.

Emile Maurice D'Oisly

London, July 19 (U.P.).—Emile Maurice D'Oisly, operatic and concert artist, died here yesterday. He was 66. D'Oisly was a professor of singing at the Royal Academy of Music.

Linthicum Promoted in Montgomery

Promotion of Montgomery County Detective Sergt. G. W. Linthicum to lieutenant in charge of detectives was announced yesterday by Police Chief Charles M. Orme.

Linthicum, who is 43 and lives in Rockville, will make $4000 in his new post. He joined the Montgomery County police force in August of 1931. The appointment takes effect August 1.

Chief Orme said that Inspector James S. McAuliffe, who now heads the detective bureau, will be relieved of that job to concentrate on police inspection and training. He also will serve as assistant to the chief.

At the same time, Chief Orme announced these other promotions:

From corporal to sergeant: Eugene Brown, 43, with the force since 1942; Mason W. Gray, 32, on the force 8 years, and Charles O. Seek, 38, a county policeman since 1945. They will receive $3600 salaries.

From detective corporal to detective sergeant: Jesse B. Day, 44, on the force for 10 years; Edward R. Barber, 34, a county policeman since 1941, and Stanley A. Harding, 37, with the department 9 years. The three detectives will receive $3800 annually.

Stroke Causes Death of Kimmell

Oakland, Md., July 19 (AP).—John William Kimmell, 81, former treasurer of Garrett County, died today in Peoples Hospital, Akron, Ohio, following a paralytic stroke.

A native of Deer Park, Kimmell, a Republican, served two two-year terms as Garrett County treasurer from 1916 to 1920. In recent years he divided his time between Oakland and Akron.

Funeral services will be held at a funeral home here at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Clarendon Shop Head Given Punchboard Fine

Charles Henard, sr., 47, proprietor of Henard's Specialty Shop in Clarendon, was fined $75 and costs yesterday by Arlington County Court Judge Hugh Reid on a charge of keeping a punchboard.

Henard, of 4712 N. Washington blvd., Arlington, pleaded guilty.

Similar charges against his two sons, Charles, jr., and Ray K. Henard, were nol-prossed. All three men were arrested July 13 for selling 10-cent punchboard chances on a fountain pen at the specialty store.

William Riley Funeral Rites Set for Today

Funeral services for William Riley, 89, former Indian fighter, athlete, and for 33 years a Metropolitan policeman, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at Deal's Funeral Home, 4812 Georgia ave. nw. He died Sunday at a nursing home after a long illness.

A special police delegation will escort the body to Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Riley came to this country from Manchester, England, looking for excitement. He first found it as a cavalryman in the pioneer West, where he fought the Indians and came to know Sitting Bull, Rain-in-the-Face and other legendary chiefs. There, too, he emerged as an athlete, and became the Army's boxing champion, according to his children, undefeated in open competition.

After 10 years in the West, he joined the police force here and earned himself a reputation for bravery and athletic prowess. He was commended twice for saving a drowning boy from the middle of the freezing Potomac and for capturing an F st. gambler, who had shot one man and wounded a policeman.

The mainstay of the police baseball team as a pitcher, Mr. Riley once won a gold medal at the age of 59 for beating all contenders in a 50-yard dash.

After his retirement from the police force he lived with his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Sullivan at 9 Adams st. nw., and occupied his time watching baseball games, horse races, and fights.

A member of the Retired Policeman's Association, he is survived by two sons, William A. Riley of Kecoughtan, Va., and Charles E. Riley of 1717 C sts. se., two daughters, Mrs. Sullivan, who now lives at 3800 New Hampshire ave. nw., and Mrs. Ada Moffat, 1808 Burke st. se., six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mr. Riley's wife died in 1934.

Arturo A. Tomelden

Funeral services for Arturo A. Tomelden, Patent Office attorney who died here Sunday, will be held at 10 a. m. today at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 8th and N sts. nw.

Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. He was approximately 50 years of age at his death.

Mr. Tomelden was the brother of Senator Geronima T. Pecson, first woman senator in the Philippines. He came here as a young man, studied engineering at Catholic University and then law at Georgetown University. He entered Patent Office employ in 1926.

Survivors include his 14-year-old son, Patrick; his mother, Mrs. Pacita Tomelden; a brother, Benjamin T. Tomelden, and two other sisters, all of the Philippines. A nephew, Dr. Armando Sison, resides at 1601 Argonne pl. nw.

Mr. Tomelden's wife, Mrs. Annie Tomelden, died approximately 12 years ago.

Col. J. Frank Barber

Philadelphia, July 19 (AP).—Col. J. Frank Barber, 69, ranking officer in the 304th Engineers of the 79th Division in World War I, died yesterday at the Philadelphia Naval Hospital.

The former Pennsylvania National Guard officer also served in the Spanish-American War and laid plans for Fort Meade, Md.

He was a civil engineer with offices here and also was active in organizing the Seventy-ninth Division Association.

Surviving are four sons, including Lt. Col. J. Frank Barber, jr., serving in the Canal Zone. Funeral services will be held Thursday at National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

D. C. Loan Firms Hit Code Proposal

A group of District small loan firms said yesterday they will have to close up in the District and move to Maryland or Virginia if a new code for their operation is approved by the Commissioners.

Representatives of the firms appeared before the Commissioners to protest regulations that would prevent them from selling insurance other than what the office of the corporation judges necessary to protect their investment.

They would be permitted to sell fire, theft and collision insurance on automobile loans under the new code but would be prohibited from forcing the borrower to take out accident, health or life insurance.

Would Require License

New regulations also would require a license for all firms lending money at a rate of 6 per cent a year. At present a license is required only of companies charging more than 6 per cent.

Former OPA Administrator Leon Henderson, who appeared in support of the proposed new regulations, tangled during the hearing with William J. Nolan, head of the Nolan Finance Co.

"Who do you represent here?" Nolan shouted at Henderson. "Maryland loan companies."

"Nobody has ever hung on me any 5 per cent business," Henderson replied. He said that not even in the days when he was in the public limelight did "anyone dare suggest I received compensation for what I had to say."

Henderson said he represented only himself at the hearing, but that he came as a "one-time impartial expert" on small loans. He formerly headed the division of the Russell Sage Foundation that investigated small loan operations and sponsored uniform small loans legislation in many States.

He said small loan firms should not be permitted to carry on an insurance business.

William R. Lichtenberg, attorney for the Washington Association of Finance Companies, declared the companies could not make a profit and would have to leave town if the regulations went through.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Chester Gray, who drew up the proposals, told the Commissioners a new code was needed because "insurance has become the vehicle for excessive charges for use of money."

Martin F. O'Donoghue, representing the District Bar Association, urged adoption of the regulations.

Washington, he said, has been a lender's paradise." He said he has investigated cases in which "people who sought financial aid have been sold insurance policies later found to be nonexistent."

Mayor Welsh Resigns Grand Rapids Post

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 18 (U.P.).—George W. Welsh, twice president of the United States Conference of Mayors, resigned today as mayor of Grand Rapids in the face of a recall movement.

Welsh cabled his surprise resignation from Rome, Italy, where he is on a world tour with top leaders in business, industry, labor and education.

The resignation came as final plans were being made for a recall election August 4. The recall movement erupted in a city commission squabble over appointment of a city assessor.

14 Skulls Found in Pond

Calcutta, India, July 19 (U.P.).—Police found a bundle containing 14 skulls and other human bones in the city pond today. Physicians said the skulls belonged to men, women and children who had been dead a week or more.

Prince Georges Hospital Post Given to Penn

Threatened friction between the Board of Directors of Prince Georges General Hospital and the county Board of Commissioners failed to materialize yesterday when the commissioners elevated Assistant Superintendent Harry W. Penn to the hospital superintendency.

Earlier, the hospital board had named Penn acting superintendent following receipt of the resignation of Dr. A. K. Besley, superintendent since the hospital opened in March, 1944. This was done in accordance with the board's bylaws.

The commissioners, however, at last week's meeting declared that only they had the power to make the appointment.

The appointment of Penn was made, it was disclosed by the commissioners after a one-hour closed session, in approval of the "recommendation" of the hospital board. The session was attended by Dr. Besley and Russell Jones, vice-chairman of the hospital board.

Announcement also was made of the appointment of David A. McNamee, 24-year-old son of Harry W. McNamee, president of the Board of Commissioners, as assistant superintendent to replace Penn. His salary will be $4200.

Penn, 40, who has been assistant superintendent for nearly three years, will receive a salary of $5400.

McNamee, a World War II veteran, graduated from the University of Maryland School of Business Administration in June. Married, he lives in Greenbelt.

The elder McNamee, who also is chairman of the hospital board, explained the mixup between the boards by saying the hospital board acted under the impression it had appointive authority. It was since determined, he said, that the commissioners cannot delegate this power.

Alexandria Bubble Gum Machines Out

Bubble-gum machines, termed games of chance by police, had been removed from Alexandria stores yesterday, after a Monday crackdown order by Police Chief Edgar Sims.

Sims ordered the machines out because, he said, they violated State law prohibiting games of chance. Youngsters, he said, sometimes got tiny metal trinkets instead of the gum for their pennies.

The police chief was backed in his action by City Attorney Joseph M. Pancoast, who agreed they were illegal. In all, five machines were involved.

Sim said he took action after complaints about their operation. The machines were installed last week by a Baltimore concessionaire.

CWA Sets Plans To Line Up 200,000 Phone Workers

The Communications Workers of America, at its first board meeting since joining the CIO, yesterday announced it was out to organize another 200,000 telephone workers.

President Joseph A. Beirne said that number was the bulk of the industry outside the CWA, which already claims to represent 320,000 workers.

The union said it would spend $650,000 on organizing during the next year. More than half of that amount has been appropriated by the CIO and fellow unions.

Group Named to Investigate District's GI Trade Schools

A 19-man fact-finding committee representing employer groups, labor, veterans and the public, was appointed yesterday by the District Commissioners "to investigate exploitation of GIs by private schools."

Leon Chatelain, jr., past president of the Washington Board of Trade, was named chairman.

The committee was appointed at the request of the D. C. Apprenticeship Council, which previously had reported to the Commissioners that veterans were wasting their Government benefits at many of the schools.

The council said that employers who had hired graduates of the schools found that they were not qualified as journeymen. In many cases, it was said, the training had been an actual handicap in mastering skills and practices.

The council reported that 20 to 25 schools are operating within the District, and that at least 20 were established since passage of the GI Bill.

Schools are receiving an average tuition of more than $500 a year for each student from the Veterans Administration.

Thousand Graduated

During the past three years the council said more than a thousand veterans have been graduated, and not more than one in 20 is employed in the field in which he was trained.

Investigation of the schools was indorsed by the Washington Building and Construction Trade Council, which made findings similar to those of the apprenticeship group, and by the Columbia Typographical Union.

Named to the committee from employer groups were:

Philip L. Graham, publisher of The Washington Post, representing the Washington Publishers Association.

Arthur J. Sundlun, president of A. Kahn, Inc., member executive board of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association.

Edgar B. Helmer, Progressive Printing Co., apprenticeship chairman of the Graphic Arts Association.

A. W. Lee, apprenticeship chairman of the Washington Building Congress.

Clement F. Preller, president of the Central Labor Union.

James J. O'Connor, president, Columbia Typographical Union, 101, representing Allied Printing Trades Council.

Lewis C. Palmer, director of apprenticeship and training, Electrical Workers No. 26 Joint apprenticeship committee.

Philip H. Price, president of the Washington Newspaper Guild.

John R. Evans, vice chairman and labor member of the District of Columbia Apprenticeship Council.

John R. Holden, national employment officer of the Disabled American Veterans.

Benjamin J. Lloyd, assistant of the administrator of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Herbert J. Jacobi, national employment officer for the American Legion.

Representing public agencies and groups:

C. Melvin Sharpe, president of the District Board of Education.

Claude H. Woodward, director of the Better Business Bureau.

Victor R. Daly, chief of the personnel and fiscal division of the District of Columbia office of the United States Employment Service.

Gino J. Simi, director of apprenticeship for the District.

James H. Harahan, assistant to the attorney of the District field office of the Federal Trade Commission, who will represent the FTC.

County to Save $250,000 on Bethesda Job

Montgomery County will save between $250,000 and $300,000 in improving a 4200-foot length of Wisconsin ave. in Bethesda, the county council was told yesterday.

Council President Frederic P. Lee said that of the 57 parcels of land the county needed to widen and improve the avenue, 44 parcels had been given the county outright.

He announced that condemnation action against owners of the remaining 13 parcels will be filed by the Maryland State Roads Commission "by the end of the week."

Work on the improvement, running along the present two-lane stretch of Wisconsin ave. from East-West hwy. to Glenbrook pkwy., should begin about August 1, Lee noted. The improved highway will be 70 feet wide with six traffic lanes and a 6-foot median strip.

According to Lee, holdout owners of the 13 pieces of land have been offered—and refused—$86,200 for their property as valued by assessors. The State and county will split the cost of the new right-of-way, he added.

In addition, Montgomery County plans to spend $37,020 to compensate landowners for loss of shrubbery and the like on the right-of-way, and $75,000 for curbs, sidewalks, and gutters along the improved stretch.

The council yesterday rescinded a 1948 ruling of the old county Commissioners rezoning land on Jones Mill rd. in Chevy Chase from residential to apartment use. The rezoning petition was made by landowner James W. Richards.

In reversing the old ruling, the council noted that Richards had not begun construction on the apartment unit. Councilmen said that the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission felt there was no need to reclassify more land for apartment construction.

A delegation of attorneys from the Montgomery County Bar Association asked the council to strike out a section of the council's Bill No. 5, which makes it mandatory for the county to publicly auction off land siezed for taxes.

Father of the Bride

The Announcement Party Is a HUGE Success; Pop Is a Great Mixer, Especially of Martinis

This is the fourth of 14 instalments of that popular saga of the forgotten man, "Father of the Bride." This condensed version of Edward Streeter's novel chronicles the story of Mr. Stanley Banks as he watches the rise of the greatest show on earth (his daughter's wedding) and the fall of his bank account.

By Edward Streeter

Illustrated by Gluyas Williams

IT HAD been agreed that only a few intimate friends and members of the family were to be told before the engagement was formally announced in the papers. Kay said this involved a cocktail party for everyone but the relatives. She would write them when she had a chance.

The news was too big, however. It was more than she could cope with. She told everyone she met—in absolute confidence, of course—with the result that in 24 hours the only ones who did not know were those who would be mortally hurt if not told first.

Mr. Banks said that, under the circumstances, the cocktail party was about as necessary as a G.I.'s pajamas. Kay said that was ridiculous. She had only told a few people and they had promised to say nothing about it and everybody announced their engagement to their close friends at a cocktail party whether they knew about it already or not.

And so it was that, a few days later, Mr. Banks came out from town on the 3:57, composing an informal and, he hoped, dryly humorous little speech. It was to be about Kay as a little girl, Kay growing up and finally, in a big surprise climax, Kay announcing her engagement.

She had estimated that there would be between 25 and 30 people at the party. Experience had taught him that on this basis he could expect between 35 and 50. In the pantry he stared with a sinking heart as the neatly arranged phalanxes of glasses that Mrs. Banks had borrowed during the day from unwilling friends. Clearly he hadn't thought this thing through. How was any one man to make drinks for a crowd like that? It would take a trained octopus.

However, this was no time for panic. Decisive action was called for. Martinis for everybody. That would be simplest. With perhaps just a few old-fashioneds ready for those allergic to gin. He pulled two large pitchers from a cupboard and went to work.

No Martinis?

THE EARLY ones were arriving. He could hear the high-pitched entrance screams of the females. He wiped his hands on a dishcloth and was about to go out and greet them when the pantry door was blocked by a rosy-cheeked young man with a disarming smile.

"How are you, sir?"

"I'm fine, how are you?" said Mr. Banks, trying to remember where he had seen him before. "Are they starting in already."

"That's it, sir. I was wondering if I could have four old-fashioneds."

"No martinis?" suggested Mr. Banks.

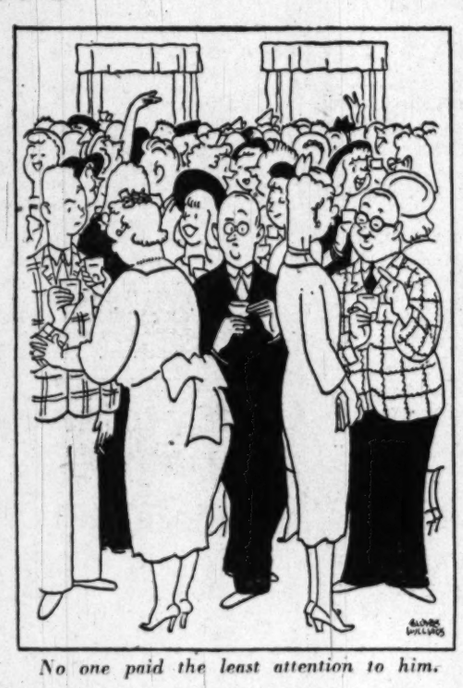
"Oh, no indeed, sir. That's very kind of you. Just old-fashioneds."

Mr. Banks filled four of his emergency glasses with ice cubes and pushed them down the pantry shelf. "Thank you, sir. That's service," said the young man. His place was immediately taken by a stout youth with horn-rimmed glasses.

"Sir, four old-fashioneds and one Scotch and soda."

"I haven't any Scotch," said Mr. Banks. He hoped that his voice did not betray the fact that he had just hidden three bottles in the end cupboard behind Mrs. Banks' flower vases.

The stout young man looked nonplused. He was silent for a moment as he considered this unexpected situation from every angle.



No one paid the least attention to him.

"I don't know, sir. I guess bourbon and soda will do."

Mr. Banks, irritated by a sense of guilt, poured a highball from a bottle labeled "Whiskey—A Blend." "Wouldn't those people like martinis?" he asked.

"Oh no, sir. This is plenty."

A tall young man with a long neck peered around the frame of the door. "Good evening, sir," he said cordially. "Looks as if it was going to be a nice party."

"I haven't seen it," said Mr. Banks testily. "What would you like? Half a dozen frozen daiquiris?"

"Oh no, sir. Just a couple of martinis."

Mr. Banks stared at him delightedly. "You mean martinis?"

"Yes, sir. Can I help you, sir? It'll speed things up a bit."

"No thank you," said Mr. Banks grimly. "I enjoy doing this. It's my hobby."

Have You Heard This One?

FOR HALF an hour he sloshed around frantically, trying to keep up with the demand. Then there was a sudden lull in business. "To hell with it," he muttered. Mopping his suit off as best he could, he took a martini and made for the living room, from which there now came a steady roar, like the beating of surf on rocks.

He shouldered his way into the room. Except for a few absent-minded smiles, no one paid the least attention to him. He found himself a bit of standing room in the corner by the bookcases.

A group was being adressed with gestures by the stout young man with bone glasses.

"Oh, Mr. Banks. Joe's telling us a story. It's a scream. Start it again for Mr. Banks, Joe."

"Well, it's a very old story, sir. I'm sure you've heard it. It's about a caliph's daughter." This struck the girl beside Mr. Banks as excruciating. She began to giggle hysterically. "It seems that many years ago in Persia there was a caliph who had a beautiful daughter. Have you heard this, sir? Well, one day a traveling salesman—"

"Stanley, where have you been? Doris and Herbert are here." It was Mrs. Banks.

"Doris and Herbert who?" he asked.

"Well, well, well. Glad to see you, Stanley," boomed Mr. Dunstan. "Sorry to be so late. We got lost. Doris always insists—"

"Now go and get Doris and Herb something to drink," said Mrs. Banks.

"Would you like a martini?" asked Mr. Banks hopefully.

"If it's all the same to you, Stan, we'll take old-fashioneds. Can't I help you?"

"No, no," said Mr. Banks. "It won't take a second."

He didn't get back to the pantry a minute too soon. A group of thirst-crazed young men were just about to take the matter of service into their own hands. He sent the drinks out to the Dunstans and for the next hour he worked like a dike mender. The only compensation was that the guests now seemed less fussy about what they got. The roar from the living room sounded like a mob scene in a Cecil B. de Mille superspectacle.

Then the crowd began to thin. The roar subsided. He could hear the die-hards gathering in the front hall for a final stand. Mr. Banks closed down his dispensary and rejoined the remnants, outwardly a genial host, but at heart a professional bouncer.

"You're a help," said Mrs. Banks. "Goodby, dear. You were sweet to come."

"What do you think I've been doing? Playing pool?"

"I know. But why must you always leave the whole thing on my shoulders? Goodby, Helen dear. You look sweet in that hat."

He considered the first part of her remark as unjust as the last was untrue. "Where are the Dunstans?"

"They're all right. They're talking to Uncle Charlie or vice versa. Goodby, Sam. Glad you could come."

Mrs. Banks Calls for Help

HE FOUND himself facing a blond young woman with big deer-like eyes. To his dismay she suddenly burst into tears. She was sorry, she sniffled, but this sort of thing did something to her. The thought occurred to Mr. Banks that it usually did if you took enough of it. He turned to help a highly pregnant young woman into her coat.

She was joined immediately by the young man with horn-rimmed glasses who appeared to be her husband. "Hi, hi," he said. "What's going on here? What's the idea? Who's leaving? Party's just warming up." He raised his glass to Mr. Banks, who noted with dismay that it was a fresh one. "Sir, the best party ever. And that reminds me, you never heard the end of that story. It was about the caliph's daughter. Remember?

Then he saw Mrs. Banks cornered underneath the curve of the stairs by a blond giant. She had her distress signals flying. The blond giant was explaining to Mrs. Banks how lucky any man would be to have her for a mother-in-law. Mrs. Banks was obviously lapping it up like a kitten. Yet she had called for help. Queer things, women, mused Mr. Bank, as he moved in.

Like an old cattleman cutting calves from the herd, he disentangled his guests one by one and propelled them through the front door with such light-handed skill that they were unaware of his treachery until they found themselves in the open air.

The young man with the bone glasses was still working on the story about the caliph's daughter. His audience had shrunk to his pregnant wife and Mrs. Banks, both of whom seemed to have an allergy for Oriental folklore. Placing a fatherly arm about his shoulder, Mr. Banks removed the glass from his cramped fingers.

"Good night," he purred. "Good night, my boy. You were both swell to come." As the door closed after them he instinctively placed his back against it. With a sick heart he surveyed the wreckage of what had once been his home. It occurred to him that he had forgotten to announce the engagement.

Somehow it didn't seem to matter.

General Arnold grins a happy grin at the wedding of his daughter Elizabeth to Lieut. James H. Dallman on April 18. By that time he was a veteran of wedding routine—daughter Emily had become the bride of Parkman Clancy less than two months previously. Six-year-old Joseph Arnold was in both wedding parties.

WHEN I WAS . . . Father of the Brides

By Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold

Major General William H. Arnold is Chief of the Budget Division, Department of the Army. But he admits that Mrs. Arnold handled the budget for the weddings of their two daughters after he'd pleaded the assignment was too big for him.

MY TWO daughters made their debuts together, they announced their engagements together, but would they get married together—No!

Having plighted each his troth, the two eager aspirants approached "the old man." The interviews were about as conclusive as that of Mr. Banks and Buckley.

As soon as I had consented to these (remember, I had two) momentous requests, the ladies took over. The "master training program" for the Clancy-Arnold merger and the Dallman-Arnold unification was quickly formulated. Thereafter the nightly chore was add, eliminate, and discuss the friends and relations in an effort to condense several hundred people into a "200-seater" chapel!

Fortunately Betty and Emily wanted to wear the same wedding gown. Complications arose in that my wife and general manager insisted on different costumes for each affair.

In my case I thought I had a better break. One of my brother officers (pitying my sorry state) gave me an outgrown full dress uniform. However, as my chest as well as his had expanded during the last 15 years, considerable adjustments were necessary.

IN THE frustrating role of "Father of the Bride," you are, at best, a masculine walk-on. While your advice is sometimes asked, your counsel is never heeded. You may be perfectly capable of making a modest place in life, but you are not believed capable of deciding the most commonplace questions at a wedding.

You are drilled in your duties. You are told how to walk as if you had been bed-ridden all your life. You are subjected to dress inspection such as the Army never dreamed possible. You are alerted hours before the required time to take care of important minutiae—at the last possible moment.

THE FIRST great day finally dawned. I reached the Chapel in a fog. Emily, my suddenly serene and sedate daughter, jolted me to reality with, "Well, Dad, left foot!" and down we marched into a sea of smiling faces.

By the time the second affair arrived I had learned a lot—I was "in the groove!"

Champagne was a major problem, but I solved this one with "Harry" by saying—"What the hell, I'm broke anyway, so keep it flowing."

Woman's Marriage to Distinguished Widower 30 Years Her Senior Endures Happily Despite Critics' Pessimism; But She Has Social Trials

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: After much thought and travail of spirit, I am turning to you for perspective on my problem. I am the second wife of a man 30 years my senior, and he is my second husband.

Although many of our friends felt the marriage wouldn't last, we have had eight years of happiness seldom found in this world. John is retired, has had many honors, both in civic affairs and in the legislature where he served; we travel a great deal, enjoy horses, books, etc.; and we live in a small town, where everything we do is news.

John is inordinately proud of me. I put two children through college on my own; held a good position when he married me; and I am musical in a modest way, enough to entertain the family. I do all my own housework, handle much of my husband's business and all of his correspondence; and, coming from the South, I'd as soon have 17 to dinner as seven.

She Entertains Much, But Few Reciprocate

ALL THIS prompts John to say "oft and long" that his wife can do anything; which, although flattering to any wife, has promoted much jealousy and I am beginning to feel the brunt of it. Very few people here reciprocate our social courtesies. I am not a stickler for reciprocity, and thus far have gone along and had our friends in when the spirit moved me—and let myself forget that they seldom call on me personally.

John is so happy to have his friends of other years in his house again,—he was alone for 10 years,—that I can hardly curtail this without making him unhappy, and that I would never do. But should I isolate myself for a bit? Or continue in my own simple way of doing things?

At our annual New Year's Day "open house" we have from two hundred to three hundred guests; and due to John's position, financial and otherwise, we have many distinguished visitors whom we always share with our local friends. But I observe that it isn't appreciated too much, although they sometimes say, "I surely intend to have you and your husband over; but we don't entertain as you Southerners do!"

I fear some of my good sense of humor is being lost over this; and perhaps I am getting cynical, or am I? Your comment will help me, I am sure. V. C.

Does She Overplay the Role of 'Lady?'

DEAR V. C.: Presumably John is the local "man of distinction," and wealthy besides, which suggests that his position would automatically cast his wife in the role of "lady of the manor"—or fortune-huntress, maybe—from the town's viewpoint.

Possibly you are conscious of this and on a strain either (1) to live up to the lady-role; or (2) disarm the cynical suspicion; perhaps. Maybe you've lost natural simplicity of manner, in striving too hard to make good with John, his distinguished friends and the natives alike, and thus keep him bewitched with his choice, and you "secure" in your new eminence.

Maybe your social behavior, as hostess or party-giver, is a high-strung blend of unconscious defensiveness and compensatory effort to register aplomb or make a hit, as if being Mrs. Bigwig were a snap course for you. If so, sophisticated guests would instinctively think "phony!" and the less worldly would feel uncomfortable at close range, not knowing why—and none would feel drawn to you companionably.

Cultivate Friends on the Ground Level

MOREOVER, such hospitality as receptions for hundreds, and sharing visiting lions with the local elite, isn't simple entertaining by grassroots standards, as you should know. True hospitality in any walk of life consists in visiting back and forth among friends, for meals and conversation, and not to "make news," so come down to earth.

Could be that your husband's proud spiel is indeed your jinx,—not that his words arouse jealousy in others, but that they make you tediously smug in relation to women nowadays: an egoist of sorts who acts all-sufficient and leaves no opening for local matrons to be good neighbors in the old-fashioned way of advising and helping with your social projects, gardening, dressmaking, etc. Maybe that's the trouble. If so, learn the gracious art of the modest approach, and see if the freeze doesn't thaw in a year or two. M. H.

Kitchen Tricks for Hot Weather Meals

WANT to learn some kitchen tricks to beat the heat? Then join the class starting this week at Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts ave., nw.

"Balanced Meals for Hot Weather" is the subject; the Red Cross is the sponsor, and Mrs. Milton Miles the teacher. The clas gathers in the cool of the evening—7:30 p. m.—Tuesday and Thursdays for six 2-hour lessons. Big aim is to help housewives whose ideas for summer menus are driven off by steaming kitchens and 90-degree temperatures,

If you'd like to enroll, drop in at Walsh House or call Hobart 6800, Extension 19, and leave your name. The course is free, and you can join it any time from now until Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

District Goodwill Industries Plan Vacation Week

Goodwill Industries, Washington's workshop for the handicapped, will close down its entire plant and discontinue collections of discarded materials during the last week of July in order to give its workes a much-needed vacation with pay, it has been announced by W. Harold Snape, director of Davis Memorial Goodwill here.

Mr. Snape said that the Industries' five retail Goodwill stores will be open daily as usual, as store managers and clerks are having their vacations on a stagger plan.

23-Vacation Donation

A check which will enable 23 girls to spend a week's vacation at a summer camp will be presented to the Barney Neighborhood House at its closing exercises, Friday, July 29, 8 p. m. Mrs. Edith Claude Jarvis, immediate past president of the Washington Soroptimist Club, will present the gift on behalf of the club.

Wives of Post 15 To Meet Tonight

Wives of members of Vincent Costello Post, No. 15, will gather this evening at the home of Mrs. C. A. Jackson, wife of the commander of the post. At the meeting plans will be completed for a moonlight cruise to be held July 28 on the S. S. Bear Mountain for the purpose of raising funds for welfare activities of the post.

Servicemen from units and hospitals in and around Washington have been invited on the cruise. Mrs. Jackson will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Albert Moreland, Mrs. Sylvan Reichgut, Mrs. Olita McCormack, jr.

Other service news is a block party square dance which has been planned for tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. at Fort McNair. Mrs. Max Livingston is recreation director.

On the Party Front...

Aztec Garden Reception Fetes OAS Ambassadors

A RECEPTION was given yesterday in the Aztec Garden of the Pan American Union by the Ambassador of Costa Rica and Senora de Esquivel. The party was in honor of the Uruguayan Ambassador to the Organization of American States and Senora de Mora and the Ambassador of El Salvador to the OAS and Senora de Castro. It was the first large entertainment to be given by the new Costa Rican Ambassador, who, at 33, is the youngest Ambassador in the corps.

Guests dressed in informal summer attire were received between 7 and 9 o'clock. Nearly 500 top members of diplomatic and official society attended. While a section of the Navy band played, the Aztec Sad God looked on from his lofty perch in front of the loggia. Ivy and blue ageratum bordered the pool and exotic lilies in colors of purple, yellow, white and pink opened in full bloom.

A large buffet table was set up on the terrace and bars on either side offered champagne and cooling drinks. Latin American Ambassadors and their wives were in the distinguished gathering, as well as a number of European diplomats and their wives. Cabinet officials, members of the Inter-American Defense Board, and members of the Council of the OAS also attended.

French Crawford Smiths Fete Mr., Mrs. Jan Peerce

THE home of French Crawford Smith in University Park, Md., was the scene of a reception last night honoring the celebrated tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, Jan Peerce and Mrs. Peerce. Mr. Peerce, who Arturo Toscanini has called his "favorite tenor," will be the guest soloist of the National Symphony tonight at the Watergate.

The host's mother, Mrs. French C. Smith, was assisted by Miss Martha Louise Franklin, who is home from her studies at Northwestern University, and Miss Grace Elizabeth Binkley, who is vacationing from her studies at the University of Maryland.

Among the first to greet the honor guest and his wife were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell is the popular conductor of the National Symphony, and it will be under his baton tonight that Mr. Peerce will sing.

Others who attended were, James Reginald Reisch, who is visiting from Eden, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Warner, and their son, Philip; the Director of Music of the National Gallery of Art and Mrs. Richard Bales; Col. and Mrs. Philip G. Strong;

Swedish Minister, Mme. de Aminoff Feted

THE Swedish Minister, Alexis de Aminoff, and Mme. de Aminoff were honored last evening at a dinner party given by the Swedish First Secretary and Mme. Rydbeck. Guests were mostly embassy staff members and their wives. Count and Countess Wachtmeister of Warrenton and Mr. and Mrs. K. Wastfelt of Middleburg drove up from the country to attend. The party was a farewell to the Aminoffs who are leaving soon for Sweden.

Lieut. Col. L. A. Calderson, Venezuelan Aide, Feted

LIEUT. COL. LUIS A. CALDERSON, Air Attache of the Embassy of Venezuela, was the guest in whose honor several of his friends entertained at dinner last evening on the terrace of the Shoreham Hotel. The celebration was in honor of Colonel Calderson's promotion of rank from major to lieutenant colonel.

The guests attending the dinner were the Ambassador to the Organization of American States, Dr. Atilano Carnevali; the Minister Counselor of of the Embassy of Venezuela, Dr. Santiago Vera Izquierdo; the Naval Attache of the Embassy, Commander Wolfgang Larrazabal; Major Miguel de la Rosa, the Counsel of the Venezuelan Embassy, Dr. Manuel Reyna; the Second Secretary of the Embassy, Dr. Otmaro Silva; the Assistant Naval Attache of the Embassy, Lieut. Juan Marquez; the Assistant Air Attache, Lieut. Felix Armando Ramirez; the First Secretary of the Embassy, Domingo de Tovar; the Third Secretary of the Embassy, Luis J. Guevara, and the Commercial Counselor, Jose Gil Borges.

The Commercial Attache of the Canadian Embassy and Mrs. John H. English also entertained at dinner last evening on the Shoreham's terrace. Their guests numbered 8. Also giving an informal dinner party were Senator and Mrs. Irving M. Ives.

Brown—Ivison Nuptials

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Katharine Phelps Brown and Sterling Hollingshead Ivison, jr. The ceremony will take place August 6 at 4 o'clock in Christ Episcopal Church, Georgetown.

Phillips-Poe Nuptials Join Old Families

Of much interest in Old Washington circles is announcement of the wedding yesterday of Miss Catherine Stewart Poe and George Wendell Phillips, jr. The ceremony took place in St. John's Church, the Rev. Roy Battenhouse officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Francis Bennett Poe and the late Mrs. Poe, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Persia Phillips of Orlando, Fla., and Mr. Phillips of Christmas, Fla.

Mrs. John Van Sickle, jr., of East Aurora, N. Y., attended the bride, and Richard L. Buckmaster of Orlando was best man for the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left for their honeymoon immediately after the ceremony. On their return they will visit the bride's father.

Chinese Envoy's Son To Wed in New York

The Ambassador of China and Mme. Koo will go to New York on August 20 to attend an important wedding—that of their son, Teh-Chang Koo and Miss Gertrude Kwang-Kwa Yang. Miss Yang is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ho-Ching Yang of New York.

The bride-elect was graduated from Dalton School and Bennington College. Mr. Koo was graduated from Cornell University as an aeronautical engineer, and he served in the Chinese Air Force. He is now on inactive duty with the rank of lieutenant colonel. In New York he represents the Bangkok Cotton Mills.

Ask Anne

Can you tell me how to remove what appears to be oil mixed with sand from my green leather shoes and my baby's red leather moccasins? We got it at the beach. Dewey Beach to be exact. I'm not at all sure if it is oil.

N. J. J.

Since you are not sure just what this stain might be, if these are very good shoes, I would suggest you take them to a reliable shoe cleaner to have the stains removed. If however, you wish to try removing them yourself, here's how I'd suggest going about it: wipe or brush as much as possible of the oil and sand off. To soften the embedded oil or road grease, rub colorless vaseline or lard into the stain. Take care to rub it only into the stained area. Let stand to soften, continuing to rub occasionally. When softened, remove as much as possible with a soft cloth and apply more vaseline. Continue as long as improvement is seen. When the oil is all removed or no more can be removed by softening, sponge lightly with carbon tetrachloride. Do not allow the carbon tetrachloride to soak the leather as it will harden it making it unpliable. When all fat has been removed give the shoes a good application of leather polish or preserver.

Can you tell me if there is a store in Washington where I might buy a bench like those in public parks?

H. A. S.

There is a firm listed under "play ground equipment" in the yellow pages of the telephone book which sells benches for outside use. This is primarily a wholesale firm but when they have extra benches on hand they will sell to individuals. I suggest you call them at Hudson 7300 for further information.

TO DAILY READER: General suggestions on running your 8-room house and caring for your family of six with a minimum of time and effort appeared in this column yesterday. Here is a suggested schedule, too, omitted from yesterday's column for lack of space.

Now for the schedule: The hour of the day for various duties is not given because, in my opinion, the homemaker too often becomes only a slave to that type of schedule. If she has interruptions (and she certainly will) she is thrown off her hourly schedule and feels behind and rushed the rest of the day. However, if you prefer, you can affix hours for duties to your schedule.

Each day would run something like this: Immediately after breakfast straighten, vacuum and dust the living rooms, your bedroom and clean the bathrooms. This will take about an hour each morning and puts the house in presentable order for the day. This done, turn to the main job of the day, washing, ironing, etc. (outlined in more detail later). You should have about three hours for this before lunch. If your teen-ager doesn't prepare lunch, your morning time will be shortened a bit. The afternoons from 1 to 4 or 4:30 should be left free for your meetings, correspondence, darning, gardening, hobbies, etc.

At 4 or 4:30 you will start to prepare the evening meal. I've allowed ample time here so that you can bake a cake, cookies, make salads, etc., for future meals. As a matter of fact, this will be your principal meal preparation period for the day and you should plan it that way. The evening after dinner should be left entirely free of household duties, with the possible exception of an evening of ironing early in the week should you not be able to finish in one morning.

On Monday you could wash in the morning; Tuesday, iron; Wednesday, thoroughly clean one room as you suggest; Thursday, marketing and putting away groceries (there may be some time left during this morning to straighten kitchen cupboards, clean refrigerator, etc.); Friday, general house cleaning; Saturday, extra baking and finish cleaning.

First Day—Two Away!

Dubious, Dutiful Start Is Pleasantly Reassuring; Scales Are Convincing!

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE first morn of THE diet I peered cagily at the clock. The hands indicated 8:30. Ida Jean warned a full quota of sleep was practically a necessity, so I turned over and slept soundly until 9:05.

The first painful decision was whether to take my stretching exercises on the floor or on the bed. I tested the floor barefoot, found it surprisingly hard considering its characteristic Georgetown antiquity. But what made me REALLY make up my mind was the undeniable fact that available floor space covered less territory than the bed.

So I tossed off the pillows and, exercise diagram in hand, started squirming energetically, not forgetting more than 90 per cent of the time to "suck up" such lower tummy muscles as were not completely atrophied.

As I was soon completely dizzy trying to follow the diagrams clutched in my wavering hand, I called it a day, deciding to memorize the exercises in the morning.

Breakfast Was O. K.

I TRIPPED more or less gaily down to the kitchen. My spirits sagged momentarily when I glimpsed a tray tidily set with a bottle of vitamin pills, a box of Melba toast from which I was expected to extract a single slice, and the usual eating accoutrements. In the icebox, carefully two thirds full, nestled the crimson numeraled measuring glass.

Then I went to unaccustomed work scrambling a single egg minus butter or grease of any kind. I shot salt and pepper into a double boiler top, broke in an egg, added two teaspoonsful of plain aqua pura. When the egg began to stick around the edge, I scrambled like mad, scraped ditto to retrieve as much as possible. To my intense surprise, it tasted good.

The problem, of course, is cleaning the pot. Fortunately, it isn't mine!

The orange juice was o.k., the egg o.k., the coffee (I always take it black) was o.k., and the Melba toast a bit hard to chew. (I'm nobler than most other dieters, having arbitrarily decided to give up butter ON anything.)

Saving the Calories

SINCE my usual breakfast consists of coffee and grapefruit, I still felt stuffed when luncheon time came around. Surely, my metabolism was hitting on all cylinders! I downed a wedge of Swiss cheese without too much trouble, ate a hardboiled egg with less relish and toyed with an assortment of dressingless (I sprinkle on garlic vinegar!) DARK salad leaves. Since no berries seemed to be handy, I substituted a half cantaloupe, thereby cleverly saving not only 10 calories but an additional 35 by not using sugar (I never do anyway!)

I'm allergic to every variety of cow juice, so instead of building up my tissues with skimmed milk and such thin delights, I drank sugarless iced tea. Ida Jean Kain, however, aware of this eccentricity, added a special spot of this and that vitamin to make up for this deficiency.

Since the 4 o'clock pick-me-up happened to be skim milk (again!) I took some more iced tea. Just before dinner I noticed I was talking rather sharply to my daughter and more than incisively to the dignified lady who runs my household. She looked at the diet without bothering to put on her glasses, a very bad sign indeed, and remarked tartly: "It surely will all come off your face!"

Pineapple for Dinner

THE ground steak pattie or, as we call it in these parts, the hamburger, filled what was fast becoming an aching void by dinner time. Since eating corn on the cob has always seemed too much bother, I dutifully called Miss Kain and substituted five spears of frozen asparagus. For the fresh fruit indicated, I munched, nostalgically, a quarter of a pineapple.

While doing so I could not help but remember Don the Beachcomber's out in Honlulu where the most curious yet agreeable alcoholic mixtures are served in a pineapple shell.

This naturally led to considerable musing about the truly amazing amount of edibles one could pile onto those not over large, brightly colored ceramic plates that Don uses. Eventually, with these pleasant thoughts firmly in kind, I fell asleep.

The Morning After

WHEN I woke next morning, I knew something was different. I realized my stomach felt flat and actually WAS. Without bothering to stretch and wriggle, I dashed to my quavery scales.

I stood on the outside, I moved both feet close together. Tentatively, I jumped up and down.

No matter what I did—the needle jiggled backwards from yesterday's high. I had lost TWO pounds!

Eat to Beat The Heat.

Reducing's Just a Breeze In the Summertime

By Ida Jean Kain

SUMMERTIME and the living is easy . . . even reducing is a breeze in hot weather . . . it helps you feel cooler. Summer vegetables are slimming, fruits are made to order and hot weather takes the edge off your appetite.

And best of all, you can have good things to eat while losing weight. Take corn on the cob . . . but what about the butter, you may question. Have a half pat of soft butter and spread it over a whole ear of corn. If you dearly love sweet corn, have two medium-size ears, but no other starch with that meal.

Know your vegetables and choose only one from the following 15 to 20 per cent starch group: lima beans, navy beans, corn, peas, parsnips, potatoes.

But you can have other vegetables. Choose from the 5 to 10 per cent groups: asparagus, tomatoes, celery, cabbage, cucumber, spinach, summer squash, string beans, Brussel sprouts, greens and turnips. Take a lot . . . take two.

IDA JEAN KAIN

Salads taste wonderful in summer menus. There is even a special dressing that cuts the fat calories.

And boiled dressing made with skim milk tastes delicious on cole slaw, and on sandwiches. Try open-face sandwiches—hard-cooked egg sliced on lettuce, and thin slice of bread spread with low-calorie dressing. Or, if you wish, use a thin spread of mayonnaise, but do not add butter to that sandwich.

Summer fruits make perfect desserts—cantaloupe, watermelon, plums, cherries, blueberries, raspberries and apricots and peaches. Have the berries with whole milk instead of cream. Or sugar them and let stand a couple of hours—they taste delicious in their own juice, no cream needed. Yes, summertime food is made to order for slimming.

And one of these mornings you'll rise up singing—you'll be slimmer!

Man-Size Reducing Menus

If the husbands want to get in the act, and reduce, too, they can by having more of the same. Adding between 300 and 400 more calories to the same menus makes them man-sized reducing diets.

A man's calories depend on his size and his job. Doing sedentary work a man uses 2400 calories a day. Excess fat is solid evidence he has exceeded his quota. He can reduce on 1400 calories a day. It is safe to subtract 1000 calories from normal requirements.

The diet changes are simple: A second egg may be added to breakfast; an extra slice of bread and butter to lunch—not too much butter—and whole milk in place of buttermilk.

This totals 340 calories. Or he can have a larger serving of lean meat and vegetables.

A WORD TO THE WIVES: If you want your husband leaner, don't talk diet—just cut calories in the kitchen.

Go by the scales—2 or 3 pounds a week is fast enough to lose—even in the good ole summertime.

Here is tomorrow's menu:

U. S. Expert Says

German Women Must Reenter Social World

Berlin, July 19.—One of the great responsibilities facing German women is the reestablishment of relationships with one another as well as with women of other countries, in the opinion of Miss Ruth F. Woodsmall, chief of United States Government Women's Affairs Section in Germany.

"The worst thing Hitler did was to isolate the individual," she observes. "While exchange of ideas today is needed all over the world, it is needed particularly in Germany where a hiatus existing since 1934 transcended even the normal cleavages of war."

Miss Woodsmall has had long experience with German women, having served with the 1918-19 Army of Occupation in Germany, and frequently visited that country between 1933 and 1948 while serving as general secretary of the World Y.W.C.A.

Pointing out the preponderance of German women over men, she emphasizes that the population changes gives the former a greater political and economic potential. This means "either they (the women) can be used or they themselves can use their vote," she explained.

According to Miss Woodsmall the Nazis left a whole generation of women with a sense of being displaced people—a feeling that can lead to moral insecurity. "The answer is to find creative outlets for these women," she said. "New lines of employment must be opened to them and they should be given technical training heretofore closed to them."

Guard Enters Florida Town Ruled by Mob

Groveland, Fla., July 19 (AP).—Nearly 300 National Guard troops moved in tonight as new outbreaks threatened from a white mob which has terrorized Negroes by home burnings and shooting forays.

The troops gave this tiny sawmill town the aspects of a military base. The community has been embattled since Saturday when four Negroes allegedly beat and robbed a white man and raped his 17-year-old bride.

Brig. Gen. Mark Lance, State adjutant general, notified the Governor the situation is "in good hands." He added all troops are "completely equipped and armed for any emergency."

The mob, riding in trucks and autos and shooting into the air at random, burned three Negro houses in last night's demonstration.

So far, no casualties have been reported.

Along Groveland's one business street things were quiet during the day hours. In nearby fields and groves, a number of Negro farm workers were reported absent.

"It looks like the situation is growing worse instead of better," said a police officer who asked that he remain anonymous.

Three Negro suspects in the robbery and rape have confessed, said Sheriff W. V. McCall. They are in an undisclosed jail for safekeeping. A fourth still is being hunted.

Last night's disturbance mounted when Sheriff McCall hurled a tear gas bomb into the midst of a heavily-armed crowd of about 50 white men as they rode through Stucky's Still, a Negro community five miles west of here, firing shotguns, pistols and rifles. The sheriff followed them to a country road where he talked them into disbanding."

A short while later, a mob of armed men swept into a Negro sector two miles west of here and burned down three houses.

Minister Is Arrested In Alabama Flogging

Birmingham, Ala., July 19 (AP).—A minister, accused of being the man who prayed for the flogging victim of a hooded mob just before the lash was applied, was arrested tonight.

He was booked at county jail as the Rev. R. C. Lyons of Graysville, Ala. His accuser, Jack Alexander of West Jefferson, who was whipped the night of May 20, said a man "knelt at my head and prayed that God would teach me what was right, as I was lying stripped just before they started hitting me."

Lyons told newsmen he is a minister of the Assembly of God Church. He denied memebrship in the Ku Klux Klan.

Slot Machine Rehearing Plea Denied

The Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners yesterday refused to act on a request that it seek a rehearing in the recent slot machine case.

The county's slot machine law, approved by the voters June 6, was declared unconstitutional by Judge Charles C. Marbury in Circuit Court June 23. The law called for licensing of the machines and legalized cash payoffs.

Attorney Robert W. McCullough, representing the County Hotel and Restaurant Owners Association, said he would seek further legal action after the board failed to act.

McCullough asked the board to instruct its attorney to file for a rehearing in the case brought by C. Walter Hendrix, 10103 Old Bladensburg rd., Silver Spring, against the commissioners. Hendrix, a Montgomery County resident, was seeking to have voided the resident requirement in the law. He operates about 50 machines in Prince Georges.

Following McCullough's request, Jerrold V. Powers, the board's attorney, informed the board it had three alternatives: to do nothing, to appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals, or to file a motion for a rehearing. He made no recommendation.

Commissioner D. Leonard Dyer moved to request the rehearing, but the motion failed to receive a second.

Balked in this attempt to obtain redress, McCullough then asked the board for a blank application form for a pinball machine license. He said the request was made for Hal B. Bell, 3424 Rhode Island ave., Mount Rainier.

Stuyvesant Town Held Private Development

Albany, N. Y., July 19 (U.P.).—New York's highest tribunal ruled today that Stuyvesant Town, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s 3700-unit housing project in New York City is a private development and can "exclude Negroes from consideration as tenants."

In a 4 to 3 decision, the Court of Appeals held that the aid which New York City and the State gave the insurance firm in making the 90-million-dollar project possible was "not sufficient to transmute their conduct into State action under the constitutional provisions here in question."

Failure to Renew State License Costs Firm $20

A fine of $20 plus costs was levied yesterday in Arlington County Court against Jack Stone, Inc., electrical contracting concern, for failure to renew an expired State business license.

Judge Hugh Reid, who previously had suspended four similar fines on the same charges, commented: "I don't think I'm going to suspend any more of these."

Lions to Build 'International City' in Illinois

New York, July 19 (AP).—The Lions heard plans today for establishment of a "Lions International City."

International President Eugene S. Briggs of Enid, Okla., said the project includes building a world headquarters for the service club, with homes for staff members and a hotel for visiting Lions and guests.

In addition, the plan calls for establishment of schools and colleges "where may be taught the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship."

Briggs said some 375 acres already have been purchased and $442,000 spent on the development, near Matteson, Ill.

Another speaker at this thirty-second annual convention of the Lions was John S. Graham, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. He described the United States savings bond campaign as "the most amazing sales success story ever written."

A highlight of the convention, which is being attended by more than 30,000 delegates from 26 countries, was the coronation of a Queen of Lions, Janice Harvell, 17, of Carolina Beach, N. C.

Foreign Aid Bill Amendments Held Recovery Threats

Paul Hoffman told Senators yesterday that three amendments to the foreign aid bill are "serious threats" to the European Recovery Program.

In a letter to Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), with copies to other Senators, the Economic Cooperation Administrator objected to:

(1) An amendment requiring ECA to buy surplus farm products of the kinds and in the amounts set forth in ECA's budget estimates. These funds would be "frozen" if not used for farm purchases.

(2) An amendment requiring ECA to set aside 50 million dollars for loans to Spain.

(3) An amendment cutting 74 million dollars from ECA's authorized spending in the last quarter of 1949.

OFFICIAL NOTICES 5

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, July 11, 1949. A public hearing having been held by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in the matter of closing certain street and public alleys in the District of Columbia, as hereinafter described, and, as the said Commissioners are of the opinion that the street area and alleys to be closed should be closed, notice is hereby given that under date of June 30, 1949, they have prepared the following order: "Ordered, that pursuant to the provisions of Public Act No. 307 approved December 15, 1932, the street and alley areas as shown in green on plats filed in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia and numbered as Maps 3501, 3502, 3503 and 3504, are hereby ordered closed; same to take effect on and after August 15, 1949; the title to the land comprised in said areas so closed to revert to the abutting property owners as shown on said maps; the said closings to take effect jointly or separately by subsequent order or orders on the effective date aforesaid, according to Items 2, 3, 4 and 5, described as follows: (2) Closing of part of Gorman Terrace, west of Chaplin Street S.E., and providing for a dedication of new street and alley area. (3) Closing of part of Parkside Drive, north of Yorktown Road N.W. (4) Closing of public alley in Square 100. (5) Closing of public alley extending north from Alabama Avenue and abutting 361st Street S.E., in Square 5668." Any and all parties interested must file, in writing, with the Commissioners, D. C., objections, if any, to these closings, or as to any item providing for the closing listed above, before August 15, 1949; otherwise said closings shall become effective on and after that date, in accordance with the provisions of Public Act No. 307, approved December 15, 1932. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, GUY MASON, GORDON R. YOUNG, Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The Lyon's Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Last winter there was a front-page story about the treasure of Boswell manuscripts found and acquired by Col. Ralph H. Isham of New York . . . Yale University soon may take possession of these manuscripts, with a $400,000 grant supplied by Paul Mellon and Whittlesey House. Scholars at Yale will decipher and edit the material, and then Whittlesey House will publish it.

MGM has just announced its plan to produce a movie based on the life of Alonzo Stagg, the venerable football coach. This transaction involved acquiring, from Warner Bros., the rights to the title, "The Life of Alonzo Stagg." This is how Warners came to register the title: When the studio's "Life of Knute Rockne" had its premiere in South Bend, there was a three-day celebration—part of which was the Notre Dame-College of the Pacific football game . . . In the first half the College of the Pacific, coached by Stagg, scored 20 points, and Warners' press agent, Bob Taplinger, felt that his well-planned premiere was disrupted. By the way of salvage, Taplinger phoned Warners and suggested that the studio immediately register the movie title, "The Life of Alonzo Stagg" . . . Notre Dame, incidentally, won the game.

Friday night, after the premiere of their musical, "Miss Liberty, "Author Robert E. Sherwood, Songwriter Irving Berlin and Director Moss Hart went to Dinty Moore's to wait for the drama reviews. At midnight a friend telephoned the morning newspapers and had the notices read to him. He reported the sad news to the three men . . . "Oh, well," said Sherwood, "at least we didn't have to wait as long as Tom Dewey did."

Eddie de Lange, the songwriter-bandleader who died last week, was a gay, lusty young man who was fascinated by the nightclubs of Broadway and by the people who frequented them . . . One night, in a discussion about the self-absorption of nightclub-goers, De Lange made a $50 bet to prove his point: He bet that he'd shave one side of his mustache and nobody would notice it. He visited a dozen clubs, where he was greeted by the clubowners, songwriters, songpluggers—and nobody noticed the half-mustache.

During the United Auto Workers Convention last week, Walter Reuther, who had just been re-elected president, visited a regional meeting of a southern UAW group. Its regional director had just been reelected by acclamation, and he suggested that both he and Reuther celebrate their elections with a drink. Reuther never drinks, and told him so . . . "Now's the time," said the director. "If you take this one little drink, I'll drink this 8-ounce glassful." Teetotaler Reuther took the bourbon drink; the regional director drank the glassfull of bourbon . . . "If we elect Walter Reuther often enough," said the director later, "we may yet make a drinking man out of him."

The Unseen Audience

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

Learning to Appreciate the Young-'uns

The very young children in the family often become a "pain in the neck" to older brothers or sisters. If the latter have major responsibility in caring for junior brothers or sisters they miss out on a lot of fun with youngsters of their own age. Younger children also are likely to disturb precious possessions. It's hard, too, to understand why the little kids act in such "babyish" ways.

It's a good thing to let older children in on the whys and wherefores of small youngsters' behavior. Some simple explanations of a youngster's need for attention, the slow growth of understanding and other such things may help the older ones in the family to live more satisfyingly with the young 'uns.

Some high schools are providing opportunities for both boys and girls to spend some time working in nursery schools with three-and four-year-olds. Many a parent reports that such experiences are most helpful in building understanding that carries over into the home. And, of course, experience with nursery school children helps guarantee the development of better parents in the future. Perhaps you and your neighbors can persuade your school people that they ought to include such activities in the high-school curriculum.

This Funny World

"All you're going to do is buy a lot of junk out of THEIR attic and store it in OURS"

TRY IT — FIVE FUNNY FINGER FOLKS

We all love puppet shows because we like to see little "actors" perform. You will have to help them into their costumes since they are so tiny they can't help themselves. Carefully remove one end of each of five peanuts and take out the nuts so that the shell can be slipped on over your finger tips. Draw faces on each shell character with pen and ink or paint them on in color.

To the top of each tiny peanut shell head glue yarn hair and odd-shaped hats. Make each finger puppet as different a character as possible. Dangling arms can be tied upon the neck of each figure.

Buttons and costumes can be painted right on your fingers. With a little pactice and a few words your five funny finge folks can be made to bow, nod, laugh and shake their heads. Have an entire show at your finger tips!

What's the Verdict?

ORCHARD VS. CHEMISTRY

Q. Bough had a large orchard. When he planted it, the nearby city was largely commercial. During the war, several industries were established there. One, a chemical plant just inside the city limits, has grown so large that fumes from it befog Bough's farm, harming the fruit trees and threatening to ruin his orchard. He wants to enjoin the chemical company from continuing to loose the harmful fumes. If this were done, the company would have either to cease operating altogether or install devices costing 10 times the value of the farm. The company employs thousands. Will the farmer get his injunction?

A. The farmer is entitled to use his land as he sees fit without injury to others. So is the chemical company. Since the chemical company is using its property to the detriment of the farmer, it is in the wrong and will have to do something in the farmer's behalf. But the prohibitive cost of the protective devices, in comparison with the farm's value, plus the fact that the company employs thousands, means the injunction should be denied because the farmer could be compensated in annual damages.

My Memories

There are a thousand memories . . . That haunt my life today . . . And some I want to keep and some . . . I want to put away . . . There are the memories of you'h . . . And songs I used to sing . . . And all the happy moments that . . . Companionship could bring . . . The dreams that used to join the stars . . . In blessing every night . . . With glory and adventure and . . . A world forever bright . . . And then there are the errors and . . . The failures on my books . . . Including all the sins concealed . . . Where no one ever looks . . . I have a thousand memories . . . I never can forget . . . And there are some I treasure now . . . And some that I regret.

Yep—Picking Winners Is Tough Way to Make An Easy Living

Most people who bet on horse races consult form sheets before laying their wagers. The theory is that by studying a steed's past performances, some idea of his future form can be gained.

Obviously, then, the form sheets are of dubious value unless they are accurate and comprehensive.

However I have received several complaints that the past performances shown in the official programs at the current Laurel Raceway meeting fail to measure up to these specifications.

Here's the gist of the beefs I've heard from harness fans:

1. The program seldom showed any more than an entry's three latest starts.

2. "Lengths-behind-the-leader" were shown only at the finish, not at the quarter, half and stretch.

3. Many listings for horses which previously ran at Rosecroft fail to agree with the statistics given in the official, copyrighted Rosecroft charts. (Laurel officials reply: "Why must our charts on Rosecroft performances necessarily have to agree with Rosecroft's records? Couldn't the Rosecroft figures have been inaccurate?")

4. There have been errors of omission, in which an entry was listed as having no races in 1948, whereas a matter of fact the entry had run many times during the year.

5. The public was not fully advised about horses which run sometimes as pacers and sometimes as trotters. For example, when the horse is entered as a pacer, his last previous start might not be listed, if in that race he ran as a trotter.

As one disgruntled loser put it to me: "It's tough enough to pick a winner if you've got a complete, accurate chart. At Laurel, you might as well let your wife pick 'em by the jockey's colors."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Five-month-old female Maltese kitten with four white paws; so well-mannered she won't even come into the basement without an invitation." (Glebe 1185.)

"Affectionate, gentle, tiger-striped female cat and four small kittens; she's expecting again." (Adams 8633.)

"Housebroken 7-month-old male kitten, loves children." (Axminster 8300, extension 236.)

"One white rabbit." (Otis 9172.)

"Baby kitten," (Appleton 2547.)

"Gentle young gray mother cat and 2-month-old black kitten." (Wisconsin 4134.)

"Beautiful all-white female in distress needs home with folks who don't object to kittens." (Axminster 0412 after 6 p. m.)

"Ten-month-old pup, too active for apartment, needs yard; mixed breed." (Ludlow 3-2838.)

"All-white, gentle-bred pure alley kitten; father was aristocratic, but a deserter." (Taylor 3369.)

"Three lovely 8-week-old kittens; trained." (Lincoln 3-7089.)

"Very nice black and white cat, year old; we're moving into an apartment." (District 0023.)

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

Bill Houston of 4015 71st. ave., Landover Hills, Md., reports that there seems to be a slight conflict in signs on the south side of H st. nw., just east of 9th st.

The traffic signs say "No Standing 4:30 to 6 p. m." but the sign in a store window reads "Curb Service 3:30 to 6 p. m."

PERSONAL NOTES

Judy Goldstein, 1440 Chapin st. nw.: The law regarding the display of the American Flag is very explicit; the arrangement complained about by the Marines is definitely wrong.

Mrs. G. S. Stern, 1440 Chapin st. nw.: Don't be discouraged. Members of the District Liners Club insist that I have rotten taste; they say I reject the best of their contributions, and print the worst of them. As a matter of fact, they're planning a mimeographed periodical of their own in which they'll print the stuff I reject. They're willing to bet it'll be better reading than this column.

SOUNDS LOGICAL

Leonidas (Santa Claus) Beall of 6420 Western ave., Chevy Chase, Md., reports:

"I've discovered the cause of divorce. Marriage."

OVERHEARD

"Yeah, the down payment ain't much, but gee whiz, you'll be paying on it for the rest of your life—if you live that long."

Hoffman Protests Aid for Spain

By Drew Pearson

Economic Administrator Paul Hoffman has written a strong private letter to Senator Vandenberg, protesting the plan to award a special 50-million-dollar gift to Spain.

Hoffman

This grant for the Spanish dictator, to be taken out of Marshall Plan funds, was slipped into the ECA appropriations bill by Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, Democrat. It has aroused vigorous opposition from Protestant churchmen because of their contention that Protestants in Spain are given only second-class citizenship, and that the same principle of religious discrimination exists in Spain against Protestants as exists in the Iron Curtain countries against Catholics.

Hoffman, in his letter, avoided religious references, but warned:

"Because no work has yet started on a recovery program for Spain, it would be most unwise to attempt to gear such a program immediately into the present European recovery program. It would also violate the principle of European initiative. Furthermore, it would create the most difficult political problems for us if we were to attempt to force the OEEC to admit Spain. Admission of new members should, it seems to me, be initiated in the OEEC itself.

"Before granting or loaning Spain money," Hoffman continued, "we should first request that Spain herself develop a recovery program, just as we have insisted that the participating countries develop their recovery program."

Nevertheless, the Senate Appropriations Committee granted Dictator Franco a 50-million-dollar share in the Marshall Plan, without even requiring him to tell how he was going to use the money—though this was demanded of all the other nations.

Note: In addition to church pressure, two Spanish diplomats worked secretly with Senator McCarran and Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico to put across the 50 million dollars. They were Ambassador-at-Large Jose Felix de Lequerica, wartime Ambassador to Vichy, who came to Washington several months ago for the official purpose of "inspecting the embassy" and has been here ever since; also Counselor Pablo Merry del Val, nephew of the late Cardinal Rafael Merry del Val.

While President Truman is preaching Federal spending, he also is practicing economy—in veterans' hospitals. He has ordered 16,000 beds cut out of 24 hospitals, even though Congress already has appropriated the money for these beds.

All the persuasion Senator Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, could summon, didn't change the President's mind on this the other day. Truman bluntly replied that he was standing on his original decision.

Pepper then pleaded with the President to take up each veterans' hospital individually, but he shook his head. He had acted upon the recommendations of the Veterans' Administration, itself, he retorted.

"Won't you designate someone we can argue with on this?" begged Pepper.

"All right, argue with the Bureau of the Budget," Truman suggested brusquely.

Pepper acted as spokesman for two Veterans of Foreign Wars leaders who accompanied him to the White House. They were Lyall Beggs, commander, and Omar Ketchum, legislative chief, whose mission was to invite the President to attend the VFW national convention beginning August 22 in Miami.

Truman promised to make a "flying trip" to the convention if Congress didn't load his desk with too many last-minute bills. And, in passing, the President dropped a hint as to when Congress might adjourn.

Turning to Pepper, Truman remarked: "I don't think there is a ghost of a chance of you fellows getting out of here until Labor Day."

Ketchum said he understood they were shooting for August 20.

"I think they will get out around Labor Day," Truman repeated.

COMMUNISM IN CUBA—Ambassador Robert Butler in Havana has warned the State Department that the Communists are going to launch a tremendous anti-American campaign throughout Latin America this summer. Butler learned from a Communist informant that this will be accompanied by a drive to seize control of shipping unions. The drive will be master minded from the Russian Embassy in Havana—the center of all Communist activity in the Western Hemisphere.

HOUSE FOR $5900—Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has quietly built two attractive, low-cost homes—just to prove it can be done. He worked out the plans with Richard Barr, a Chicago architect. Each home will sell, complete with electric utilities, for $5900—and still leave a fair profit. Ordinarily the same homes would sell at twice that price. Yet Woods figures the cost can be cut another $1000 by mass production.
